Although St. Francis Prep was founded some hundred years ago, its present location is relatively recent. In fact, we, the Class of 1957, have witnessed the passing of the first group of students to begin and complete all their high school days here on Sixth Street. This fact has provided us with theme. For we purpose to record our impressions of these trail-blazing generations.

In sum our reaction was that the Prep, attuned to the markedly industrial surroundings wherein it is now situated, has advanced on the tide of an ever-moving progress that must be to all of us, a stepping stone to the future.

The smoky majesty of the City spreads itself about our school. Steam, steel, and stone encircling us attest to a pulsating activity, ever bent toward progress.

It was perhaps inevitable that the energetic spirit of this external environment make its way into the Prep, and once there, impress itself upon the spirit of Saint Francis. Thus, while factories about us busy themselves with their atoms and acetates, the Prep has launched an intensive program in both scholarship and activities that appears still far from having reached the limits of its ever widening scope.

At our new location then, in the midst of an industrial society, we have seen a symbol which parallels the many advancements made at the new Saint Francis — and this is our theme . . .

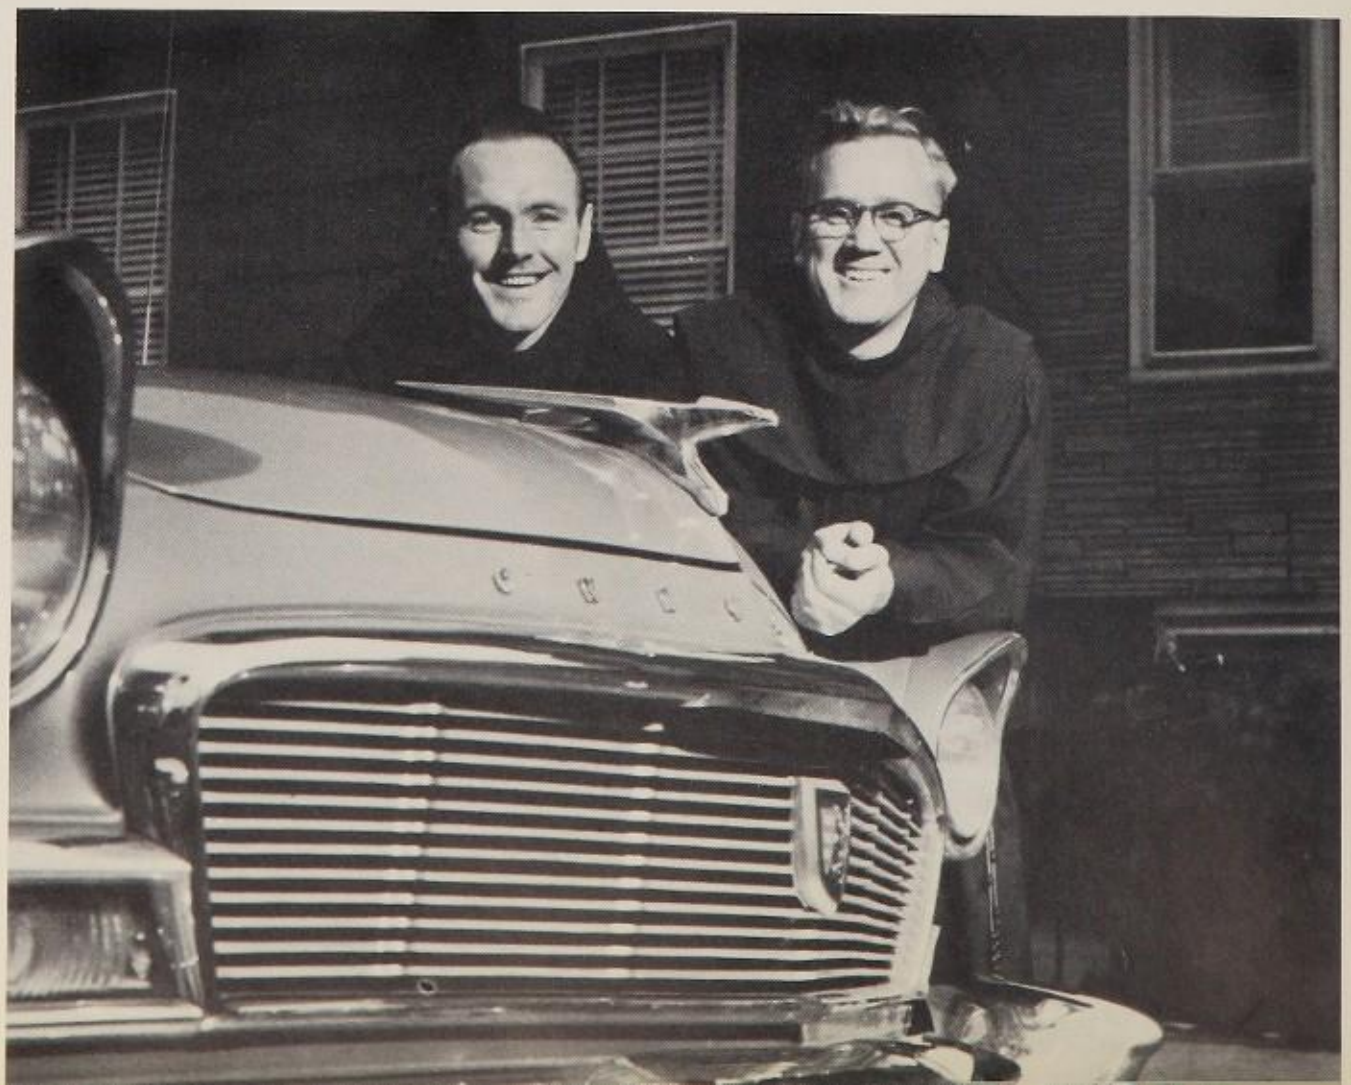
Brothers Regis and Vincent direct both the preliminary classroom work and the subsequent highway training in the Prep's Driver Education Program accredited by the American Automobile Association.



Mapped against a rural background, a St. Francis student wings his way through training maneuvers. To date some forty boys have completed this course which includes actual flight training in landings, take-offs, dives, climbs, and turns.

Guiding a student towards his best future is an integral part of education at St. Francis Prep. In the past few years the Guidance Department has expanded to include a job placement program, scholarship club, career files, educational forums, and extensive testing programs coupled with personal conferences as that pictured above between Alan Weatherwax and Brother Blaise, the Assistant Guidance Director.

embryonic artistry.

Cultural progress has been evidenced by the distinctive honors given the orchestra, dance band, choral group, and piano ensemble of the Music Department; and by outstanding publications awards accorded to both the San Fran and the Seraph. The latest cultural addition was the organization of the St. Francis Literary Quarterly.

lessons in leadership

From what was once a mere figurehead, our present Student Council has become a solidly influential organization which has engineered many developments in school policy.

the flame of a spirit

As ever, the characteristic and intensive spirit of Saint Francis goes on unabated among the faculty and among the student body.

muscular momentum

The first generations of students passing through the Prep at its new location have compiled an astonishing record of some fifteen Varsity City Championship in the five major sports. Thus, athletically, the record speaks for itself.

principal's message

Progress is a law of life. Impelled by a Divine predestination all creatures, but one, inevitably move forward toward their maturity and perfections. And, as we all know, that one exception is mankind. In virtue of his gift of choosing, a man may or may not arrive at the summit of his potential.

The Prep has sincerely attempted to place before you the means for the full development of your varied talents. Thus, intellectually, the curriculum now includes courses ranging from advanced algebra to the study of Vergil. Sports-wise, our teams are nationally famous. Socially, the faculty-sponsored program is more intensive than ever before. Aesthetically, the Music and Publication Departments have consistently drawn honors in competitions, some of which were national. In extra-curricula activities, projects have been undertaken that might possibly have exposed us to a charge of "extremism"—under school supervision prepsters fly the skies, sail the seas, and drive the highways. All then should find here some scope for their inclinations.

An almost proverbial characteristic of human beings is that a man never stays just as he is; if he does not progress, he must recede. To paraphrase St. Paul, when we were children we understood, thought, and acted as children; but now that we are about to become men let us put away the things of childhood and press forward to the things that lie ahead.

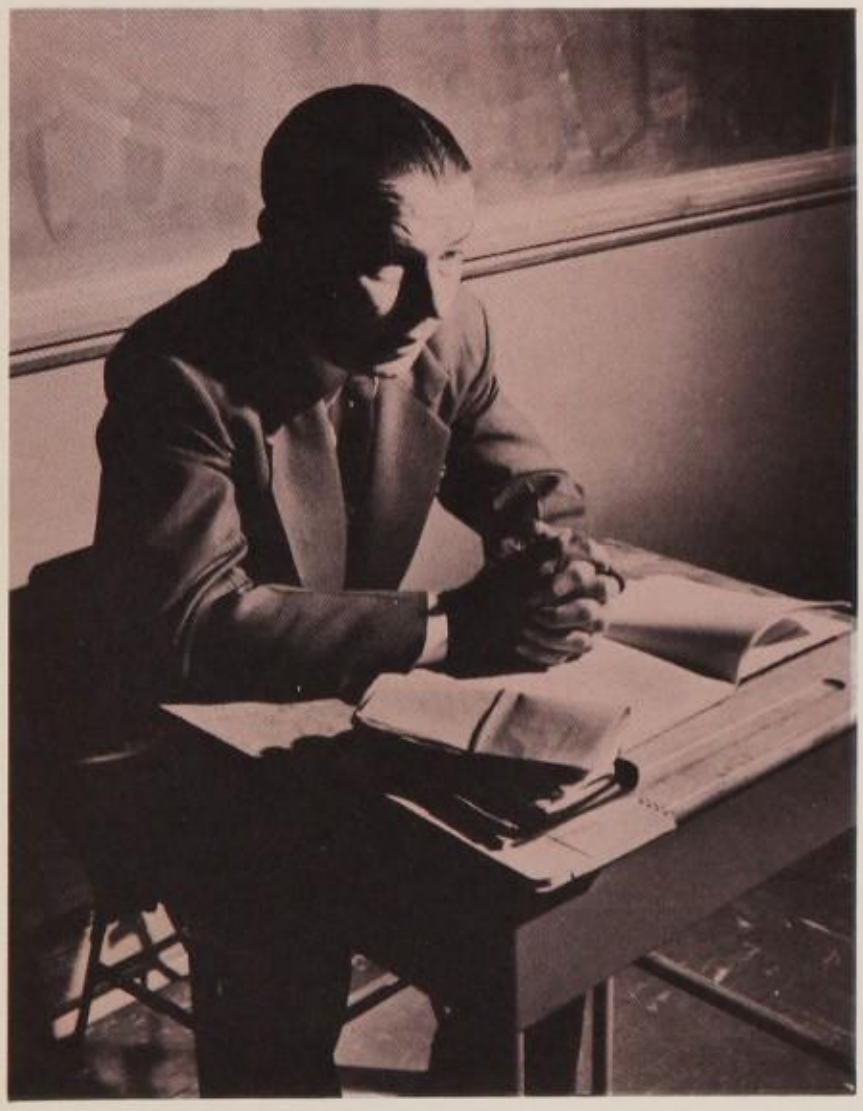
One quarter of a century of service. For two traditional figures at Saint Francis, the year 1957 marks the completion of their twenty-fifth year as members of the faculty.



MR. LAWRENCE TOWERS. In looking back over the years, Mr. Towers is recalled as moderator of Senior Proms; as a familiar figure in many student skirmishes while fulfilling his duties as official collector of all sorts of tithes; as a dispenser of texts during some seventeen years spent in the book store; and as a teacher of Latin whose phenomenal success with Regents examinations was recognized (in citing only one example) by Cambridge Publisher's selecting him as editor for their second and third year review books.

MR. THOMAS BOORAS. Here or anywhere stands the dean of swimming coaches. The massive accomplishments of his teams range from Private to Catholic high school championships; from Varsity to Novice and Frosh titles; from individual to dual meet titles; from a conceded State championship to breaking the World's Interscholastic Record for the 200 meter relay. Perhaps a statistic may best sum up his contribution. No less than fifty-nine distinct championships have come to Saint Francis through the unrivalled coaching of Mr. Booras.

dawn of a new

"We have come into being in the fresh glory of dawn, and a day of almost unthinkable length stretches before us with unimaginable opportunities for accomplishment. Our descendents of far off ages, looking down this long vista of time from the other end, will see our present age as the misty morning of the world's history; our contemporaries of today will appear as dim heroic figures who fought their way through jungles of ignorance, error, superstition, to discover truth, to learn how to harness the forces of nature, and to make a world worthy for mankind to live in."

Although Sir James Jeans' lucid depiction of our world as caught on the threshold of a new era refers chiefly to scientific advancements, it implies also, the true bases for honest progress in all directions. Humility, zeal, and responsibility — these are the elements of true progress.

Bernard of Chartres once described the men of each generation as dwarfs seated on the shoulders of giants. His simile intended to illustrate the humility that always accompanies true progress. If we are to see more things than the ancients, it is not because of the keenness of our sight or the greatness of our stature. But it is simply that they have lent us their own. Thus we must always regard the traditions of the past, else it becomes necessary for each generation to repeat the errors, rather than benefit by the successes of its predecessors.

To humility must be added zeal. Knowledge unearthed by the past has been laid at our doorstep. Should we not utilize and enlarge upon it, man would arrive at what might be termed a stagnation of culture. Through advanced experimentation and an enhanced education whereby succeeding generations are given more than was received, man rightly satisfies his inate impulse to strive toward a point of maximum power and maximum opportunity.

Mammoth struggles and sacrifices strung together over a period of centuries have reduced barbarism and released the individual for creative purposes. Today, however the achievements of a million years of human experience seem fragile and uncertain. All could conceivably be obliterated by a political decision to throw a single switch. Consequently, in conjunction with the new powers placed in his hands, a new and greater responsibility has been thrust upon man. Dependent upon this sense of responsibility, he can either preserve and extend the world's accumulation of knowledge or, shatter it forever beyond recognition.

Our school has incorporated the threefold conditions of true progress. In addition to maintaining time honored instruction, the program has constantly expanded to meet the needs of an advancing society; and, by guiding the spiritual growth of its students St. Francis strives to instill in all a moral responsibility. The San Fran of 1957, in its presentation of recent advancements, is therefore in no way a belittlement of those who have gone before us; rather is it an assertion that we have been true to them in using what they have given us. No ghost rising from the past would have desired to see the same Prep, for stagnation would have been indolence.

The banter on the following pages illustrates one side of classroom life. That is the humorous anecdote that every good teacher employs when the situation warrants it. While some may construe it to be levity of little consequence, a wise man knows the value of a sense of humor.

Marvelous indeed are the deeds of precision and the great scope of accomplishments which are tangible productions of the modern machine. Behind the scenes, as all realize, designers, engineers, and draftsmen engaged themselves in painstaking testing and improving. These men account for much of the success of the end product.

In a parallel manner, our instructors work at shaping and molding the student body, the raw material placed in their hands. Although vital to the life of the school, they too often seem to be in the background of student consciousness. Consequently their worth is generally taken for granted. Nevertheless, any man that ever went by the name of "brilliant", from the philosopher to the electronic engineer, had to acknowledge one common influence. This is the actuation of a teacher who initially began the instructions and inspirations that ultimately led to success. As the time-honored Confucius said, "In all things success depends on previous preparation, and without preparation there is sure to be failure."

Here we leave a last and inadequate expression of thanks to the faculty. By tempering our judgment with a soundness based upon high Christian idealism, they have truly set us upon the road of progress.

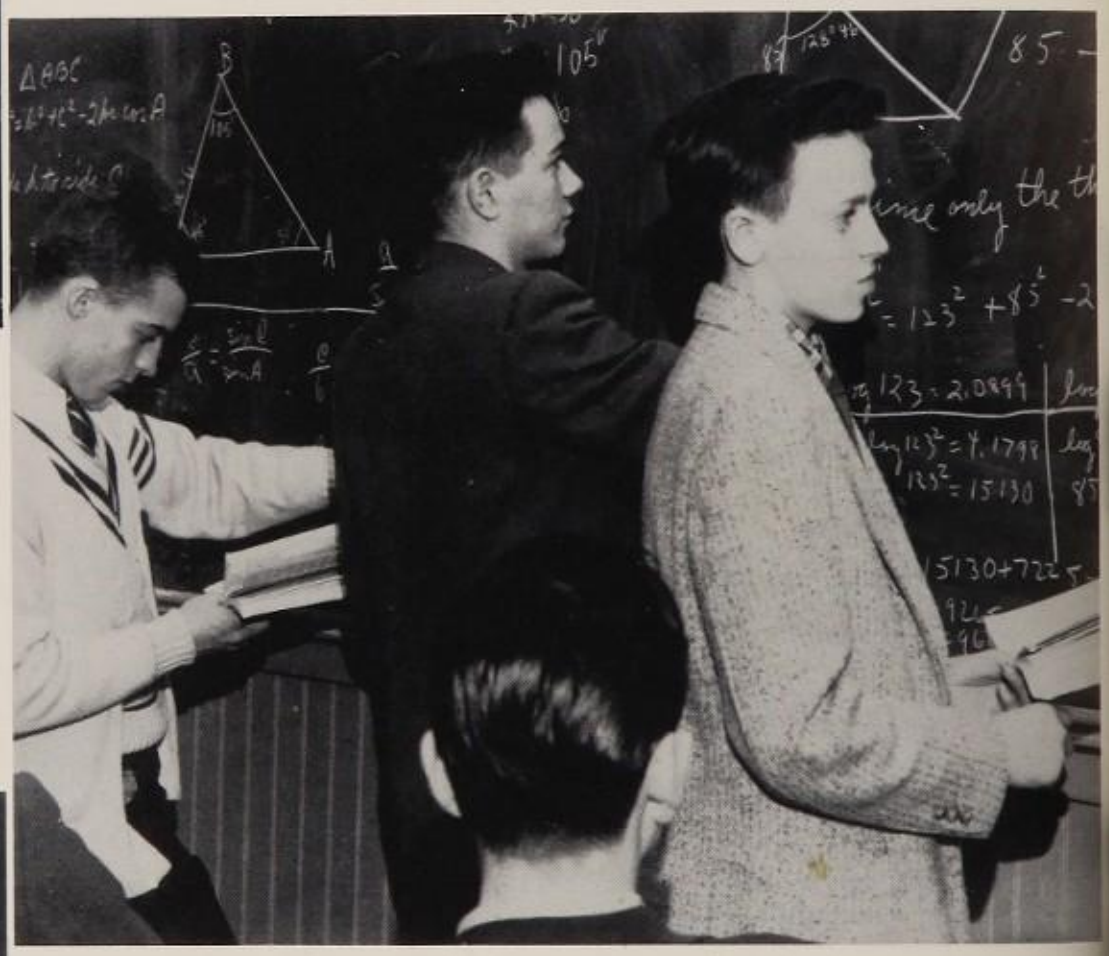
the faculty works first

Science

Biology and physics comprise the main courses of the science program. Two well equipped laboratories provide a practical knowledge of the subject matter. The successful completion of the Biology Certified Examination and the Physics Regents afford one and one-half credits toward a Regents Diploma. Recent steps to expand the science program resulted in this year's initiation of a supplementary course in chemistry.

Mathematics

An unusually extensive math curricula begins with Elementary Algebra in the first year. Plane Geometry is required in the second, Intermediate Algebra in the third, and Trigonometry in the fourth year. In addition to these compulsory courses, Solid Geometry and Advanced Algebra are offered as electives. A total of four and one-half Regents credits may be acquired in these varied courses.



Religion

The organization, the laws, and the truths of Catholicism are studied in the Freshman classes. This first rather general view is intensified by a specific consideration of the Commandments of God and of the Church in the Sophomore year. As the student advances further he is given courses in the History of the Church, the Mass, and the Old and New Testaments. Also undertaken are encyclicals prescribed by the Diocesan Syllabus.

through the medium of

THE CURRICULUM

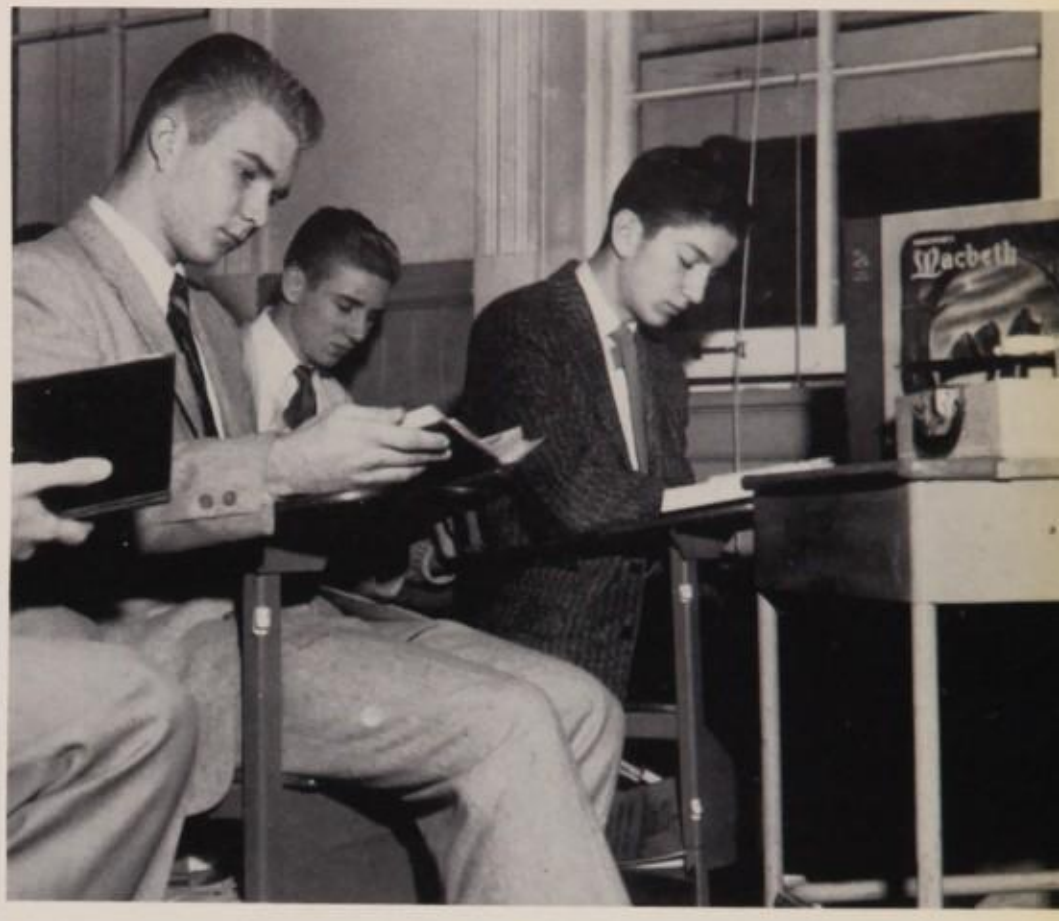
Besides secondary courses in music, typing, and physical training, the scope of instruction falls under six major headings.

History

A four year program in history begins with a one year course in the economic institutions of the modern world. This is followed by a survey of World History from its beginnings to the present time. The last years are occupied with a study of the Constitution and of current events. The History Regents is taken in the Senior year.

Languages

Latin and French are offered; the former for four years of study and the latter for a maximum of three. In Latin the fundamentals of grammar are taught and the works of Caesar, Cicero and Vergil are read. French students cover basic grammar and read selected short stories and portions of Les Miserables. Each student is required to take two years of each language; the third and fourth years are electives.



English

A thorough review of grammar, vocabulary building, and modern methods of reading techniques initiate the study of English. The first steps toward larger compositions and readings from the basic literary forms along with an investigation of the particular structures of each of these forms is carried on in the second year. For the upperclassmen the syllabus includes surveys in both American and English Literature, advanced composition with attention to style, the research paper, Parliamentary Procedure, letter writing, and library usage.

Remember, literature is a reflection of life . . . All right you guys, one more quiz like the last one and we stay till four. I've had enough . . . Now, on your feet and use the method I gave you to break that word into syllables . . . MISTERRR FREVOLAAAA has the answer, I'm sure. Come on Sonny, what's the answer? Maybe you'll remember if I walk down there? . . . Egads! Is this Grand Central Station? If one more person comes through that door, I'll scream . . . For your dissertation you may not chose a subject like "Raising Petunias on the Moon" . . . Gentlemen, next week promises to be very interesting. I'm collecting Book Reports and checking notebooks. Now look I gave you plenty of time. I want them in on Monday. Remember what happened to Grendel!

In place of the usual presentation of the faculty as so many robot purveyors of a curriculum, we have chosen to view each of them in the honest individuality for which he will always be remembered.

How many of you went to grammar school? . . . Gentlemen, I bet I could give a fifth grade test on addition, subtraction, multiplication or division, and you'd fail it . . . What angle am I working with? Here are a few tidbits for you to play around with . . . Easy now, don't push the panic button . . . How did I get the answer?—plucked it out of the sky; how else? It's what? It's in your hat and over your ears, that's what . . . What do you do with your head when you're not hammering nails? . . . Have you ever seen that before? No? Wanna bet? . . . Come on, this stuff's easy . . . If you have a question raise your hand . . . Well, they tell me that all kinds of people make up a world.

MR. PATRICK GLEASON

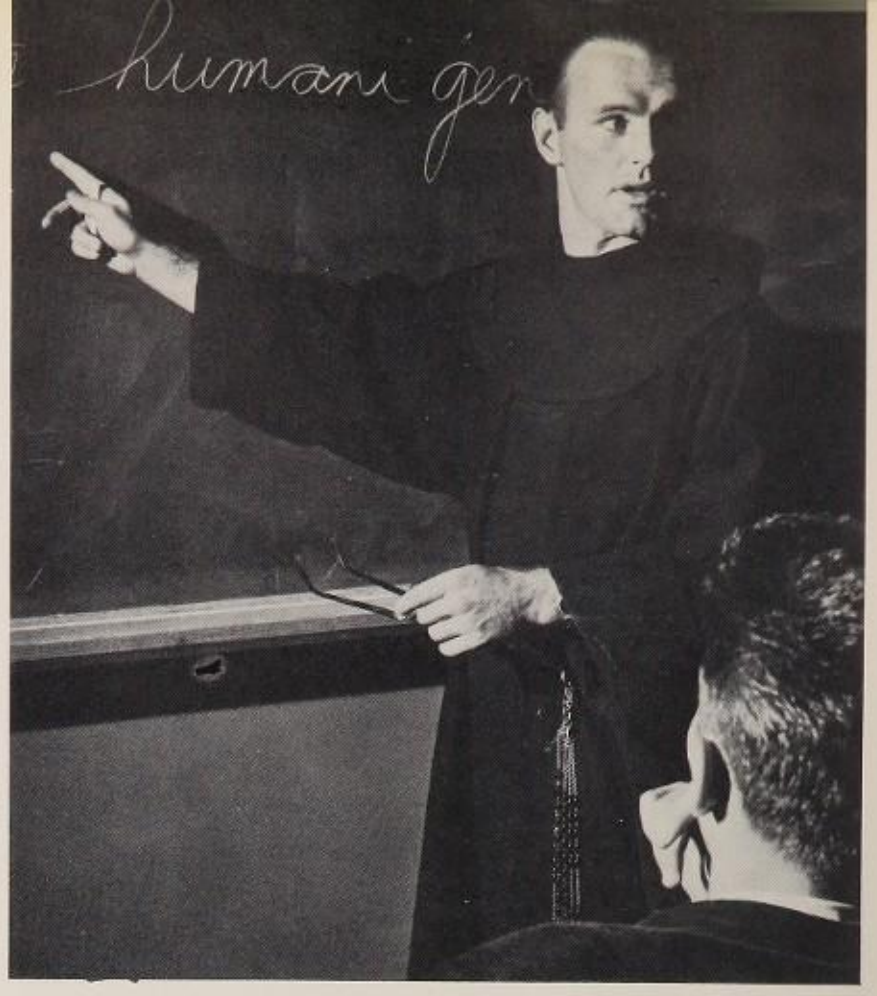
Boys, today we are going to study about the amoeba. Do you remember yesterday when we studied about cells; well, the amoeba is a one celled animal . . . Yes son, what do you want? What! You've lost your pen and have nothing to write with! Use your head . . . Now getting back to the amoeba. Take out your books and I'll give you notes on it . . . Speaking of alligators did you hear about the lady who walked into a store for a pair of alligator shoes? The clerk asked her what size he took . . . In closing boys, remember never to kick anyone in the stomach, especially when his back is turned.



REV. BROTHER REGIS, O.S.F.

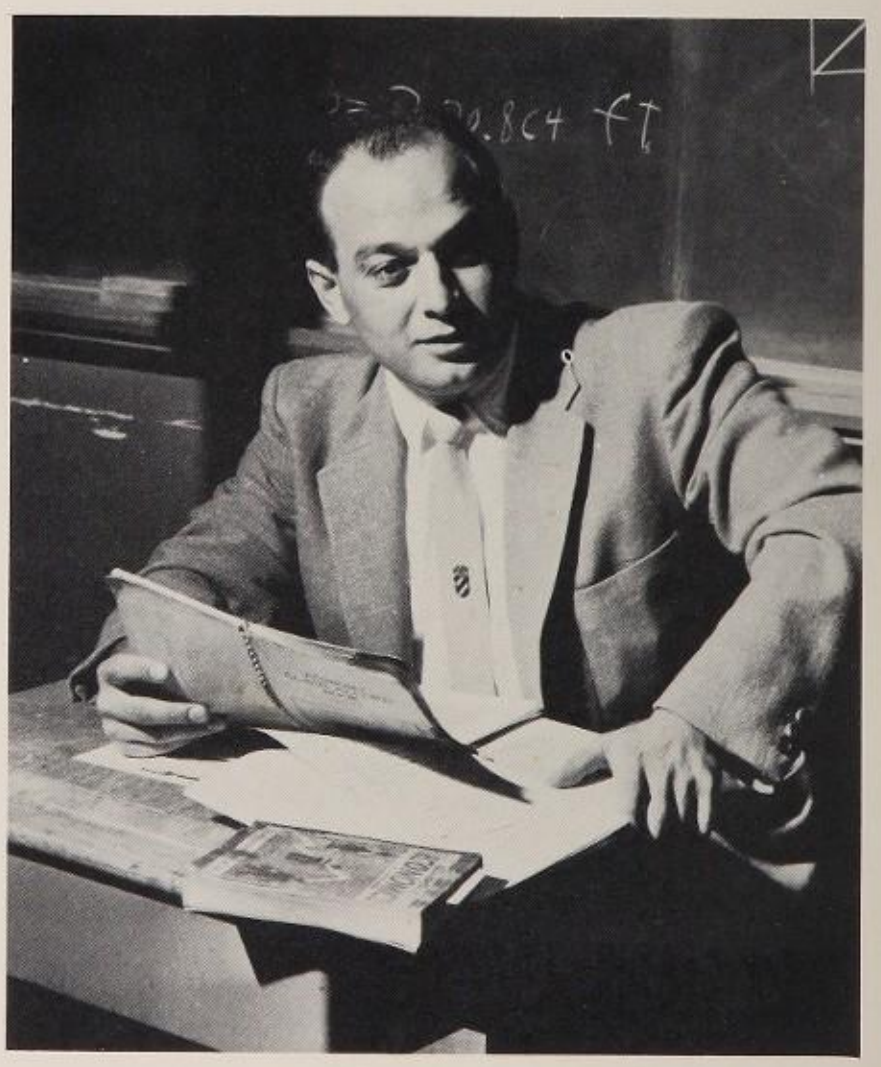
O.K. fellas let's hustle this test along. Now don't get all shook. Take your time; you've got twenty seconds . . . NO! You're spoofing—tell me you're spoofing . . . ANY QUESTIONS? . . . YOU, what's your name? Wilson? One of these days junior you're going to say the wrong thing—and that's all Wilson, that's all . . . Watch it! There's a harpy. Boy! They're flying low today . . . Sonny, you're treading on dangerous ground . . . Hey Mac, have you been smoking those loaded cigarettes again? Boy! You're in a constant state of shock . . . Tell me Ray, at what age did your mind begin to disintegrate? . . . Teddy, if that D.A. isn't gone by tomorrow, I'll cut it off myself.



REV. BROTHER FABIAN, O.S.F.

Class has begun boys, so let's all be quiet. Now take out your homework and we'll check it. Those without the homework will lose the usual credits . . . Remember that there may not be much of me but what there is, is plenty solid . . . A short man may cast a great shadow . . . Now take out your English books and turn to page 26 and we'll read about the subject of the sentence. To obtain the subject, boys you ask the question who or what before the verb. Make sure you understand this because we might have a little old quiz.

REV. BROTHER ROBERT, O.S.F.

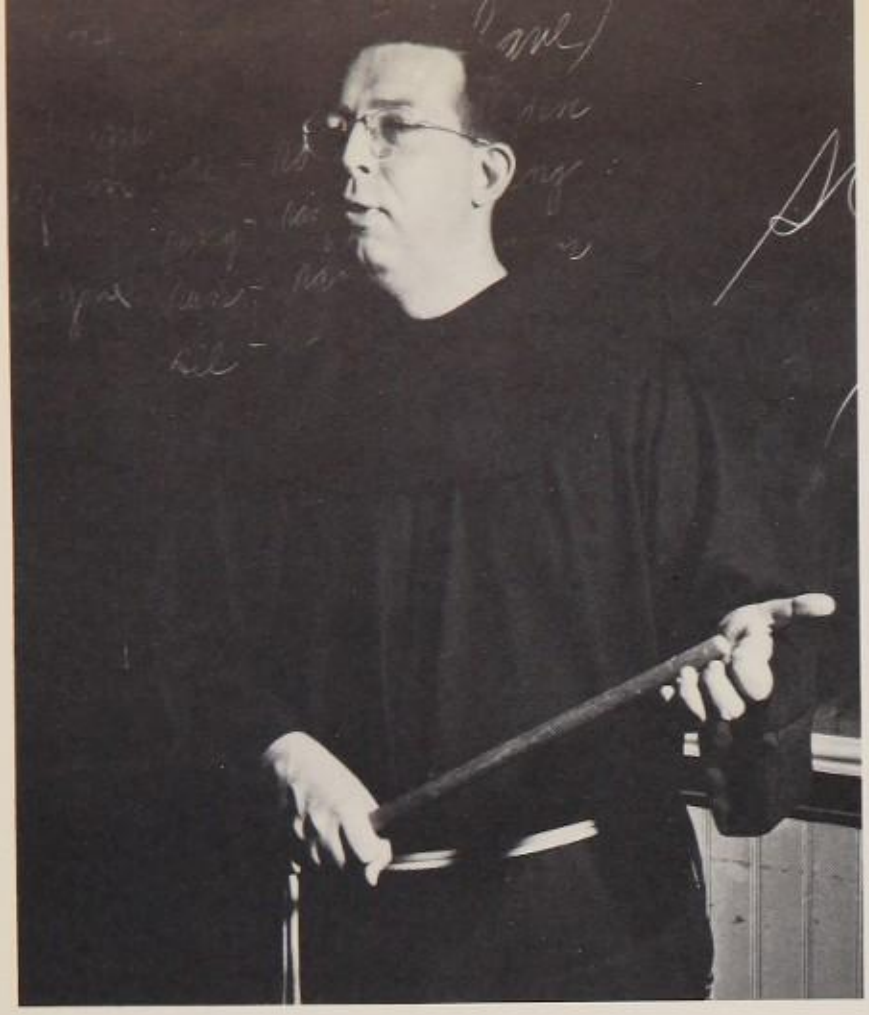
Anthonian Society, Tennis, Guidance, Glee Club

Good morning gentlemen; it's a beautiful day for a test. Half sheet of paper . . . I've noticed this class has the strongest eyeball muscles in the school. It seems strange you exercise them only during a test . . . Take out your red pencils to correct the test . . . What! You don't have one . . . Write this sentence twenty-five times . . . "As a student at Saint Francis Prep I must come to class with the proper writing utensils. Because I didn't, I am writing this" . . . If you continue to talk you may add two sentences to your homework. All right add two sentences to your homework.



REV. BROTHER DE SALES, O.S.F.

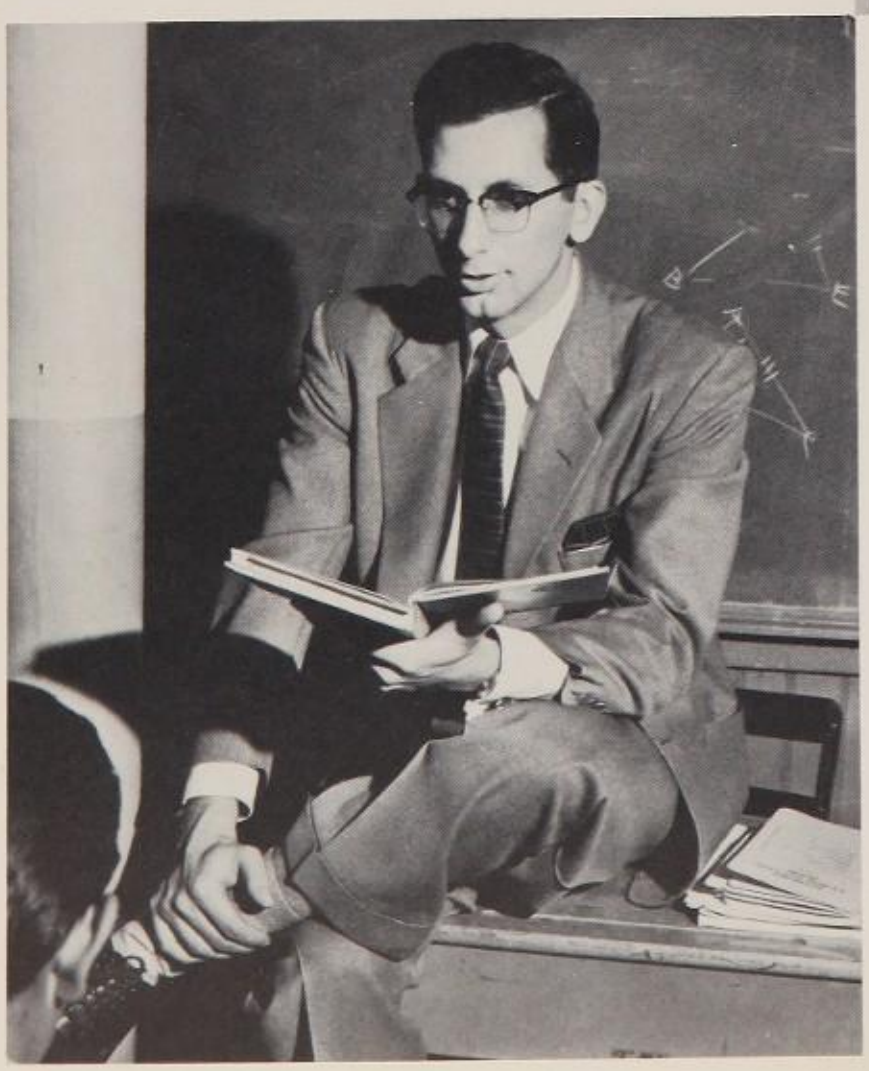
All right, knock it off . . . Hey are you going to sleep on me? . . . If you want to lie down bring a blanket with you . . . Don't argue with me . . . We'll put it in the classic form and if you get stuck use Alpha . . . How can you hear the announcements when you're talking? . . . Let's make a rule, if you don't do it this way I flunk you for the quarter . . . The more you keep your mouth shut the smarter I think you are . . . I do the thinking here . . . Santee was stupid. He threatened to go to the Supreme Court when he should have beat his chest and said I am heartily sorry for having offended thee . . . I can't graph infinity, I haven't got a blackboard long enough.



MR. ARTHUR MADDALONI

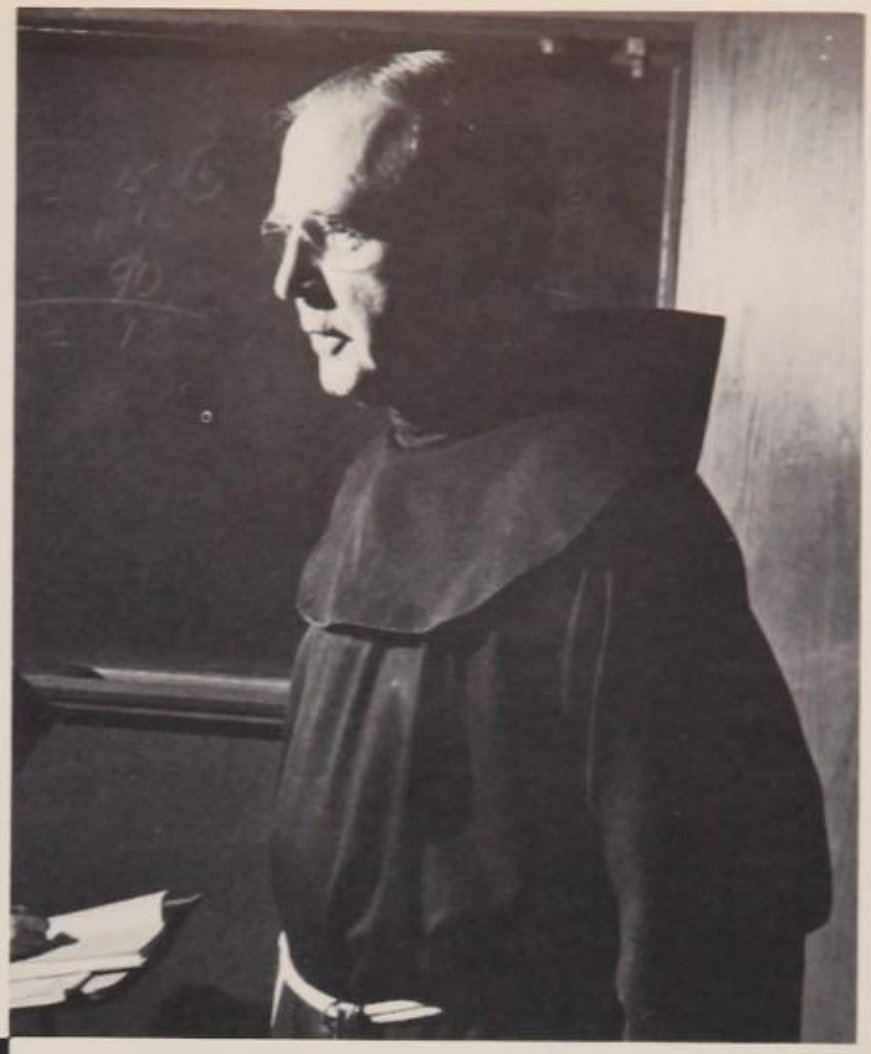
How about acting your age? A difficult feat I know but give it a good try . . . Take your time, but hurry up . . . Son, if I added up your marks and entered them as such, you still would not pass . . . You do not use the verb Faime "to take a bath". You use soap . . . On page 159 in the text, enter the first two columns of vocabulary into your notebook . . . How could you be so stupid? Do you just try hard or do you practice.



REV. BROTHER CHARLES, O.S.F.

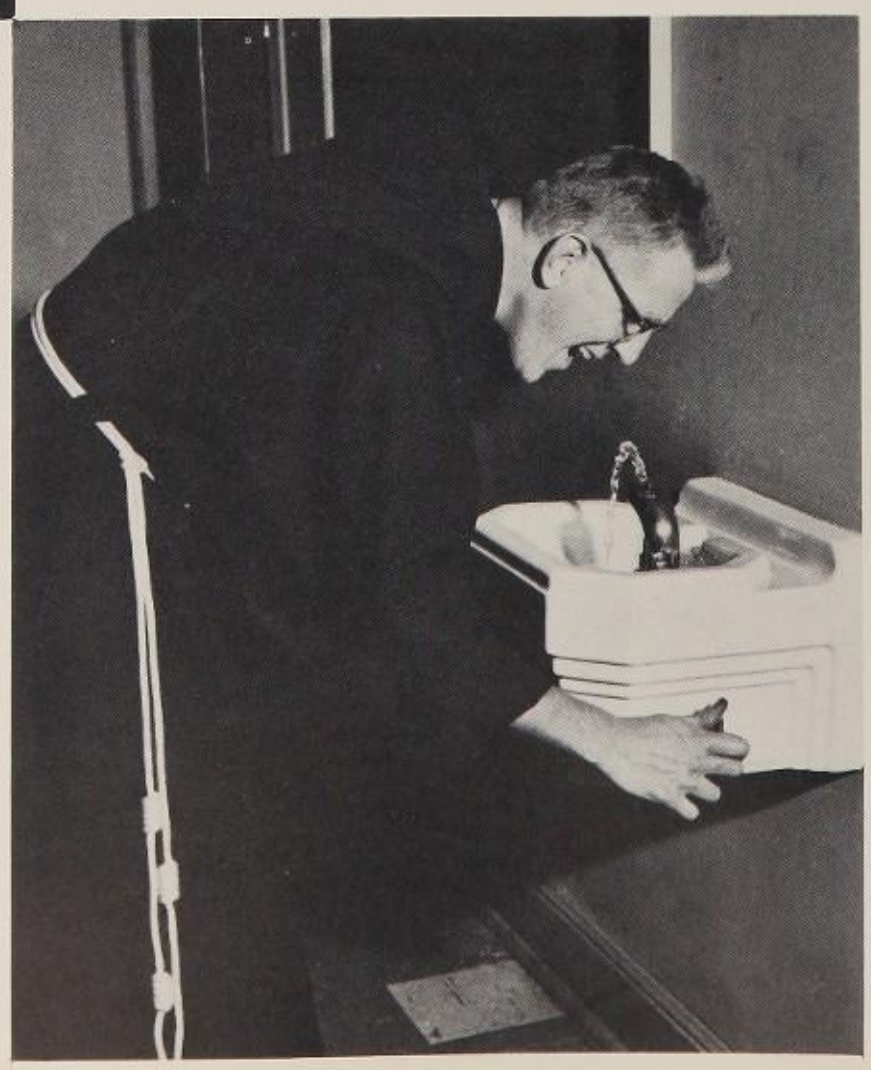
In the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. Amen . . . Morning Offering . . . Hail Mary . . . Apostles Creed . . . Take out last night's homework so I can check it . . . Here's the test from last week. As a whole they were good but there were a couple of failures . . . The marks ranged from 100%, the highest, to 70%, the lowest . . . The homework for next week is on the side blackboard. When you finish the test copy it . . . Now let's review the test and check all the answers. If there are any questions on it raise your hand.

REV. BROTHER LOUIS, O.S.F.

Biology, Mathematics
Powerboat Squadron, Galvani Society, Life Saving Course

I'm the sheriff. Those in the end seats are my deputies. Your job is to round up the homework every morning . . . Have you ever heard of osmosis? Well, you'll soon know about it. How does blood get to the cells? Do you know it? Well say it! OSMOSIS! . . . Close your eyes and think. What is oxidation? . . . I don't bother with rules—I just figure them out. But YOU!—YOU memorize the rules . . . Well gentlemen get ready to die. We are now going to turn on the gas. Can you smell it? . . . That's all gentlemen. Happy biological dreams till we meet tomorrow . . . SLAM!



REV. BROTHER PACIFICUS, O.S.F.

Thank you for answering that question . . . I know it's Monday and a dull day but wake up. Don't make me mad; I don't want to be . . . What's the matter with junior? Is he asleep? . . . All right, all right, come on let up on it . . . Well you could TRY to keep awake . . . If you'll bear with me a minute . . . If you don't shut up class you're going to write. Once more and I'm finished with you . . . No, I was not a member of the I.R.A.

REV. BROTHER LEONARD, O.S.F.

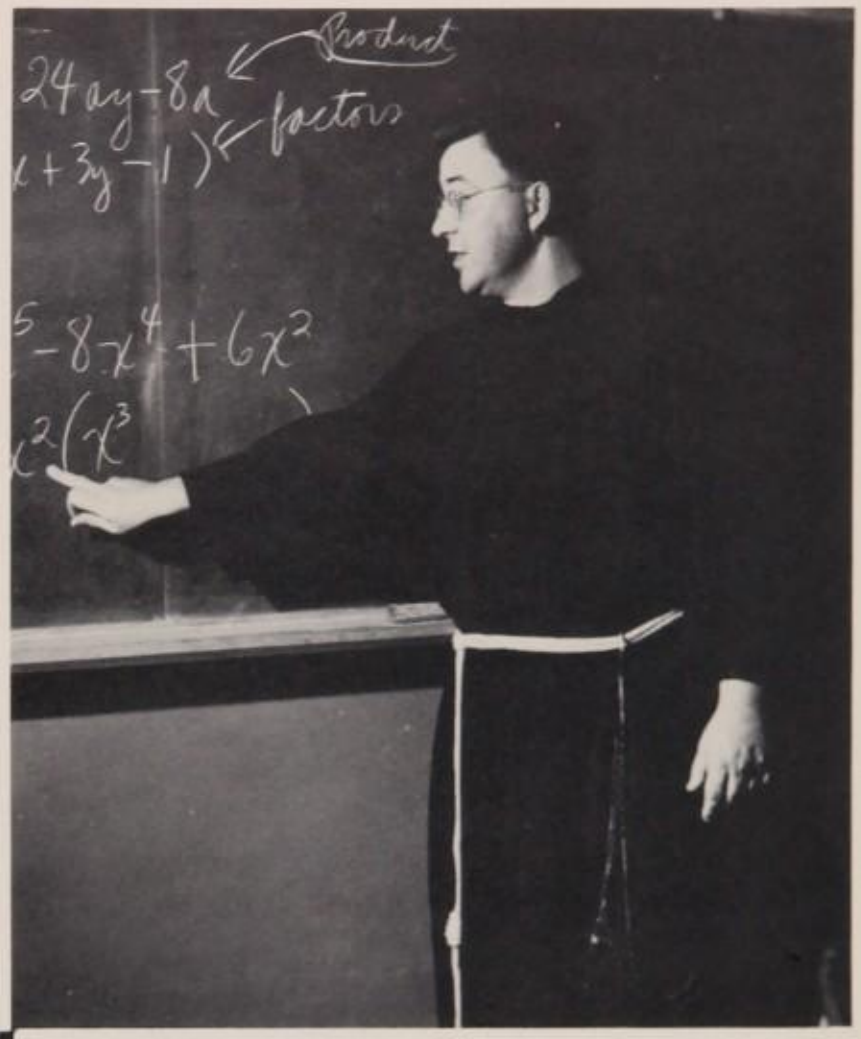
Voila—that's French . . . I'm silly that way, I follow the rules. I see some puzzled expressions . . . Why do men go fishing? For the Halibut . . . Any questions gents? . . . You're not practicing . . . ¸Look for a common factor¸ . . . Don't anyone of you call me Momma McDonald . . . He doesn't believe the rules . . . There goes my heart . . . I'm not a mind reader . . . You fellows look a little dazed . . . Correct . . . Any questions, whatsoever? . . . Besides being wrong it's stupid yet . . . Agreed . . . Notes to you to . . . Hah, what he say? . . . It can be done mentally but I'm not much of a mental . . . It's a handy trick but it's not true. Questions on it, however? . . . I beg your puddin? . . . I'll give you a clue—it's wrong . . . That's good work if you can get it but don't get caught.



REV. BROTHER WALTER, O.S.F.

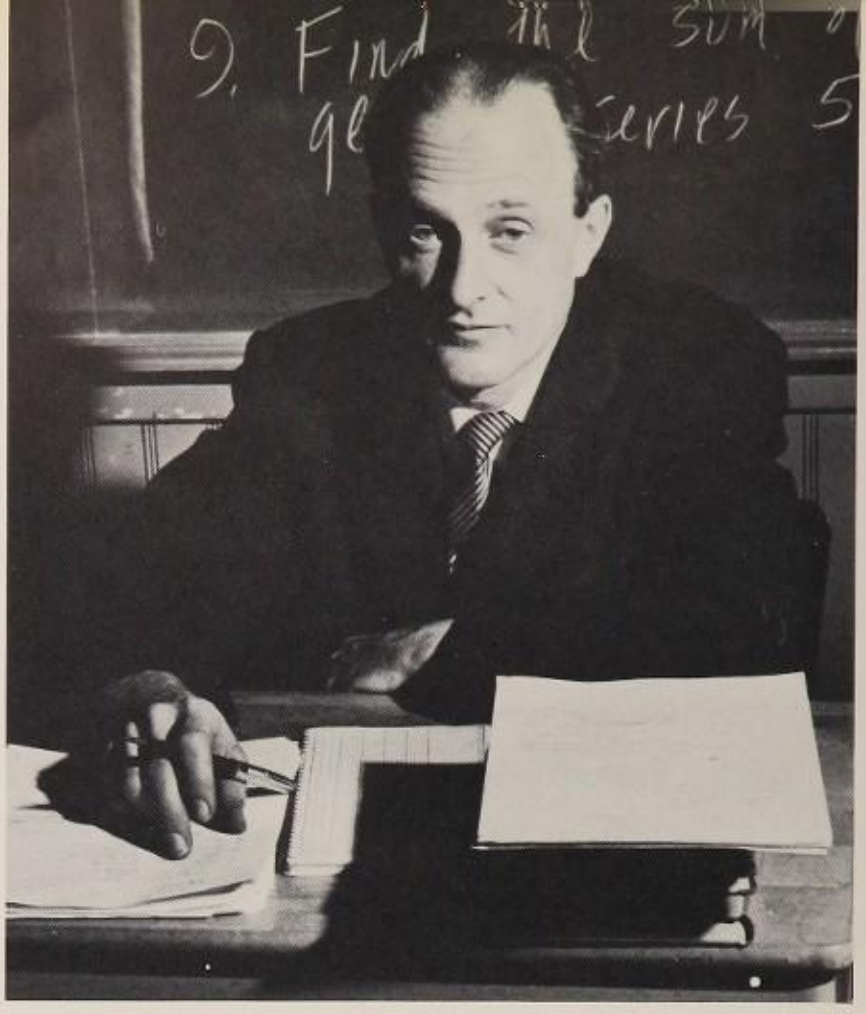
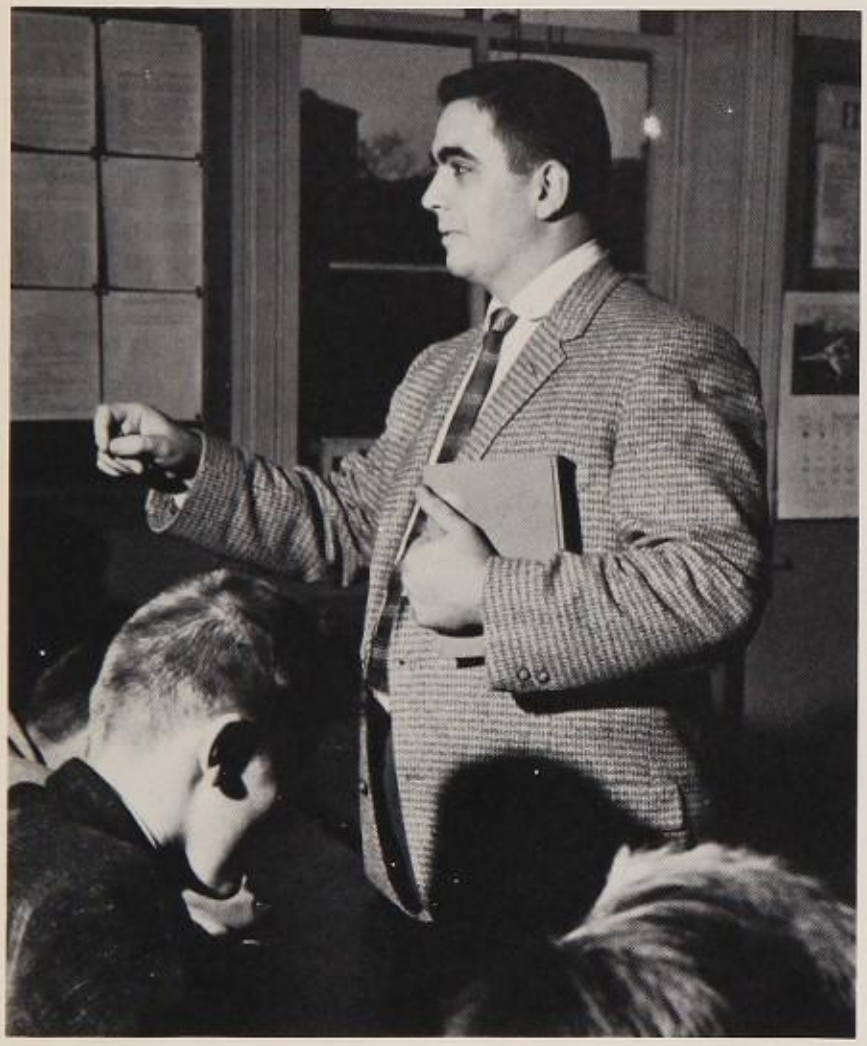
Please, keep your hands on the guide key! Keep your eyes on the copy, PLEASE! Strike the keys sharply, like an asp —that's a snake . . . Stop typing, please. I said please stop typing! . . . Keep the fingers curled over the guide keys, ready to strike quickly . . . Please leave the machines alone fellas; don't play with the machine—hah, please? . . . Gentlemen don't under any circumstances back space and strike over . . . If you don't do as you're told gentlemen, this work will do you no good. So please do what I tell you, when I tell you . . . Your attention, please, hah!



MR. PATRICK TOSCANO

Physics, Biology, Mathematics

Look, you're going to get the test whether we cover the material or not . . . This is the easiest course you'll take. I'll make it as simple as I can for you . . . Look, I don't have to do this; I could give you the test right now . . . Why is this so?—just take my word for it . . . If you don't want to listen, don't come in here . . . Hey, turn that radio off . . . Look, I'm trying to teach you like college men; guess it doesn't work, so tomorrow I'll teach you like babies.



MR. ROGER MORRISSEY

French, Mathematics

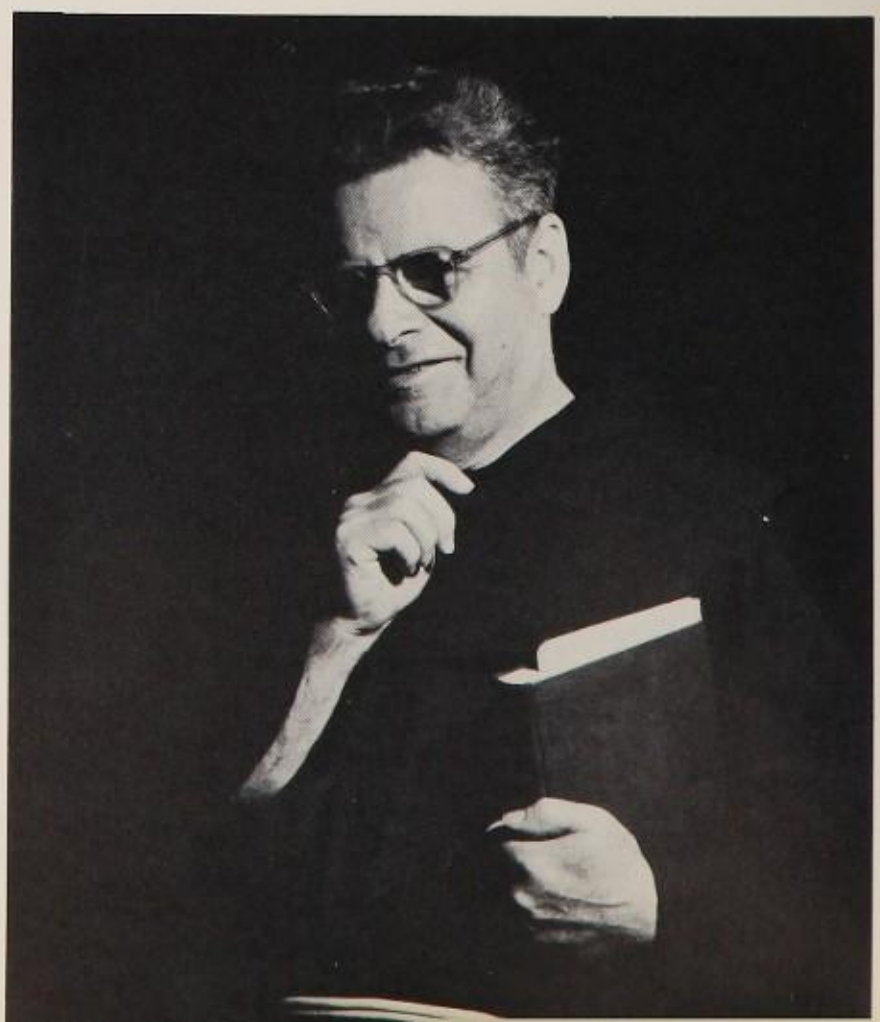
Duns Scotus Debaters, Committee on Extracurricular Activities

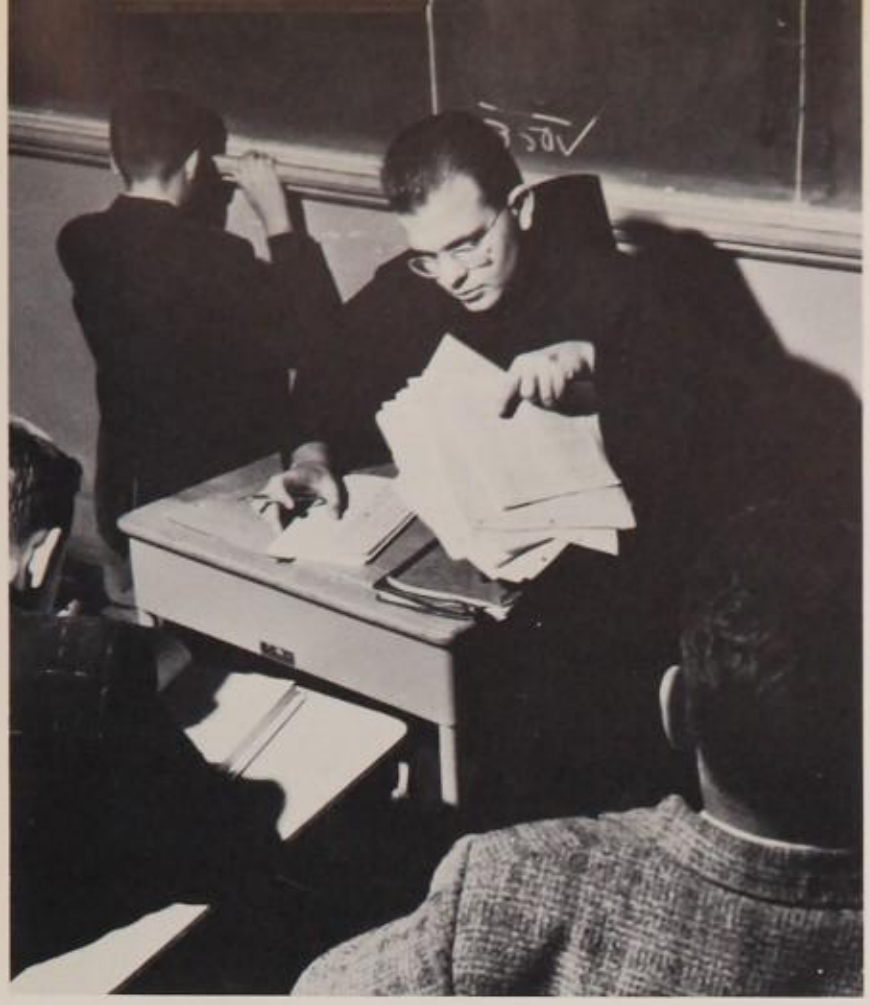
The greatest discovery in Trig was made two years after the Pilgrims hit the rocks . . . Stop using your Religious Bulletin as a weapon . . . Who's on the hook today? . . . A very logical heresy; but if we must be heretics let's be honest about it . . . BY THE SEVEN GODS OF ROME . . . It's as if there were two bookies out at Jamaica, the one named sine and the other cosine, and they both give the same odds . . . One day when old man Pythagoras was cruising down the Nile looking over the curves, he suddenly came up with a new angle . . . While doing Trig be sure to remember your two relatives, old mantissa and anti-log . . . We don't want to confuse you all at once so we'll do it little by little.

REV. BROTHER MARTIN, O.S.F.

History

Two questions for today. First question, the matching question. No talk about it; you have two minutes for the answer . . . That's enough out of you; once more and I'll be down to you . . . A woman and a man were on a bus. The man was smoking a pipe and the woman was holding a dog. She didn't like the smell of the pipe so she grabbed it and threw it out the window. Then he got angry and threw her dog out of the window. Both looked back and saw the dog running after the bus. What do you think the dog had in his mouth? No, not the pipe . . . his tongue . . . Never a dull moment.

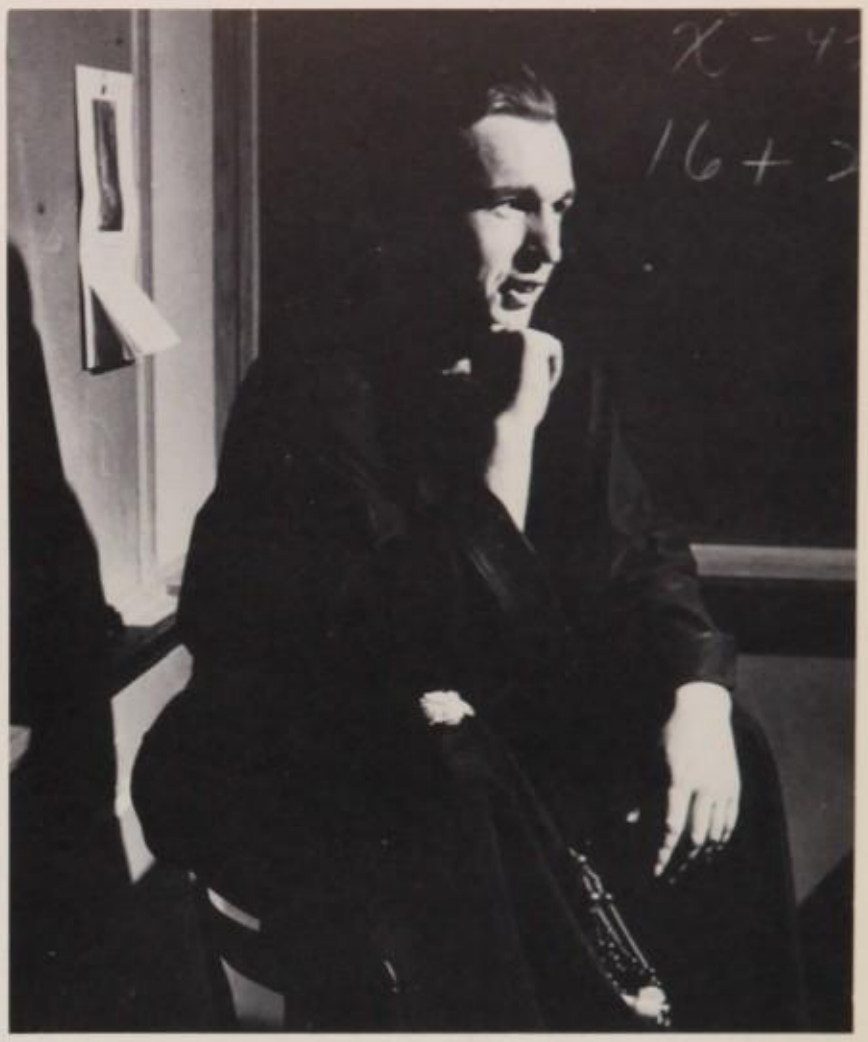




REV. BROTHER SEBASTIAN, O.S.F.

History, Religion, Detention

Today we are going to read about the Unity of the Church, so take out your Religion books and turn to page thirty-three . . . Begin to read . . . Make sure you understand what we have read because we are going to have a test tomorrow. Especially know what we have underlined. Study and make sure you pass because some need the points to pass this month . . . Why do I jug you? I like to, that's why.



REV. BROTHER NOEL, O.S.F.

Mathematics
Math Club

Here I am, the most interesting teacher in the school, and you're all falling asleep . . . Dumkoff!! Even I can do this problem . . . I guess that's because I'm so smart . . . It would be a nice gesture . . . I didn't say I was the best teacher in the world—only the Western Hemisphere . . . Do it the way Uncle tells you . . . Yes friend? . . . My word I'm clever . . . Maybe it does look like an 'a' to you, but it's an E . . . I'd be unhappy with you if you flunked and I'd be forced to chastise you—in a friendly manner of course . . . What do you mean by that crack? I was just as good a jack-ass as anyone else. As a matter of fact I was better than most . . . Well gents, I know you hate to see me go, but as the famous fighter said on the way to the canvos—that's the bell.

REV. BROTHER CAJETAN, O.S.F.

Latin, Biology, Mathematics, Religion
Varsity Football, Jay Vee Baseball, Guidance

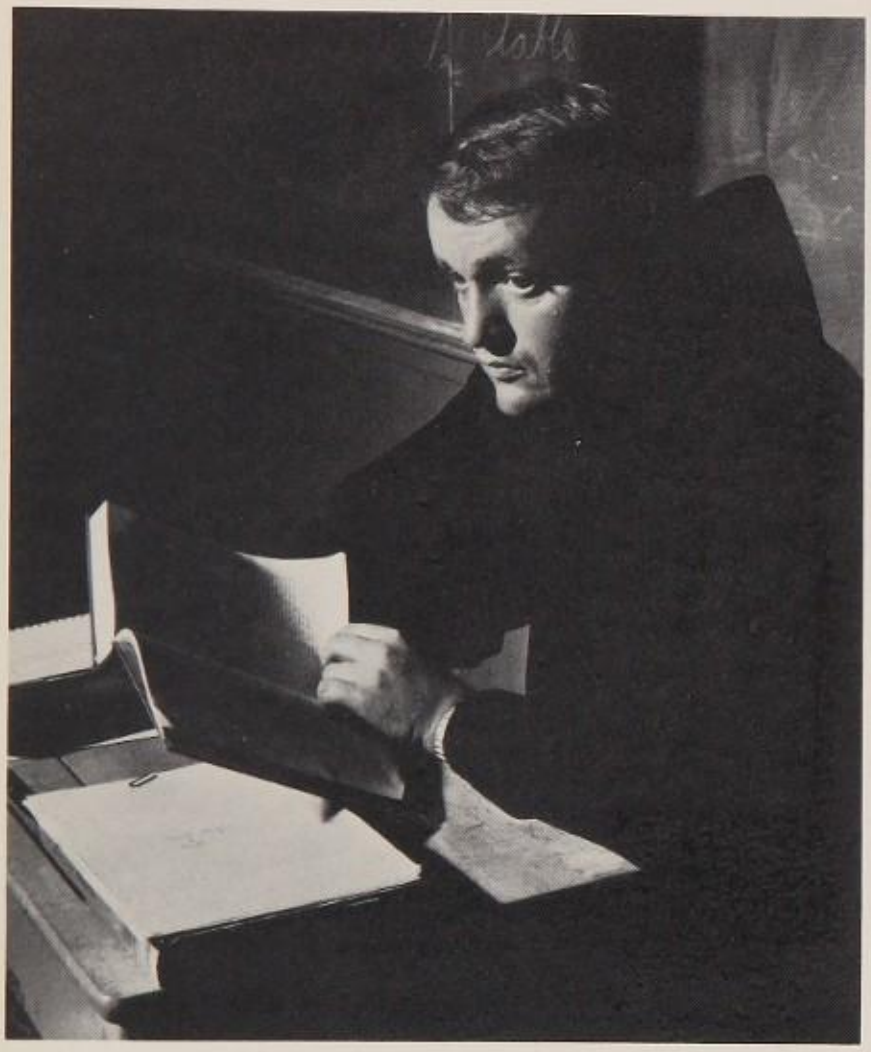
You jest, young friend, you jest!! . . . All right class take half a piece of paper. We're going to have a little test. All who wish to pass this test must THINK. Page 78, do number ten . . . Growl on the football field not here . . . Do that again and I'll give you a test that will stand your hair on end . . . Watch it, muscles! . . . You better get working—it's very hot here in the summer . . . Friday, class, we are going to have a BIG test on all the work covered so far. Those who do not pass this test will have plenty of practice over the week-end.

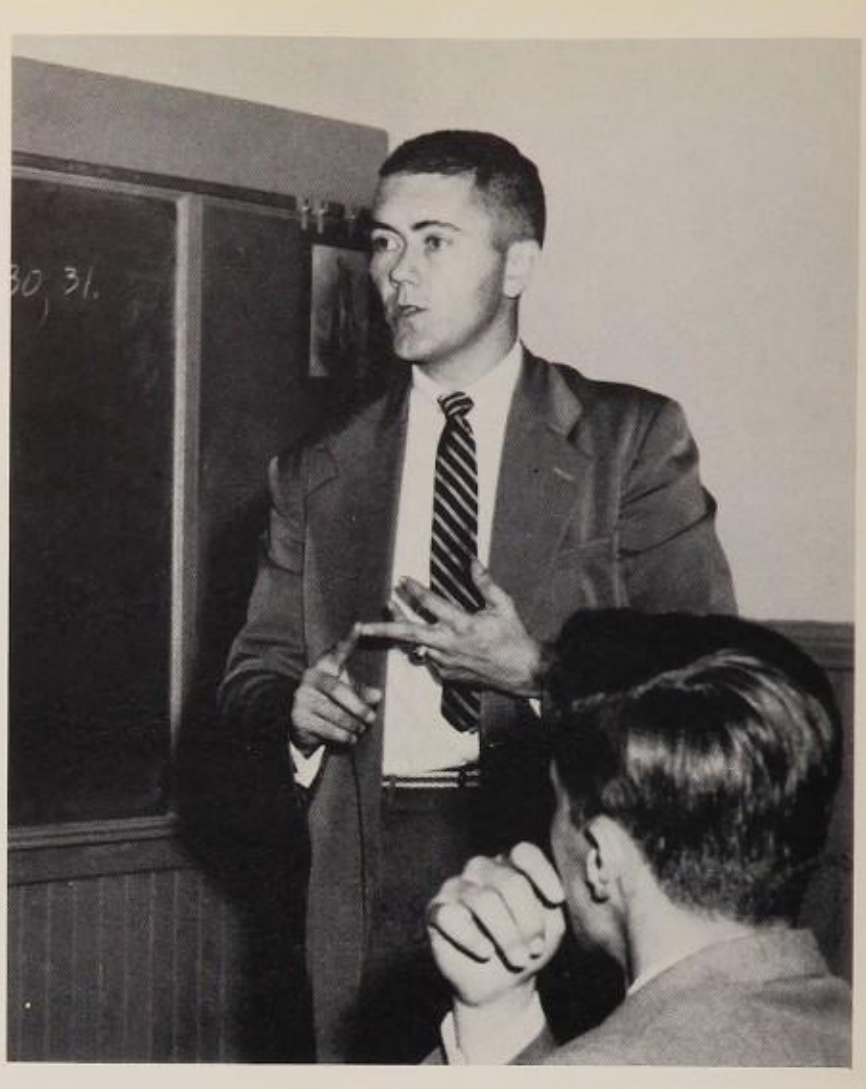
REV. BROTHER OWEN, O.S.F.

English

Jay Vee Football, Jay Vee Baseball

Take out the homework you had last night. How do you expect anyone to read THAT? It looks like Chinese or something . . . What's all the gabbing about? Gab, gab, gab, gab, gab . . . What time did you get in last night? You've got bags under your eyes you can fit elephants in . . . Don't forget that book tomorrow . . . The marks for this month were pretty good but few received ninties, and you seventy-fives were border line cases. You better hustle next month if you want to pass . . . Don't forget the football game Sunday.

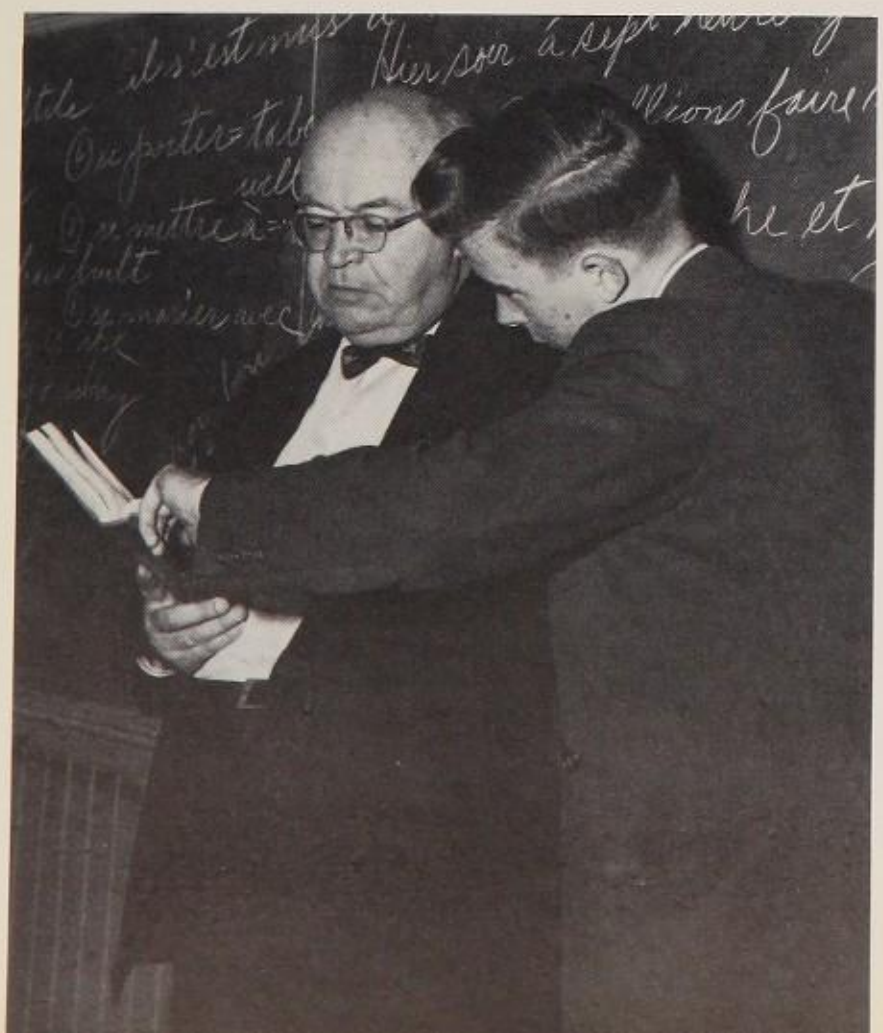




MR. WILLIAM REILLY

History, English, Literary Quarterly

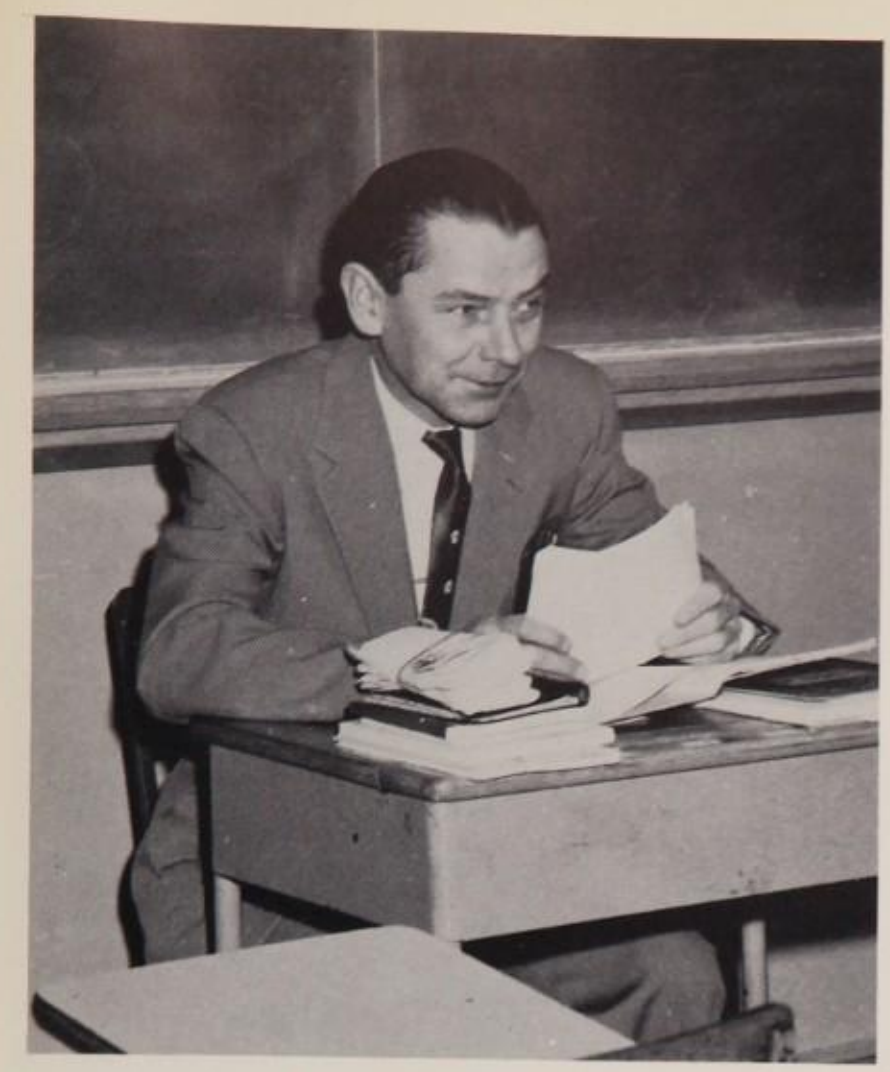
Who has absconded with the absent pass? . . . They had become involved with such picayune interests that their lives became rather vapid . . . I use big words? You mean like delicatessen? . . . You seem to be functioning, laggard . . . I'm not so sure I approve of your gay, cavalier attitude . . . True, you are right, but I think we can narrow it down a bit more—was Alexander Pope right handed or left handed? . . . You may use the margin of your paper as a scratch sheet —er, I should say scratch paper . . . This is a cataclysmic disaster whose undertow threatens to engulf us all . . . Does a writer write? Right . . . We do not speak of conscience as pertaining to moral turpitude and so forth.



MR. WILLIAM DONOVAN

History

Talk that over . . . So for tonight, do number one and explain, a, b, c, d, and e. Now get sore and see if I care . . . If there are any objections to these marks speak now or forever hold your peace . . . Your attention here, please—your attention here without the please . . . There were no flunks on yesterday's test; you may applaud . . . We are not a country of tea drinkers, despite the efforts of Arthur Godfrey . . . Some of you will be lawyers, and on the average there are two lawyers for every other person . . . Less order please . . . Put that comb away, you'll make be jealous . . . What goes on here? . . . Pass the homework over to the right. Those lacking it step out to the front . . . Truants first; now to the liars . . . If Mr. Payne has you for history, I'm sure you'll receive a fair deal.



MR. LAWRENCE TOWERS

Latin

Take out your notebooks and turn to the lesson on participles, please . . . We have all but the past perfect participle and that is given as the fourth principle part . . . Homework for tomorrow. Part one of the homework—study vocabulary, 1 to 40; part two—memorize your notes on translation and background; third part—from your regents review books, June 1953, question one, first paragraph of the translation, lines one to six . . . Gentlemen, if you can, have your entire quota in by tomorow. No I can't GUARANTEE a day off BUT . . .

MR. THOMAS BOORAS

Swimming, Physical Education, Athletic Control Board

What do you mean you're nervous? . . . There are too many comedians on this team . . . If we ever get to the championships, you may not be the best swimmers but you'll be the funniest things to hit the water . . . O'Boyle, let's cut the cigarettes down to regular size . . . Take a bow McDermott, that's two practices you've made this week . . . Let's have a little hustle—a little drive . . . Prima Donna, Heslin? Don't make fun of Heslin boys, he may swim the 20 in under 14 . . . Better come to practice more often or they'll be measuring you for black armbands instead of white sweaters . . . A little less practice on the piano, Trent, and a little more on the swimming . . . What Danylchuk! Another Liberace? The idea of this course is to get you into some kind of shape and have we got some ODD shapes on this team!

REV. BROTHER ALPHONSUS, O.S.F.

Religion

Assistant Principal, Basketball, Crown, Father's Club, Athletic Control Board, Treasurer, Student Council, Committee on Extracurricular Activities, Publicity Director.

If the spirit sees fit to move me, we shall have a quiz tomorrow on today's reading and all the various gems of wisdom I have seen fit to scatter about from time to time . . . The rumor from the freshmen seems to indicate the possibility of a holiday Friday. Therefore, since this must be a certainty, read in advance for our next meeting Matthew 16: 1 – 24 . . . It seems to me that the girls outnumbered the boys at yesterday's game, not so? Some people would prefer it that way it seems . . . Any questions on last night's readings? No? All right turn to Luke, chapter 17 please . . . Since today is October 15 and the feast of St. Teresa, you may take out half a sheet of paper and put that date on it along with your full name, Christian and family, for I feel the spirit moves me.

the year of great reconstruction for...

undergraduates

On viewing the progress of his city Carl Sandburg described it as:

Bareheaded
Shoveling
Wrecking
Planning
Building, breaking, rebuilding

He saw that one important aspect of progress is a flexibility whereby alterations can be made to meet the needs of the times. Our Undergraduates faced an unparalleled challenge in this regard.

On January 2nd of this year the Superintendent of Schools for the Brooklyn Diocese forwarded a notification from his Greene Avenue offices that effected the elimination of any further February graduations. For the Prep, which had been geared for just such graduations, this memo necessitated far-reaching revisals.

Hundreds of first, third, fifth, and seventh termers suddenly found six months added to their lives as they were whirled into an acceleration program. All terms found study periods eliminated. Chemistry was added to the curriculum. Trig was switched from eighth to sixth term. Freshman double-period English was changed to a single. Deadline at the school was now 8:30 A.M. Each period of the day ran for fifty-five minutes. Add a few hundred more details to these and you have the year of great reconstruction.

Except for some new-copping ulcers and grey hairs among the faculty and Mr. Pandolfi, the schedule maker, all now seems well. The Undergraduates of 1957 have met and conquered their challenge.

"Pierre" Williams and Jim Kiley hold the spotlight as they cement inter-scholastic relations during the Prep's annual outing, the Boat Ride.

In Memoriam

Daniel Lawrence Hegarty

Dan was a quiet, unassuming Prepster who was scheduled to graduate with the June Class of 1957. Under God's Providence, however, he was not destined to complete his high school career. A fatal attack of leukemia took him from the ranks of the underclassmen on December 19, 1956.

On completing his courses at Sienna Elementary School, Dan enrolled in the Sons of St. Louis De Montfort Preparatory Seminary in Bayshore where he was seriously considering a vocation to the priesthood. But he decided his life lay elsewhere and left the seminary to enter St. Francis.

Here at the Prep he had the spirit of a true Franciscan. Although not a member of any regular teams, Dan supported all of the school's activities.

To his memory, the Class of 1957 sincerely dedicates this portion of the San Fran.

progress unlimited in...

If it be true that limited things are those which never move forward, then Prep progress in the matter of Activities is unlimited. As around our school we see high cranes, water towers, factories, the trafficked river with its railroad siding running nearby, and countless other evidences of unbounded ambition, so within St. Francis itself has this same spirit of endeavor made itself apparent in the vast range of extracurricula projects sponsored by the school.

Is there any other high school that offers such a combination of constructive activities? By land, Prepsters share in AAA accredited Driver Education. By sea, they have the Power Boat Squadron on the surface, and the Skindivers beneath its depths. By air, the Blue Angels have completed their third year of actual flight training. These rather recent innovations have not, on the other hand, eclipsed the time-honored organizations dedicated to cultural advancement. The miniature "atom bombs", which have made the second floor rather an uncomfortable place at times, attest to a Galvani Society working on new scientific concepts. The Illustres Viri still search out the beauties and culture of ancient Rome. The artistically inclined find their expression with the Poster Club, the Music Department, the newspaper, the yearbook, this year's addition, the Literary Quarterly, the Stamp Club and the Debaters. Religiously, of course, the perennial Third Order of St. Francis continues its work, while its new partner of the spirit, the Militants, strives to develope leaders for Christ and better student environment by group Catholic Action.

Add the Proms, the boat rides, the dances, and the skating parties, and we have, in sum, a program which encompasses the practical, the intellectual, the aesthetic, and the social needs of students. Here indeed are the means for the well-rounded man to prepare himself for his place in a world of progress.

Moderators, Brother Vincent and Brother Regis.

Driver Education Comes to the Prep

A milestone in the St. Francis progress story was this year's introduction of a course in driving. In accordance with the State Education Department, and with the regulations of the New York State Motor Vehicle Bureau, periods of instruction were carried on with some fifty students who assembled in the Friary Library twice a week during their study periods or after school. In addition to the lectures, textbooks, and motion pictures usually used for training students in the fundamentals of driving, Brothers Vincent and Regis employed unique devices by purchasing a Driver Evaluator and remote controlled motor car models. The models were manually operated and were used for detailed studies of traffic problems. The Evaluator was a fabulous machine which gaged a student's visual acuity, distance judgment, color distinctions, peripheral field of vision, and reaction time.

Brother Regis works out a few tactics of the road. Dick Ferry, Dave Gatti, Bob Finelli, and Brother Vincent look on.

Bart Hargadon and Dick Hennessey await their turn on the reaction timer as Brother Vincent puts John Maresco through the paces.

A traffic problem is worked out by Paul Smollen and Dick Reilly. The observers are Fred Hanser, John Lipari, Walt Young.

Visual tests are undergone by Tony Gabriel under the scrutiny of Bob Finelli, Tom McWalters, and Gene Johnson.

At the Whitestone dock, the crew makes ready to shove off for a week end cruise.

Power Squadron's Fleet Expands

The Power Boat Squadron has added a thirty-eight foot, Coast Guard picket boat to its equipment. The craft, named the St. Francis, will be used to further develop seamanship and nautical techniques under the guidance of Brother Louis, the club's moderator. Getting the boat to the Whitestone Landing entailed careful classroom preparation on charts, time, tides, and bearings. With this information, the trip from Gravesend Bay to Whitestone was successfully made in two hours. Such problems as painting the hull in sub-freezing weather at the Nevins Boat Yard, and replacing a lost propeller had to be met by the Squadron in making the St. Francis seaworthy. Another note of progress in the club's curriculum was the acquisition of weekly films provided by the Coast Guard.

Len Hargadon flips a line to Ed Kelly who will secure the ship at the mooring cleat.

Bob O'Rourke, Brother Louis, Len Hargadon, John Holzapfel, and John Maude row out to the Terrier's anchorage in the Sound. This skeleton crew will bring the ship to the dock for boarding by the rest of the group.

Angel's Wings Are Clipped

The limitless skies saw only three flights graduate from the Prep's Blue Angels this year. Weather was no friend as clouds, snow, and cold cancelled many trips to the airport. Coupled with this were the complications of a partial change of operations from Staten Island to Flushing Airport. In our time, of course, aviation is an important and growing field. The Flying Club offers valuable training for future pilots and related aeronautical occupations. At the controls was the experienced hand of Brother Michael, a former Naval Aviator.

Brother Michael waits for the call of "Contact" to flip on switches.

Joe Ponessa, San Fran photographer, snaps the Blue Angels in flight.

Scientists Reorganize

Working toward more efficiency in its quest for scientific truth, the Galvani Society was reorganized into four special committees. Adviser to the Chemistry Committee is Mr. Toscano, to the Biology and Physics, Brother Louis, and to the Mathematics Committee, Brother Noel.

The Society sponsored four field trips to the American Museum of Natural History and one to the Hayden Planetarium which concerned a scientific explanation of the star of Bethlehem. Winners of the Science Show held in the Prep Cafeteria were Louis Krouse, Raymond LaBarbara, and Frederick Hanser. Respectively, their projects were the atomic rocket, analytic geometry, and atomic particles.

The lively crowd of over two thousand faculty members, students, and guests settles down as the trip to Bear Mountain gets underway. The Peter Stuyvesant winds its way for some thirty miles along the beautiful and historic Hudson River.

Assault of Bear Mountain

June 6th, the most delightful day of the school year. Then do the Clergy, the Brothers, the lay faculty and their families, the students of the Prep and a consort of several girl schools embark together for their annual outing, the boat ride to Bear Mountain.

"Well, from what they tell me about last year . . ."—the trend of conversation among Messrs. Smith, Gengenbach, and Gulmi.

Oblivious to scenery and company a few scholarly track men catch up on current events as the ship plows on.

The radio, conversation, and the vie occupy many.

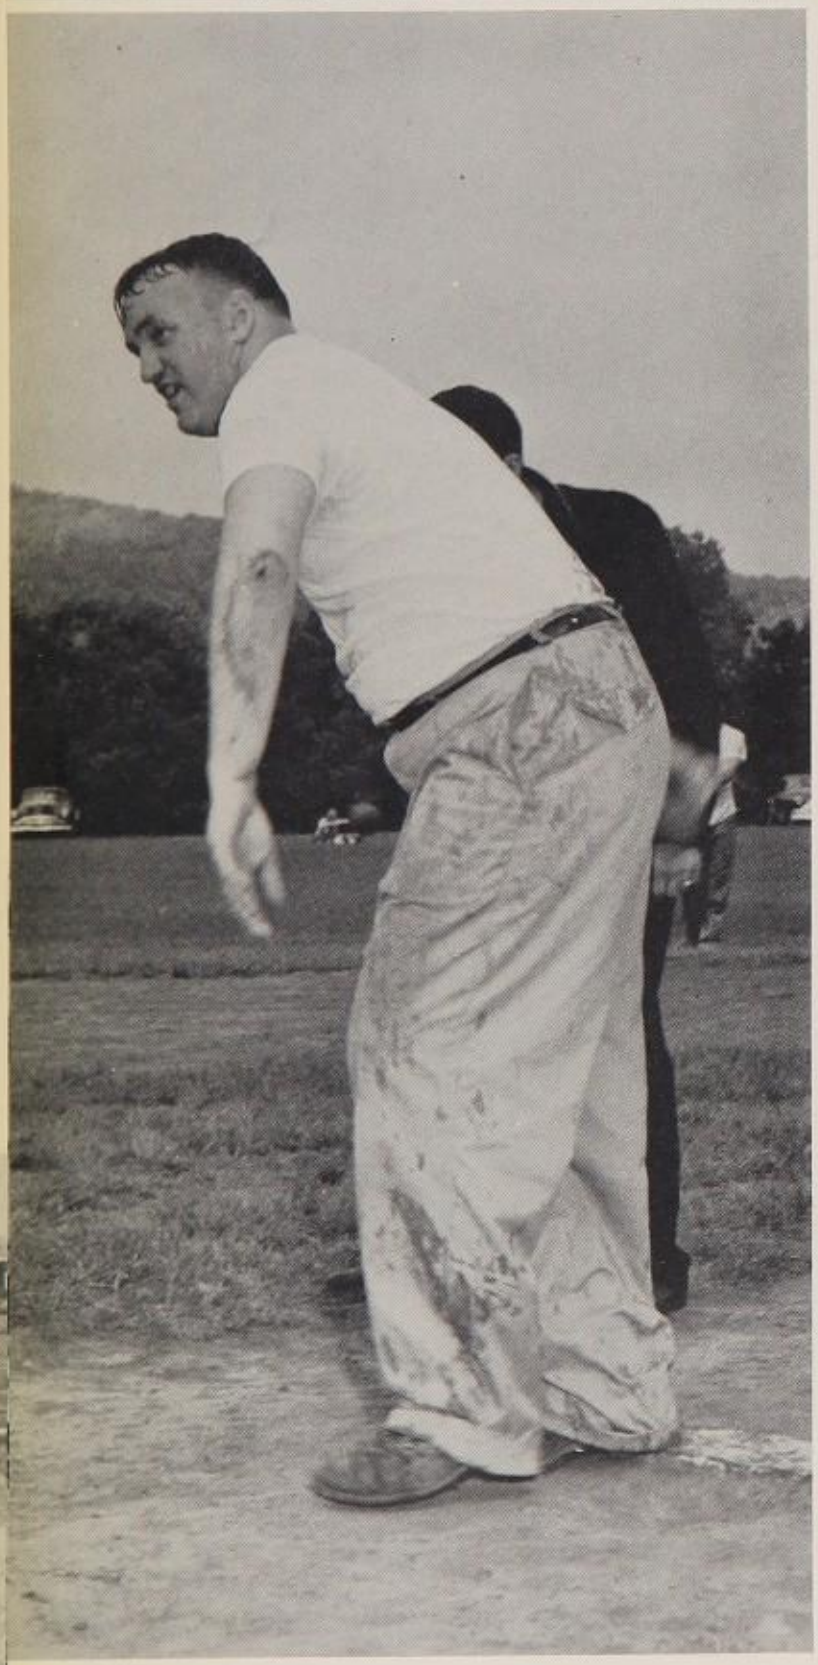
Faculty-student relations prosper on the boat ride. Pete Walicki awaits an answer from Brother Cyprian who pauses to consider what is no doubt a basketball query.

Tony Mirival and his girl lunch peacefully in the calm of mid-afternoon.

At Bear Mountain simple things entertain the simple. Phil Cottone and Brian Trent play patty-cake with their dates.

A spirited gathering fraternizes gaily in the open air of the forward sun deck.

Joe Plucker and Dan Toomey look wistfully into their partners' eyes as they struggle along in a dance session that resembles the subway rush hour.



Heroes in the faculty victory over the seniors were Brother Leonard with his slashing bat, and Brother Owen with his unfathomable knuckle ball.

Ed Kofler, the nature lover, strolls along with two new-found members of the species.

Landlubbers Fratangelo and McCallion bend their backs to a row on the pretty mountain lake.

Confident Tony Gabriel, looking as if he were giving a lecture, stops to chat with a group of lovely lassies.

The faculty sits down to a hearty meal in the rustic atmosphere of the Bear Mountain Restaurant.

Seniors Jack Schneider, Vinny Milaccio, Frank Murphy, and John Connolly enjoy their last boat ride by fostering student to student relations during the course of the day.

A Prepster and his girl dreamily look out upon the Stuyvesant resting on the mirror-like Hudson as the day nears its end.

The swimming contingent led by John Burchianti and Mike Booras discuss the day's events on the homeward journey.

Seasearchers at Work

Snorkle tubes, spear guns, and frog mens' suits made their initial appearances at the Prep with the recent foundation of a Skin Diving Club. As yet, it is not a highly efficient organization. One of the major problems faced by this young group in their extraordinary undertaking is the location of approved water sites for applying to actual practice the theories of diving discussed at their meetings. The Club gave indication of things to come by their being accepted into the Empire State Underwater Council. Rev. Brother Alexis is the Moderator.

A New Publication is Born

The line of thin aesthetics seen making their way up to Room 21 after school hours was the nucleus around which Mr. Reilly inaugurated a cultural magazine for 1957. The publication was christened the "Little Portion". The object of the sketches, essays, and short stories submitted by the staff was to uncover, and then to develop, latent talents among the student body in the field of creative writing. The "Portion" then, in its impetus to authorship, stands as one of the most worthy inclusions in our book on progress as a stepping stone to the future.

Mr. Reilly addresses his staff. Tony Duran, Kevin Smith, Lou Marano, Bob Rippa, Norm Liebman and Ron Klammer.

Spike Shoe Club Holds First St. Francis Games

One hundred twenty schools from New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut assembled to participate in the First Annual St. Francis Games sponsored by this very active group. This indoor meet supplemented the Frosh Cross Country Run and the Outdoor Relay Carnival they regularly conduct. These three meets and the three trophies they award to trackmen showing outstanding intellectual, athletic, and leadership qualities, grow out of monthly meetings comprised of graduated trackmen, underclassmen in track who have won major letters, and the fathers of these groups. Brother Theodore organized, and now moderates the Club.

Duns Scotus Society

The enriching experience of debating strives toward a clarity of thought and expression. Initiating this year's war of words was the topic, "Resolved, the Supreme Court can change a State law", with Bob Beyer and Bob Magliano on the affirmative battling Dick Messanelli and Dick Reilly for the negative. Other discussions revolved about "American Advertising", "Nasser's right to nationalize Suez", and "The New York State Constitution". Mr. Roger Morrissey moderates the club.

Musicians Hold Thirteenth Concert

Brothers Benignus, Robert, and this year's addition, Brother Gerald, combined with Mrs. McDonald and Messrs. Gilroy and Foster to effectively stage the thirteenth annual concert sponsored by St. Francis Prep.

The hundreds of Prepsters that made their way to the Academy of Music on that Spring night in May heard an amazingly varied program. The Dance Band swung out with the Darktown Strutter's Ball and lilting Calypso songs. These were balanced by the Military Band and the Orchestra renditions of the classically toned Rachmaninoff Prelude and the spirited Polonaise of Chopin. Piano work included the Toreador Song and the ever popular Fire Dance. The Guitars, the Accordians, a Clarinet Quartet, and a trombone solo were also featured. Rounding out these performances was the work of vocal groups. Arrangements from The King and I, a medley of State Songs, the Pater Noster and the Hymn of St. Francis preceded the Glee Club's conclusion of the concert with Without a Song, Gaudemus Igitur, and the school song.

The perennial moderator of the Music Department since its foundation thirteen years ago, Rev. Brother Benignus, O.S.F.

Walter Ulrich soloed Hello Young Lovers at the annual concert.

At the Naval Reserve Scholastic Band Concert, Commander Lawton presents to John McGowan, Drum Major, the third place award.

Trumpeteers Jim Crosby and Jim Gaynor were the backbone of the brass section for the Dance Band. In February, Master Crosby was elected leader of the Band.

The half-time spectacles staged by the Military Band enhanced the color of our football team's home games played at Boy's High Field.

Dance Band leader for the Fall semester, Bill Lawlor, pipes away at the Halloween Dance.

First Friday choristers consist of cherubic Ron D'Amelia surrounded by John Hearon, Brendan Costello, Bob O'Rourke, Jim Flood, Tom Burke, and Dom De Paola.

Assistant moderator, Brother Robert, assisted by Frank Cama at the organ, directs the select chorus at First Friday services for Prepsters in St. Vincent's Church.

A careful scrutiny of attendance is made by Brother Gerald whose records determine the recipients of major Music awards.

Bob Sheehan, Lou Miritello, Art Peterson, Pat Costignola and Joe Atilio at work. Graduating Lou Miritello was an invaluable secretarial assistant to the Music Department for his four years at the Prep.

A familiar sight at Prep rallies in the schoolyard was the Band carrying out one of its chief functions, instilling spirit throughout the student body.

With colorful Charlie Lefever on drums, Bill Layfield on bass, and Joe Gargiulo on the accordian, the rhythm section of the Dance Band sets the pace at the Christmas Dance.

The woodwinds of the Orchestra iron out the Polonaise in preparation for the concert. Jim Kiley, Bruce Meglino, Phil Bellucci, John Chierico, Tom Day.

Walt Tomasik, Angelo Baldi, and Frank Soeder combined forces for Wedding of the Winds.

Brother Jarlath, an old friend to Prepsters, stops backstage to congratulate Mr. William Gilroy for his Band's fine rendition of Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C#.

George Stone, Ron Cullen, and Frank Lucia (with guitars) flavored a series of Calypso songs at the concert. Surrounding them are Ed Kelly, Jim Heffler, Bill Bepler, Joe Atilio, Joe Cortese, Mike Kidney.

John Melis, Dick Messanelli, Mike Murray, Herb Major, of the string section.

Backstage reflections on the concert are pointedly made by Mrs. McDonald, Director of the Music Department, to Mr. Foster, Director of the Orchestra.

Generously offering their services as usherettes were: (top to bottom) Mavis Walters, Eileen McCullough, Maria Buono, and Margaret Goodwin; Mary O'Rourke, Lorraine Valcich, Pat McCormack, Mary Coyle, and Pat Owen; Maureen Cuite, Martha Fandel, Carolyn Carmody, Judith Madigan, and Elaine Grassi.

The night of May Third at the Brooklyn Academy of Music culminates the strivings of a year on the part of vocalists, instrumentalists, conductors, and moderators.

J. Scalia, B. Mundy, J. Skerrett, R. Sheehan, K. Smith, R. Rippa, P. Simeone, V. Salvo, A. Duran, L. Marano, J. Cortese, A. McCluskey, M. Kidney, R. Nejes. (Seated) R. Messanelli, Brother Blaise, G. DeGeorge, Brother Cabrini, J. Kannengieser.

Militants

The Militants answer the call to Catholic Action by developing responsible leaders who endeavor to better their environment. Prepsters contribute greatly to this world-wide organization. George DeGeorge is vice-president of the Federation of Greater New York. Vin Salvo was our representative at Chicago during the National Business Meeting. Kevin Smith, Doug Tynan, and Ed Kennedy attended the National Study Week held at St. Joseph's College in Indiana. The entire group contributed to make a success of the dance at St. Ignatius .Hall, Park Avenue; and all took part in the Annual Catholic Youth Forum at Mary Louis Academy, Jamaica.

Stamp swapping in progress with Sal D'Agostino, Bob Magliano, Marty Hamburger, Ken Kaiser, Gene Feldhaus, Larry Walsh, Vin Chiarelli, Ron Klammer, and Brother Leonard.

Stamp Club

The philatelists continued their procedure of circulating the collections of individual members which inevitably leads to interesting inquiries into history, geography, and other fields. The most recent move of the Club, however, was an attempt to raise funds for purchasing stamps from "bank lots". Thus, a common collection would be available to the group. The acquisition of British Colonials are particularly sought for through these lot dealers. Between discussions on the current errors on the U. S. International Post Card and the misspelling of the Bermuda Stamp, Brother Leonard advises members on swaps and purchases that will best add to the scope of their collections.

Well Posted Prepsters

Brother Walter's guiding hand directed a little group of some ten artists in publicizing and informing the student body of impending activites scheduled on the Prep's intensive extracurricular calendar. Throughout the year bulletin boards were hung with the time, place, and company for dances, skating parties, and athletic events. Honors for the year were accorded to Jim McCartney, who won the County Prize in the Tablet Poster Contest, and to Dan Sawicki, who received honorable mention in the same contest. The Poster Club's current project is a suitable design to commemorate the coming Centenary of the Franciscan Brothers.

Illustres Viri

Like the humanists of the Renaissance, the Latin Club continued its studies of the ancient language and culture of Rome. Well satisfied with the progress of his charges, Brother Vincent, the moderator, entered them in the contest sponsored by the Auxilium Latinum. The results were gratifying. George DeGeorge was awarded a certificate of superlative merit and a gold pin; Allen Weatherwax, a certificate of superlative merit; and Kevin Smith received a certificate of honorable mention.

Allen Weatherwax, Bob Rippa, Tom Brady, George DeGeorge, Ron Klammer, Kevin Smith, and Lou Marano are briefed by Brother Vincent for their forthcoming competitions.

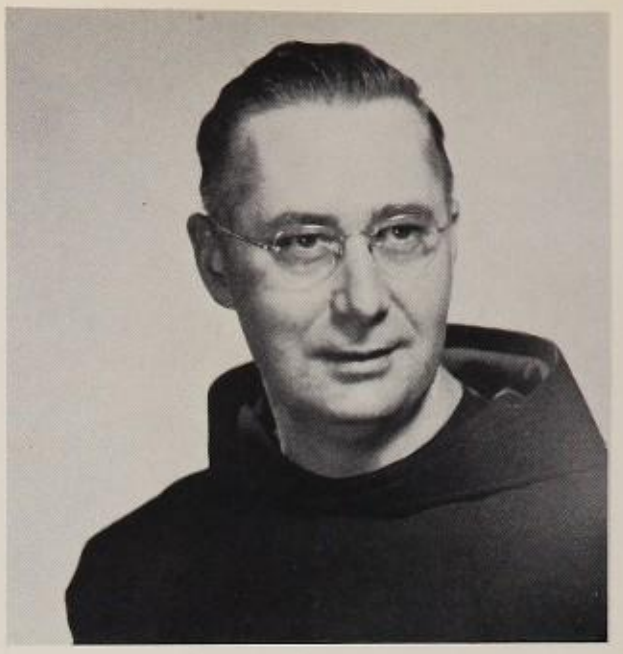
Seraph's Return of the Native

Ten years ago Brother Pacificus was transferred from the Prep. With his return in 1957, he was immediately appointed moderator of the Seraph. Brother was no stranger to the job, for it was he who in 1942 revived the school newspaper which, for several years, had ceased publication.

Landmarks of the year were Jim Hallock's photography award and Ed Rissmann's commendation for feature articles. Both were honored at the Bishop McDonnell Press Conference. Also, to advance journalistic know-how, Brother took several staff members to Wisconsin for the Marquette University Silver Jubilee Press Convention.

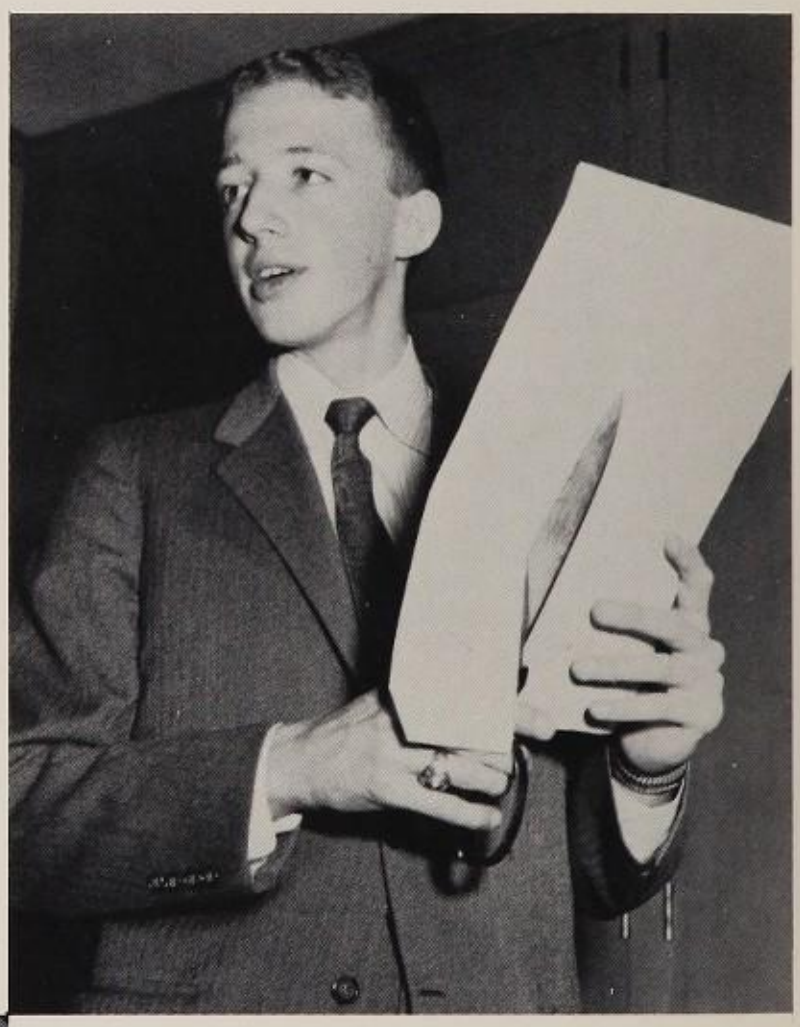
For the first half of the year Jerry Marino edited the paper. His classic issue was his swan song, an unprecidented ten-pager. Bruce Thomsen took over the reins for the final half of the year.

Probably the most interesting addition to the Seraph in this year of progress was the initiation of the Prep Confidential column. Controversies rising from its satire, goat-getting, and subtleness will long be remembered.



Rev. Brother Pacificus, O.S.F., Moderator of the Seraph.

An interview with Hollywood comedian Jerry Lewis provided an outstanding feature article for 1957.



Current Editor-in-Chief, Bruce Thomsen, attentively strips the galley sheets. Bruce directed the publications that ran from March through June.

The Seraph of years to come will rest in the hands of these younger members of the staff. John Mathis, Don McQuade, Tom Morrow, Kevin Smith, Van Rensselaer Bomer, Dick Reilly, Bob Cefalu, Jim Sangiorgio, and Tom Burke.

The talents of Jim O'Connor, columnist, Bob Schell, typist, and Jim Hallock, photographer, formed a combination that resulted in superior issues of the Seraph.

Adieu to the rollicking seniors of the staff. (Standing) Jay McDonnell, Frank Murphy, Norm Hayes. (Sitting) Larry Jockel, Jack Schneider, Ed Kennedy.

From Room 27 Jerry Marino, Editor-in-Chief from September to February, hands out assignments. Jerry's graduation ended four years of monumental service to the newspaper.

Graduating Bruce Thomsen schools Tom Napier and John Engel in the master minding of editorship. Tom and John were outstanding auxiliary workers for the Seraph of 1957.

Plottings afoot by the authors of Prep Confidential. Ron Damiano and Bob Cefalu pictured here wrote the column after the graduation of Norm Hayes and Tom Rizzo in February.

San Fran Literary Grand Slam

Honor-wise, the San Fran could go no farther than it did this year. The Medalist Award of Columbia University, the Yearbook of Distinction of the Catholic Press Association, and the A+ rating of the National Yearbook Association—all of which were garnered for St. Francis—are the highest commendations granted by each of these three critical agencies.

In recognition of these honors the entire San Fran staff was invited to the Fordham Press Conference to conduct a discussion on yearbooks. After Brother Michael, the moderator, had concluded his talk on "The Theme", Editors Phil Cottone, Mike Esposito, George DeGeorge, Walter Morley and Joe Ponessa answered questions posed by members of the audience.

Despite being torn from its home in Room 27 to share a cubicle with the Booster Club, the Orchestra, and the Seraph (an aftermath of acceleration), Brother Michael commented that never before has he seen a yearbook put through its paces so efficiently. The trubute was satisfying to a staff that has chosen to champion the cause of "progress" for the year 1957.

Much credit for San Fran awards must go to Joe Ponessa, chief photographer. His expeditions took him from a thousand feet in the air with the Blue Angels, to (as he is seen here) climbing the steeple of St. Paul's church for the school photo that appears on the title page.

Editor-in-Chief Phil Cottone dictates to typists Bob Kulpa and Richy Gomez.

The contributions of rookie photographer Neal Cabrinha, setting up shots of the Music Department, makes the San Fran future look promising.

The search for ideas sets editors, Walt Morley and Ray Ratkowski, and typist Dom Alfieri to rummaging through old yearbooks.

Editors, Tom Flood and Mike Esposito, hash things out with typist John Murphy.

In the bright afternoon sun, the editorial staff discusses the line of humor that will lighten the pages of the San Fran.

Progress in the Spirit

The Third Order of St. Francis is a religious order without vows for the laity of the Church. Founded by St. Francis himself in the Thirteenth Century, its spiritual benefits are enormous. Father Sigmund, O.F.M. Cap., the Prep's Third Order Chaplain conducts the monthly meetings in the Friary Chapel. Along with the moderator, Brother Benignus, he guides the group along its spiritual course. During the Twentieth Annual Pilgrimage in honor of St. Francis held at St. Patrick's Cathedral, the officers of the group were granted the privilege of sitting in the sanctuary.

Coordination With the Fathers' Guild

Paternal-teacher-student relationships were solidified by the work of the Guild. At monthly meetings, fathers had opportunities for personal interviews with faculty members to discuss the progress of their sons' education. In the Fall, the Guild's Smoker broke the ice of formality between the elder members of the triangle; and in the closing days of Spring, all three groups joined in their annual Communion Breakfast held at the Hotel St. George.

strength and teamwork-

the power and gears of athletics-

produce progress in...

sports

With the transfer of the school to that area of the City dominated by the figures of Mr. Power and Mr. Gear seated upon their proud pedestals, the St. Francis progress story received one of its strongest impulses in sports. The teams of the past had set a firm foundation in "know-how". Here progress increased steadily, and finally, leadership was attained.

The Varsity record in the five major sports is incomparable. The basketball team has retained the Brooklyn Championship for four successive seasons, has captured three City Championships, two Metropolitan Catholic Tournaments, one Eastern States, and one National Catholic Championship. The football team's star rose with their CHSAA Co-Championship status of two years ago, followed by last year's outstanding record of seven victories and one loss. The swimmers, in addition to one Private School Championship, have taken three of the last four crowns in the CHSAA. The track team has jammed the trophy cases with some one hundred trophies in the past few years. The highlights of its numerous acquisitions include the first cross country, the first indoor, and the first outdoor CHSAA Championships ever garnered by the Prep after a track famine that ran for some ninty-five years. Baseball alone has failed to capture a Championship. In finishing a strong second last year, they were edged out of the charmed circle by the margin of one game lost to Loughlin on the last day of the season.

Thus, at North Sixth Street—where monstrous machinery supplimented by meshing gears drons out a program of successful production—the rafters of practically every kind of arena in the catalog of sports have rung with our victory cry, "We're number one", through the individual strengths of our athletes and cooperative teamwork.

Football Flourish

The seven won and one loss record leads many to call this the finest season in the chronicle of St. Francis football.

The season opened against an Iona team that had veterans, skill and stars. Never having beaten Iona, the team was uneasy, worried; after the kickoff things changed. Ratkowski's 67 yard scoring run on the first play startled all to alertness. The team was off. Ray got three more TD's, a Van Cott to Hickey pass another—St. Francis 32-0.

At Chaminade they scored quickly as Carbone plunged over for the score following Ratkowski's forty-three yard dash. The Prep felt confident, too confident. Finally in the third period Chaminade scored on a long pass. That broke their spirit; from then on the Flyers could do no wrong. They took off against St. Francis for a 24-6 victory.

Revenge at Brooklyn Prep saw an unstoppable line opening holes for five TD jaunts by Ratkowski. Milaccio calling the plays, and Hall in the line sparkled as did everyone.

On to the Mount. Neither cocky nor depressed for this game, the team was just right. The great line play by Giacinto, Johnson, Gatti, Riebenack and Armstead was outstanding. They held and waited. A Milaccio to Cooney pass and a seventy yard scoring slash by Ratkowski provided the offensive for a happy 12-0 St. Francis win.

MacGregor kept the team alive at Hayes as Van Cott had his day. Van ran an intercepted pass sixty yards for one score and fed Ratkowski a pass for another to engineer a close 14-7 win.

At Stepinac the team knew that a win coupled with a Chaminade loss would tie them for first. The field was muddy, the play tense. But even the officials couldn't stop Ratkowski's plunge for the 7-0 margin.

Riebenack and Hickey led the assault by a line that was really clicking as the old St. John's rivalry was renewed at Boy's High. MacGregor was mean, Milaccio was shrewd, Ratkowski registered three more, Gatti intercepted two, and White was rugged on defense as the Terriers romped 32-0.

Led by Giacinto, the line made it rough for John Adams in the season's last game. Added to this was the thunder of Ratkowski running up and down the field for eight TD's. Final Thanksgiving Day score, 60-6. Everyone enjoyed their turkey; hope you enjoyed the season.

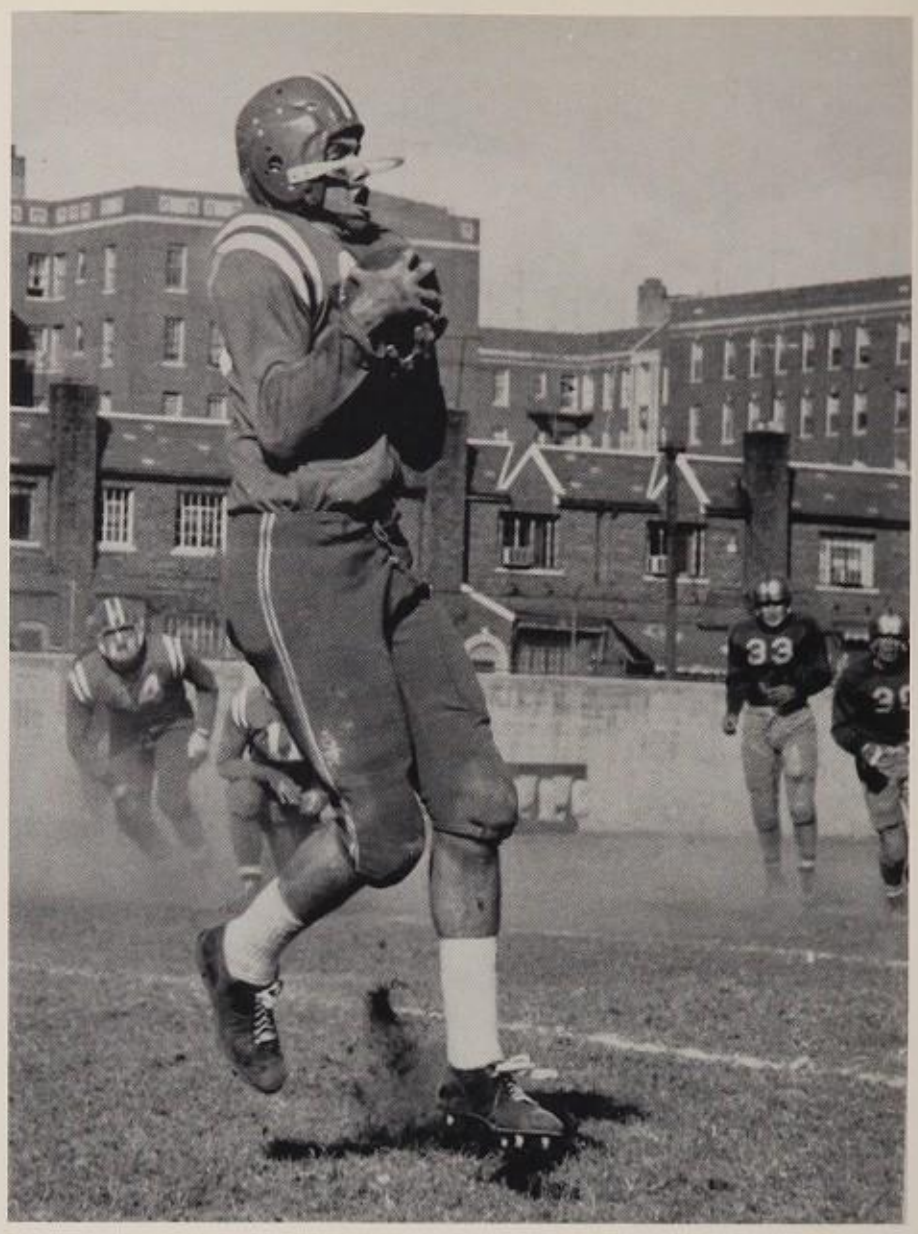
THE ANIMAL STRIKES AGAIN.

Ray Ratkowski, unquestionably one of the greatest backs in Prep history, streaks to his fourth touchdown of the day against Iona. Over the season, Ray scored a record 144 points on 23 touchdowns and six extra points. He was elected to the All-City, All-League, All-Metropolitan, and all other conceivable All Star Teams. Never to be forgotten was his unprecidented performance on Thanksgiving Day when, against John Adams, he ran for eight touchdowns.

Chaminade ties the ball game. Ken MacGregor, kneeling, Phil Meagher, standing, mirror the mood of all St. Francis in their one loss of the year.



A Milaccio to Hickey pass pulls the Terriers out of the danger zone. Hickey, who had previously run sixty yards to set up a touchdown, proved a big factor in the final score of St. Francis 12, Mount St. Michael's 0.

Prep defense worked double time to stop a determined Hayes team. Hall and Connolly have their man as All-City tackle Tony Armstead moves into the play for insurance.

Polished quarterback Vin Milaccio hands off to MacGregor as the line holds out the Mount's defense.

George Van Cott eludes a Hayes blocker. George sparked this win over Hayes by accounting for all the Prep touchdowns of the day.

Hugh Connolly slows down an Adams back as White and Hall move in for the kill. In a 60-6 slaughter the Terriers proved far too much for the Presidents.

Two Iona tacklers drag Ratkowski down from behind as they slip by White's block. They were not always so fortunate; Ray got up to score four touchdowns for the day.

Two All-Stars in a picture. John Hickey, end, moves in to tear Alan DeJardin's head off while Tony Armstead backs up the play.

A truckload of talent coupled with a driving spirit gave them the name, Marauders. A single loss by the thread of one point and a tie resulting from a fumble in the last minute of play were the only blemishes on what was probably the best Jay Vee team assembled at the Prep. Bairdi, Marco, Boeri, and D'Esposito provided the backfield offensive strength. Supporting them was Magee's kicking power and Marrona's play at defensive safety. A great line was spearheaded by the Reilly boys, Gridley, Martino, Murphy, Georgiano, and Luoni. Add to these the coaching of Mr. Bonelli and Brother Owen and the Prep got an unforgettable year in Jay Vee football.

With eleven Freshmen taken for the Jay Vee squad, the "hydrants" were seriously handicapped in manpower. Nevertheless, this resurrection of the Frosh team after last year's lapse imparted valuable experience to these gridiron hopefuls. The straight "T" formation directed by Coach Monaghan is the same system of attack employed by both Varsity and Jay Vee teams. The line work of Jim Cohen, Nick La-Giglia, Angelo Mele, and Joe Gatti was especially commendable. Mike Lesniak was outstanding in power plays run out of the fullback slot. And two shifty halfbacks, Steve Kearney and Pete Callahan, make the future look promising.

Steve Kearney playing fine defense pulls down a Poly Prep man while Pete Loonie and Pete Callahan shift with the play to make sure of the tackle.

Keglers Take Third

Eight matches won and seven lost garnered a third place tie with St. John's in the CHSAA Bowling League. Climaxing mediocre play for the season, the bowlers fought an uphill battle in the closing games of the year as they took on the two top ranking teams, St. Michael's and Bishop Loughlin. Wins by respective scores of 5-0 and 4-1 accomplished a climb to the third slot.

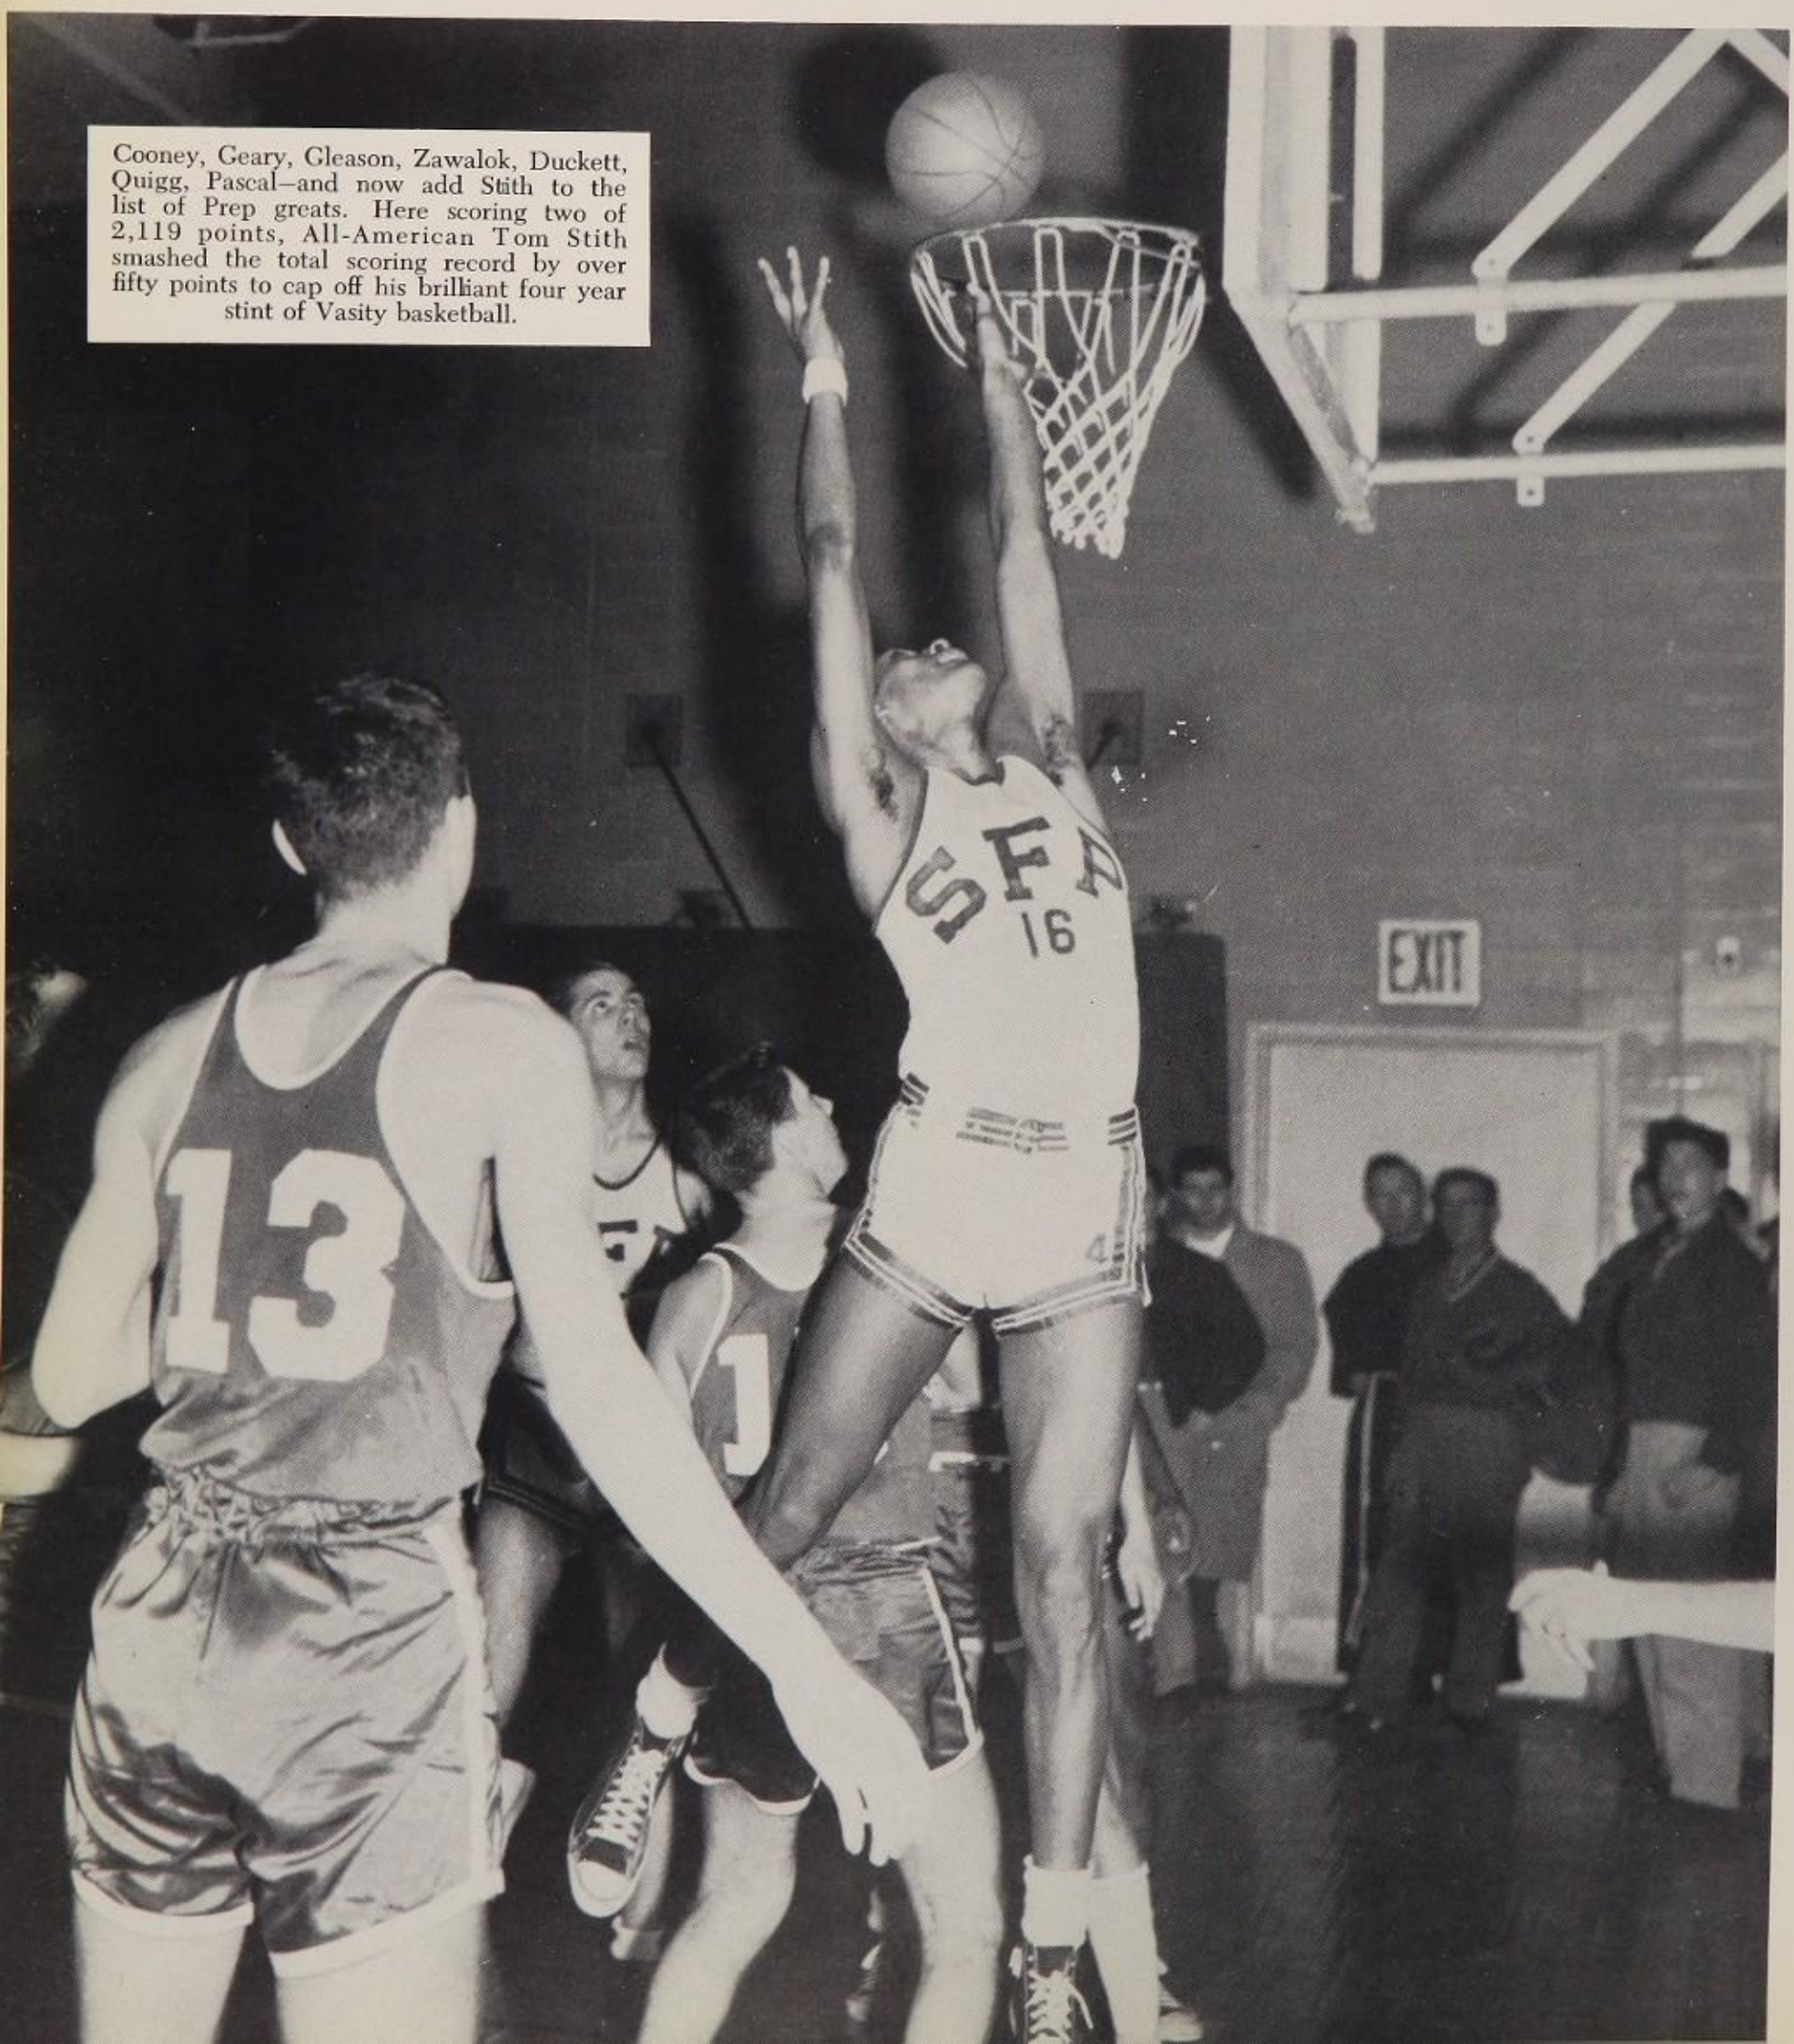
Basketball City Champions

In taking a third consecutive City Championship, and fifth consecutive Brooklyn Championship, the 1957 team established victory streaks unparalled in the history of CHSAA basketball. Final game of the year lost the National Championship to St. Ann's.



Cooney, Geary, Gleason, Zawalok, Duckett, Quigg, Pascal—and now add Stith to the list of Prep greats. Here scoring two of 2,119 points, All-American Tom Stith smashed the total scoring record by over fifty points to cap off his brilliant four year stint of Vasity basketball.

The four year old combination of Coach Keegan and Brother Alphonsus has produced one National, one Eastern States, three City, and four Brooklyn Championships.

JIM BRUCIA

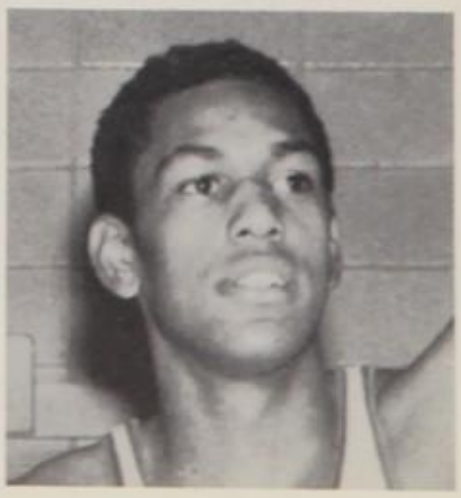
BOB CAHILL



TOM STITH

Two-time All-American Tom Stith was the one holdover of a squad that compiled an impressive 20 won and 4 lost record for the year.

Perhaps the opening game loss to All Hallows inoculated the team's drive for the remainder. They won their next five games. Then a second defeat came at the hands of a perennially strong St. Ann's aggregation. Despite Stith's registering 27 points, Willie Hall and company humbled the Terriers 55-43.

About this time the talents of the individual players blossomed. Stith displayd his scoring ability as all realized he could upset the old scoring record; Jenkins sparkled as playmaker; Brucia and Cahill exercised defensive strength; Shin equally scored and guarded under the boards.

A string of four more wins was followed by a decisive loss to a spirited Chaminade squad, 80-54. After this disaster St. Francis remained undefeated for the rest of the season. The most memorable victory in this last streak of seven, was sweet revenge over St. Ann's in a 71-70 thriller.

Next came the CHSAA play-offs. Down went Tolentine 69-51 as Stith got 27, and Brucia and Jenkins 14 apiece. Again, St. Ann's had to be faced in the second game. Cahill and Brucia's terrific defensive job on Stanner aces Hall and Jones, and Stith pouring in 35 won for the Prep. In the finals, the playmaking and spirit of Bobby Jenkins almost singularly brought us the CHSAA title. Trailing at halftime the team came on to win 63-55 against La Salle. Stith was bottled up but managed the long-expected event: he tied the scoring record in this game.

The last stop was Washington. The Terriers, National Champions of last year, were in defense of their title.

De Matha amazed the experts by allowing St. Francis to win by only one point 43-42. The second game against St. Peter's was a surprisingly strong victory for the Prep 62-48—surprising because now only six men comprised the team. After the De Matha game four had been suspended for disciplinary reasons. The final game matched us against the inevitable St. Ann's who had tracked us south for a fourth meeting of the season. Determination could not offset lack of depth. St. Ann's won 41-35, and with that the National Championship.

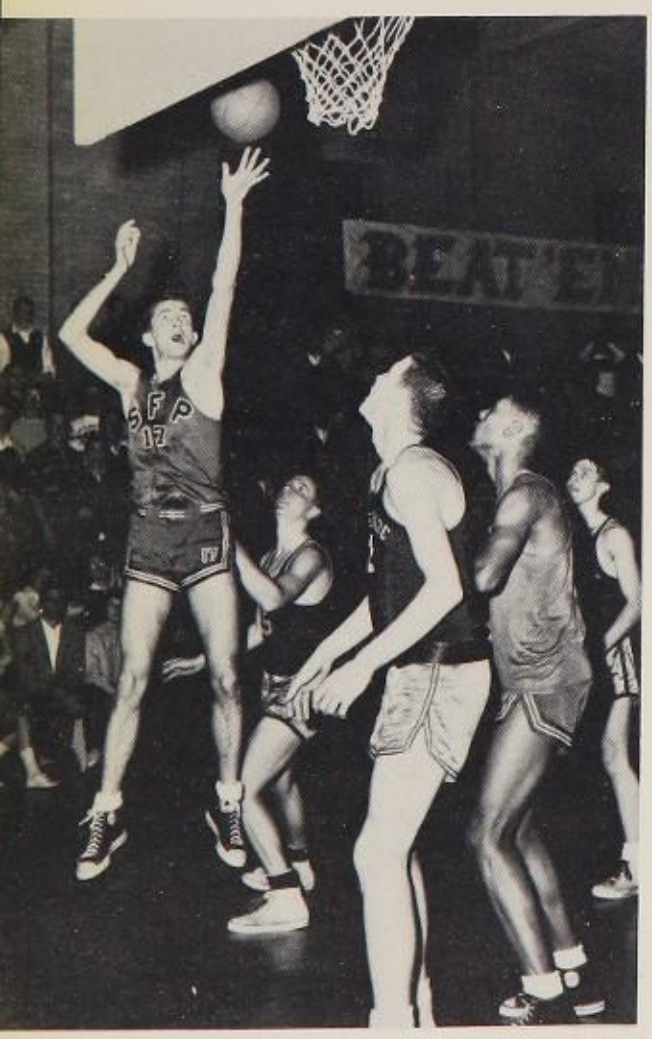
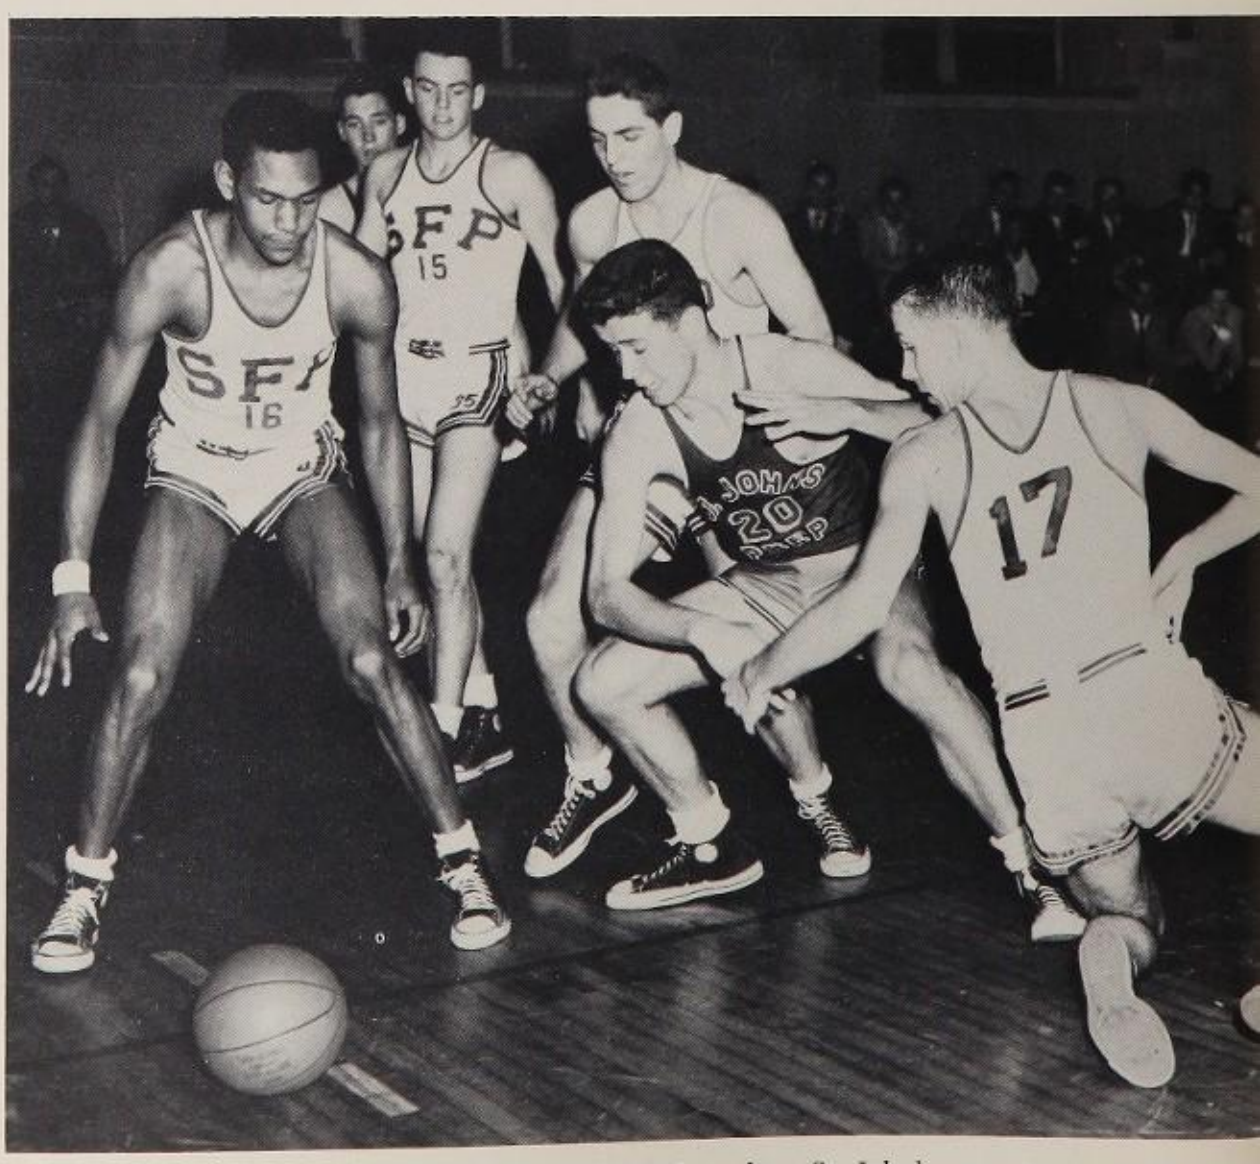
Driving Bobby Jenkins tallies two points in the important semi-finals for the City Championship which saw St. Francis defeat St. Ann's 64-50.

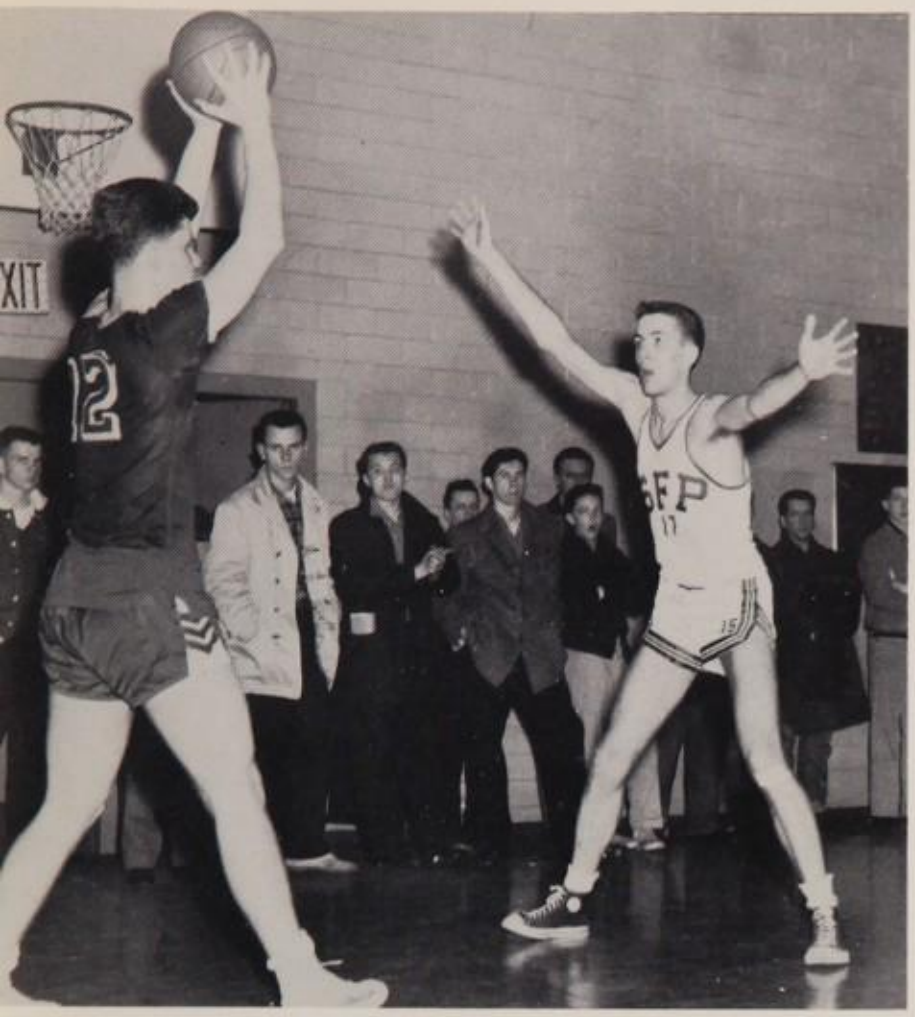
Jim Brucia utilizes Tom Stith's block to by-pass St. Ann's Vinnie Jones. Although Prep beat St. Ann's in Madison Square Garden, the tables were reversed in Washington, where the Stanners came back to capture the National Championship.



Bill Shin scores in a hopeless cause as the Terriers suffer their worst loss of the year to Chaminade, 80-54.



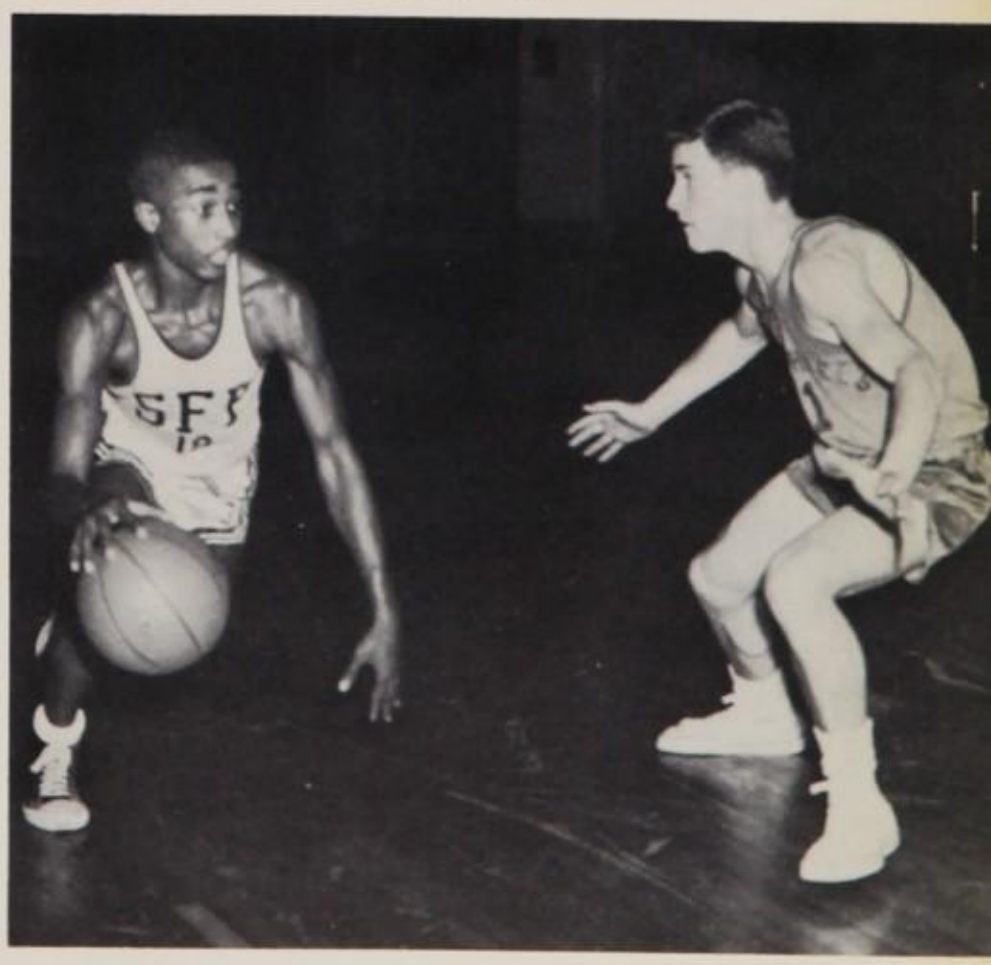
Stith, Hickey, Murphy, and Shin overwhelm a lone St. John's entry in a race for a loose ball. Prep handled the Indians easily all year, here beating them 74-54.



Ray Falvey of La Salle is held out by Bill Shin in the final tilt for the City title at Power Memorial Gym.
St. Francis 63, La Salle 55.

Bob Cahill floated this one in plus another for being chopped down in the St. Ann's contest at the Garden.

Sure-handed Bob Jenkins harries a St. Michael's defender in back court. His play making spearheaded this 89-53 victory for St. Francis.



At the St. Francis Gym, a determined Bob Greene fights past Donohue of the Stanners in an exciting mid-season game won by the Prep 70-71.

Jay Vee Brooklyn Champs Lose Play-offs

"Never have I seen a more spirited team," was veteran moderator, Brother Alphonsus' summation of the 1957 Jay Vees. Led by Frank Laterza (244 points) Joe Woltering (160 points) and Ed Checkett (144 points), they swept through the season at a pace of 15 wins and 2 losses. This early portent proved true as they took the Brooklyn Championship with only one loss marring their League record. In the City play-offs the Frosh were eliminated by Manhattan 76-54 as the usual turnover of Freshmen in January necessitated that a green team play for the City Championship. Messrs. Nash, Connelly, Krauss, Agnes, Hanley, Ottomano, and Wittreich, the high scorer, were outstanding performers. Prep Welcomes Hopeful Hogans

In September, golf was added to the athletic program. Brother Cabrini brought the new group through its formative stages in the winter months, and at the opening of the Spring season practice began at Dyker Beach Course. To date only exhibition matches are scheduled, none of which, at this writing, have been played. Future prospects are excellent since underclassmen predominate the squad. The starting five includes Charlie Wagner (a consistent shooter in the seventies), Phil Cottone (the only senior), Tom Bauman, Bill Murphy, and Walt Sander. Dick Wagner, brother to Charlie, handles the coaching.

Tankmen Take Championship For Third Consecutive Year

Prep swimmers won both the Private School and the Seton Hall Championships for 1957. Following from the two preceeding seasons, when the team took successive CHSAA titles, our original headline read Third Consecutive City Championship. However, the League directed that the February CHSAA Championship Meet at NYU, which for 23 years has determined the Champs, would not be so for 1957. In a runaway, the unofficial team scores for this Meet showed no other squad within 20 points of St. Francis. C'est la vie. Loughlin was awarded the Crown in virtue of their excellent dual meet record, and at the shaky beginnings of the season Prep had lost in these competitions, once to St. John's and once to Loughlin.

Breaststroker Dick O'Boyle makes his turn. Dick's 1:10.3 time set a new record at the Seton Hall Meet.

Record smasher of both the 200 yard freestyle and 150 yard individual medley in the Privates was the sensational sophomore, Nick Cirigliano.

Laurels for the year: To Mike Booras of 150 yard individual medley fame. It was always "Moose" Booras in his own reckless style that was home first. To Nick Cirigliano, a sophomore who lost but once all year to Loughlin's Gerald Buckley, and who then came back to beat the same Buckley in achieving his title of National 200 yard Freestyle Champion. To the skill of Bill Burchianti in the swift and strenuous 50 yard freestyle race, the "start, turn, and prayer." To Dick O'Boyle's success in the 100 yard breastroke. To the Private School Champion freestyle relay of Bill Blenk, John Langton, Kevin Heslin, and Brian Trent. And to the consistent backstroker, Tom Gowrie.

Closing out the season, the team travelled to the National Championships held at Villanova University in Pennsylvania where they bettered their standing by two over last year in placing third. Finally, at the Harrigan Meet the team ranked fifth.

Veteran Bob Garry, graduating this term, tugs for air on completing his practice runs.

Graduating this term, Brian Trent sharpens up his racing dive preparatory to his final competition in the Catholics.

Promising prospects among the young swimmers are backstrokers Jerry Nichols and Don McQuade, and freestylists John Langton and Dick Tangeman. Langton has already contributed greatly in wins with relay teams and in taking an individual bronze medal in the Private School Championships won by St. Francis.

Hopes for the future rest on the talents of youngsters like Bob Landwehrle, Pat Healy, and Tom Blenk. Tom, though only a third termer, was part of a 200 yard medley combination that set a 1:59 record time for the Seton Hall Meet.

For three years Kevin Heslin has repeatedly taken second and third places in competitions.

Prep's First Cross Country Championship

A start at Van Cortlandt.

Directed by Mr. James McHugh, this team astonished all by winning every one of the seven major runs of the year. Chief among these was the twenty-ninth CHSAA Championships at VanCortlandt Park where, running with 900 competitors, the Prep scored a new first in track circles.

The common sight of the season was a cluster of Terriers leading the pack. Here Dan Rorke, Joe Davis, and Ed Kennedy engineer the sweep of the Private School Championships held at Van Cortlandt Park.

Walt Young, second man of the Jay Vee, comes home alone in the AAPS Run.

Standing: Walter Dugan, Bob Adee, Pat Cashin.

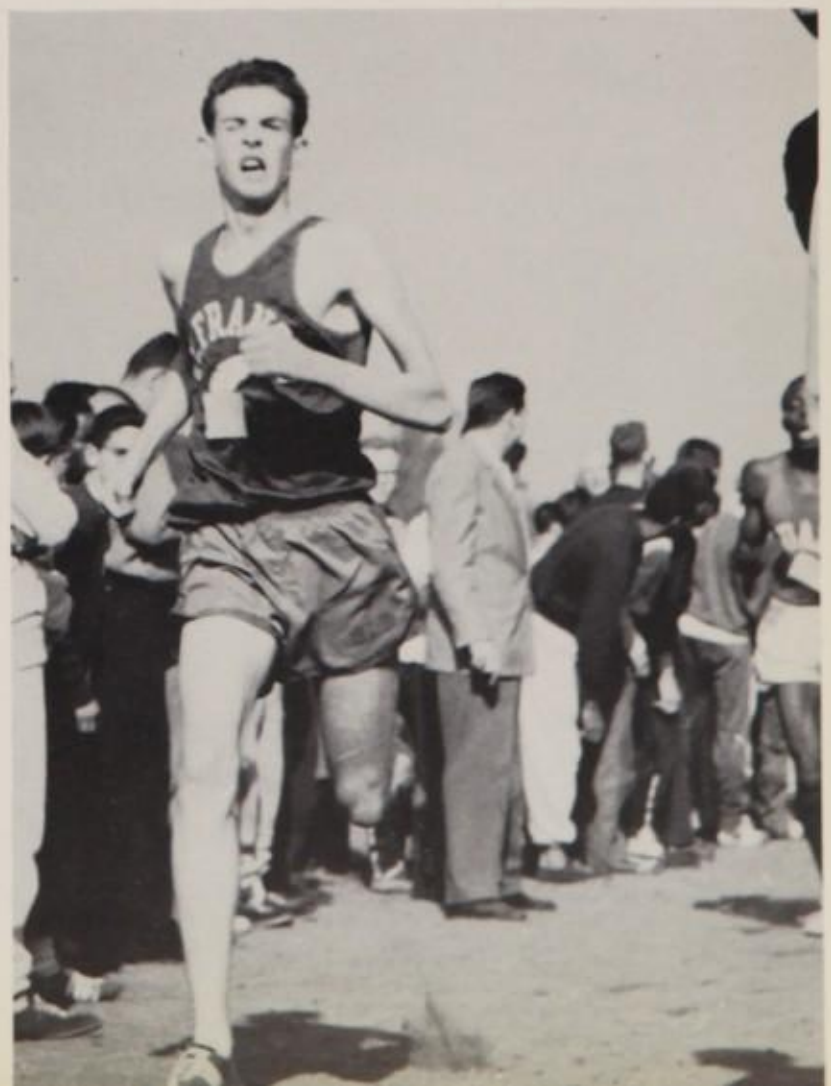
Approaching the final hill, Frank Hegarty leads Dwyer of Brooklyn Prep. Frank took eleventh in the CHSAA Run.

Led by Dan Rorke, the squad which was characterized by its running as a closely knit unit, completely dominated the cross country scene. The Grout Memorial Run at Schenectady, and the six other runs at Van Cortlandt Park: the New York University, the St. John's University, the Fordham University, the Brooklyn-Long Island Catholic Championships, the CHSAA, and the AAPS Championships, all were won by St. Francis. That these meets are often composed of some fifty schools and consist of some 300 competitors makes their achievement more startling. Averaging under fourteen minutes for the Van Cortland runs the squad captured 65 medals, 6 trophies, and 1 plaque.

The Jay Vee squad was only slightly less successful. John Finn's four first places was the major factor in the team's five out of six victories. For the second year in a row they took the AAPS Championship. Coach McHugh, impressed by their performance, entered the Jay Vee in the Fordham "B" race in competition with thirty Varsity teams. They took a creditable third, leaving twenty-seven Varsity teams in the dust.

The Freshman group headed by Brother DePorres and Mr. Wood won the Private School Championships to culminate the advance of a gradually improving squad. Pete Corritori and Dennis Esposito were standouts.

Team totals of the year: 170 medals, 12 trophies, one plaque.



Dan Rorke temporarily leads Dave Brown of Adams in the Fordham Meet. Dave came on to eventually win the Fordham Meet.

Track's Great Day

The Track Team will likely be the first in CHSAA history to capture 30 consecutive titles. At this writing, 22 major victories are recorded. Ten other relatively unimportant relay carnivals and invitational meets have been omitted in the count of this amazing streak, although these too have been Terrier dominated.

The Loughlin, N.Y.U., St. Michael, Cardinal Hayes, and our own St. Francis Games registered five quick wins to initiate the Indoor Season. Assists from the field events as in the N.Y.U. Meet where both Judd (high jumping 6'1"), and Giacinto (shot-putting 54' 6¼") took firsts made pickings rather easy. The great test came at the National Championships which touted the toughest talent on the Eastern Seaboard. Ratkowski's first place in the quarter, Rorke's third in the thousand, and the first by the Pindar, Tynan, Hegarty, Armstead mile relay featured this win by a thin one point. Other victories followed, and then at the 30th Catholic Championships the Terriers won their 20th consecutive meet to close the Indoor Season.

Going outdoors, the sweep of the Queens-Iona Relays and the Relay Carnival made the squad's all around excellence apparent. Then came the event: the tension packed Penn Relays. Five men, Kennedy, Rorke, Davis, Taylor, and Hegarty, set two new Penn records and captured the distance Medley and Two Mile Relay Championships. The one mile and quarter relays placed third and second respectively. Had the injured Ratkowski been running, all four events would have certainly been taken by the Prep.

At the St. Francis Games versatile Larry Judd tries his skill in the 60 yard high hurdles. Running out of the money here Larry later picked up two points in the high jump.

Prep's Field Coach, Vincent O'Connor, officiates at the 102nd Armory as high jumpers await his verdict.

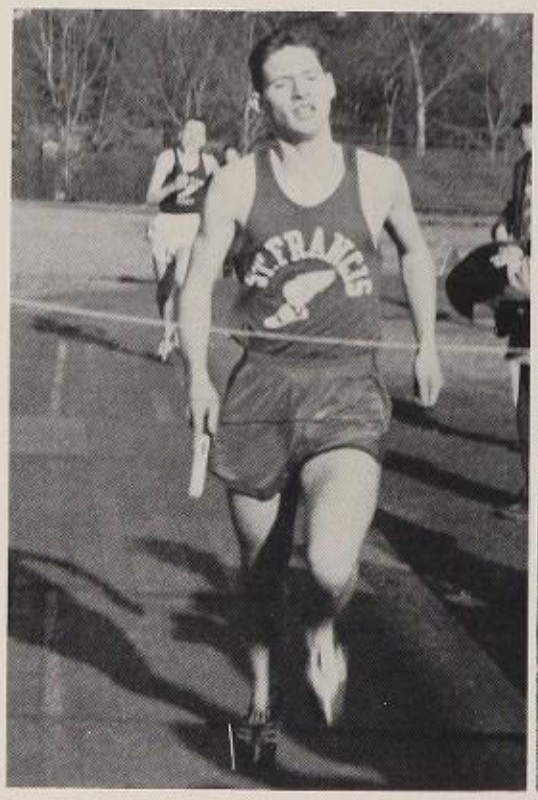
Dan Rorke fights off his arch-rival Neville Christian of Jackson in the 1000 yard run at the Cardinal Hayes Games. Rorke scored four points in finishing second.

FIELD TEAM. Coach Vincent O'Connor and Ray Bausch. (Kneeling) Tony Armstead, Mike Giacinto, Larry Judd.

Fighting for position Bob Adee leads off the one mile relay at Penn. Prep placed third.

Mike Giacinto heaves-ho for a 55′ 4″ toss that took first place in the Fordham Prep Relays.

At Fordham, Bob Sherlock anchors the mile relay win.



Pat Cashin finds tough competition at Randall's Island.

Joe Taylor passes to Doug Tynan for the third leg of the mile relay won by the Prep at the St. Francis Games.

National 440 yard Champion, Ray Ratkowski starts his gun lap. Ray's 50.2 time in this National A A U Me et missed smashing a 19 year old record by 1/10 of a second.

Penn quarter mile relay run finds Les Pindar passing to Don Kauke. Prep's team missed a first place by two yards.

Joe Armstead takes a third in winding up the Penn one mile relay run.

Tony Armstead's 52' 7½" throw nets third place in the Brooklyn College Meet to add three points to the Terrier's winning score.

Taking the stick from Bob Williams, Fred Palumbo runs out the 880 in the Queens-Iona Relays.

Bill Downey runs out the mile at t
Brooklyn College Meet.

At the ¾ mark of the Penn Distance Medley, Dan Rorke strides easily to hold off Stepinac's Sardisco. St. Francis' winning time of 10:39.8 set a new record. (Right) Mike Marco on his way to a 2.04 leg of a half mile run at the Fordham Relays. The relay placed second.

Ed Kennedy busts out of the pack to initiate the 8:6.5 record breaking run of the two mile relay at Penn.

Midway in the Penn two miler, Frank Hegarty hands off to Joe Davis. Dan Rorke anchored the relay to win the Championship.

Angelo Zarra (801) is out by yards as John Jaeger (805) whirls to cover runner at second. Final score, 801 - 5 and 805 - 1.

Intramurals

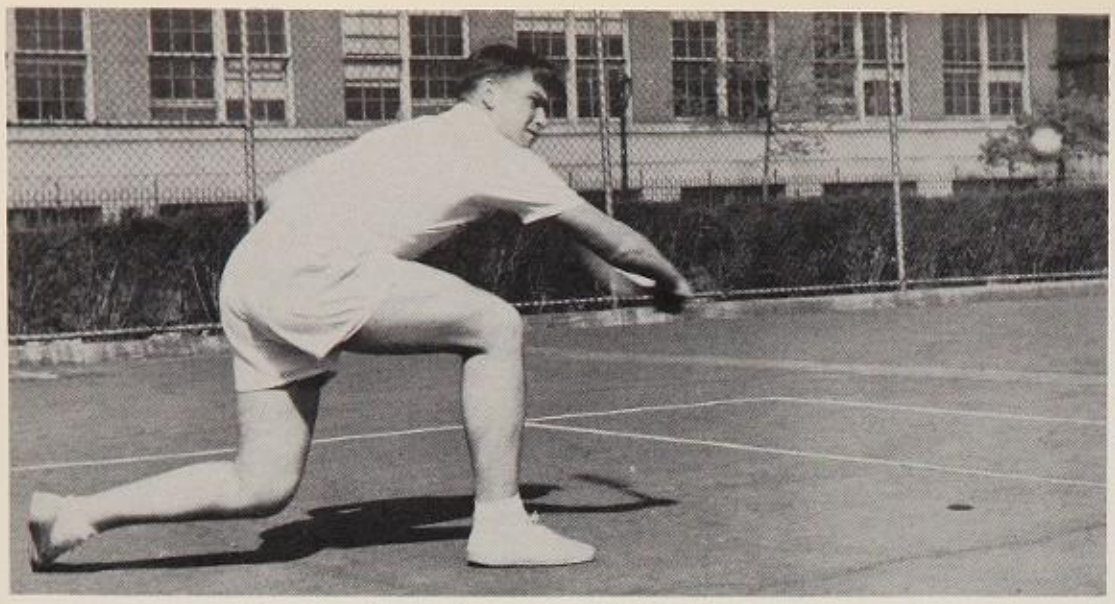
Those who do not play interscholastic sports may participate in the intramural program. Athletic Director, Brother Cyprian, conducts the competitions which include basketball, softball, handball, track, and volleyball. Brothers DePorres, DeSales, Felician, Theodore, and Vincent assist in officiating the contests. Basketball saw 805 win the senior division; 501 the junior; and 301 the sophomore. Pete McCarthy, John Sheridan, and John Langton, respectively, were voted the Most Valuable Players, while Ray Moore won the foul shooting contest. In softball "Percy" Ross got the MVP as 801 thrashed 803 to take the crown. In track 805 was victorious in almost every event. Mike Esposito (803) took handball honors. Volleyball and other class competitions have not been completed at this writing.

Don't fence me in. Umpiring Brother Cyprian cringes as 805's John Maresco can't hold on to one of Pete McCarthy's fireballs.

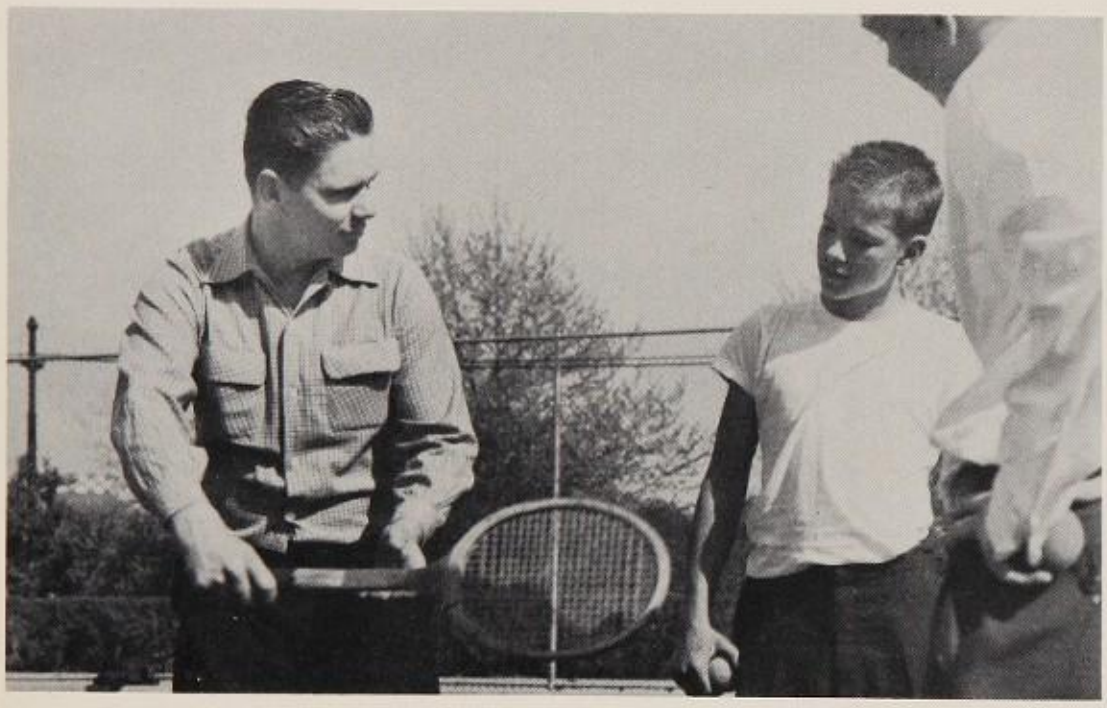
At the Easter assembly in the gymnasium, awards for track intramurals are distributed by Brother Cyprian, director of the program. Bill Murphy receives his medal for winning the sophomore 220 yard dash. Bill also run a leg of the winning 880 yard relay.

Tom Yeager of 501 passes behind Pat Brescia of 607. In winning this game 36-34, 501 garnered the Junior Basketball Championship.

Rackets Underway



John Zarycky works on the difficult backhand return.



Brother Robert schools two fledglings in proper wrist action.

The tennis teams begins the season with two starters returning from last year's squad. Co-captains Dave Layfield and Bill Murphy are expected to carry the burden of the season's work, but for needed depth the team must look to its freshmen members. At this writing only one match has been played. The Terriers lost then to Kew Forest by a score of 4-1.

Neal Cabrinha slams a forehand shot as Dave Layfield covers.

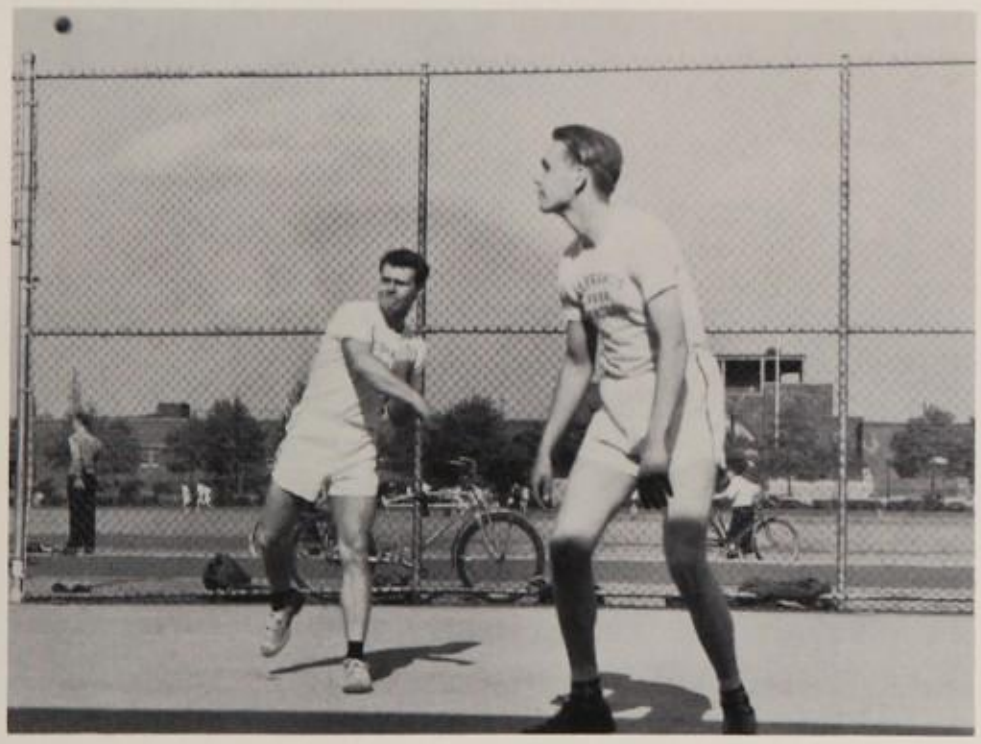
At the initiation of the handball season, an optimistic squad looks to the future. Forrestal Trent and Joe Anterio co-captain the group moderated by Brother Vincent. The slappers practice regularly at McCarren Park in preparation for matches with Loughlin, Hayes, Automotive, Cathedral, Power and Tolentine. In June they will participate in the CHSAA Championships at Central Park.



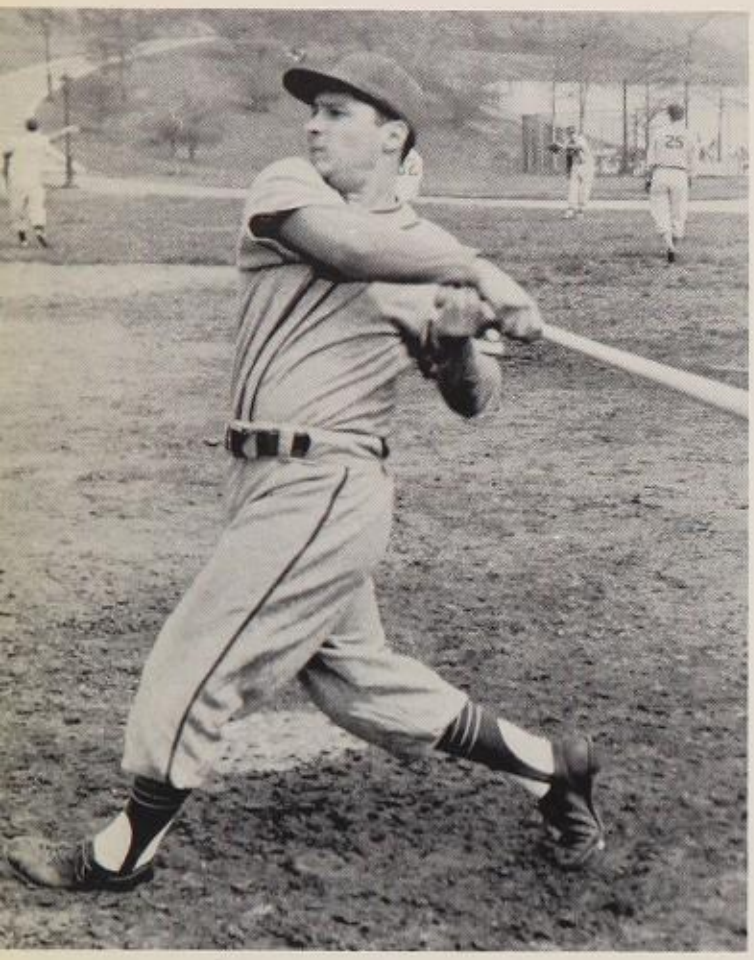
Poised John Gramas moves in as Brian Trent cracks a return.

Brother Vincent evalutes his scoring statistics to Frank Loughlin and Tom Murawski.

Ron Klammer slaps a serve.

Early Spring workout gets Walt Mackey in shape for coming competitions.

Baseball at Midseason



After four years of Varsity competition, the slugging captain of the Terriers, Mike Esposito, is one of the most sought after prospects in schoolboy baseball.

The Terriers' CHSAA League record at this writing stands at three games won and three lost. What the team seems to lack is pitching that can sustain late inning tension. In their games which last seven innings, sixth frame blues have particularly plagued them. It is interesting to note that in three of six games lost to date, St. Francis was leading by from three to four runs prior to entering the final innings. The team's great strength is its hitting. Besides the great potential of the young sophomores Bill Spraul and Joe O'Brien, whose Leaue averages are climbing steadily to the .300 circle, Dave Gatti is batting .333, Mike Esposito .476, and the mighty Joe Torre a gaudy .615.

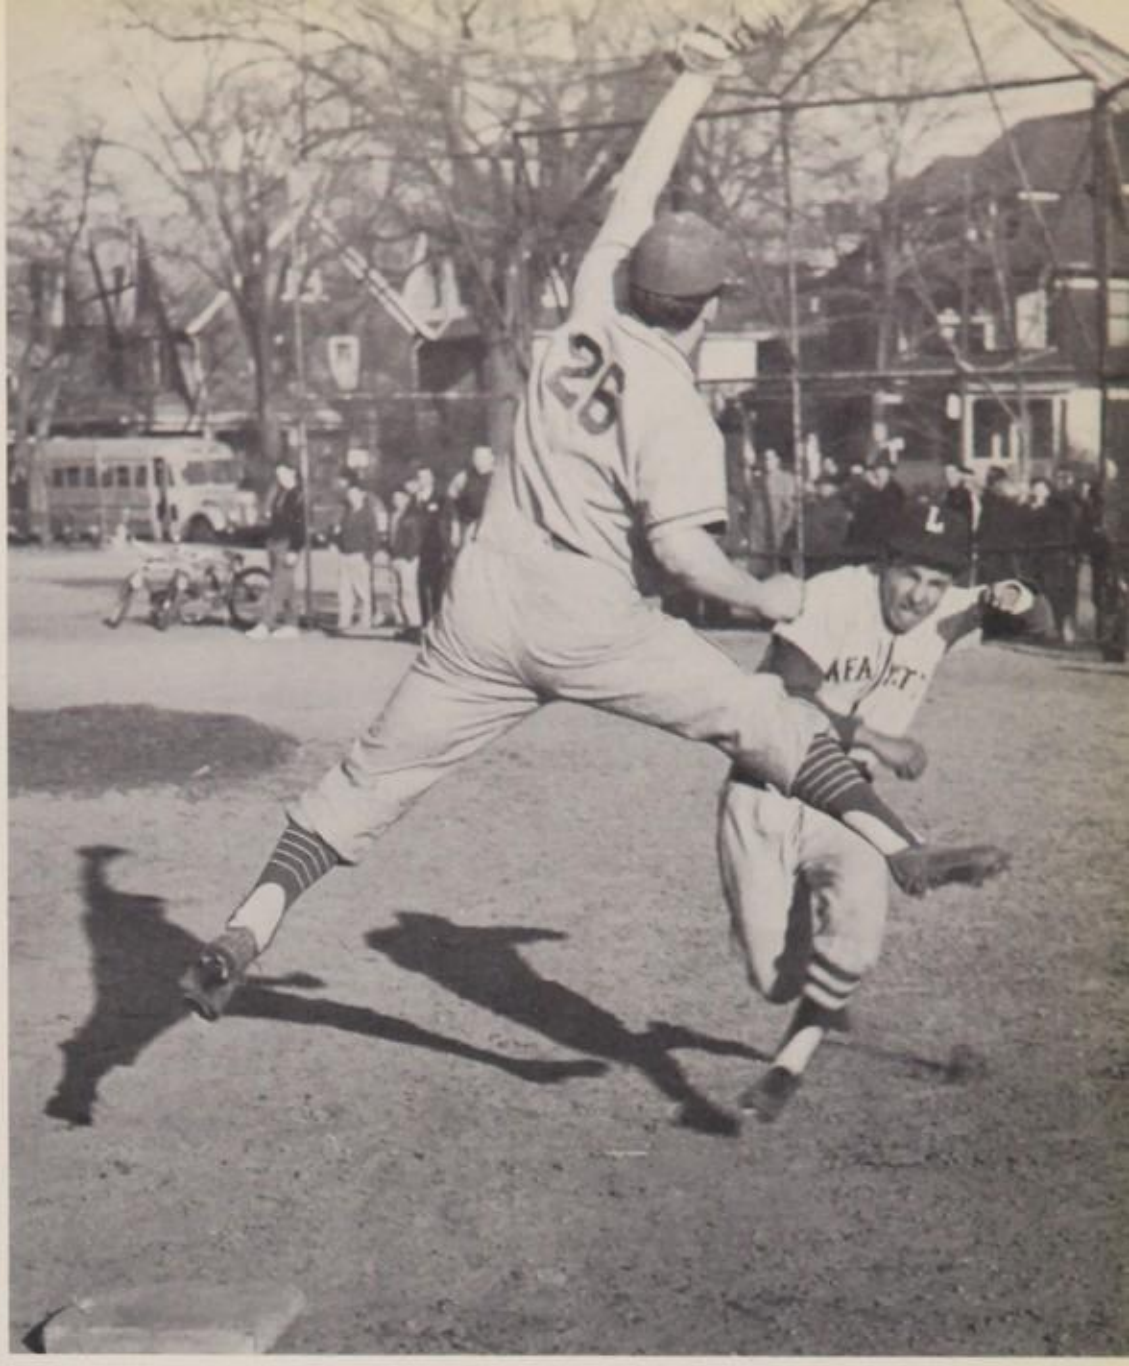
Versatile Mike Esposito leaps for a high throw to nail Junior Maiese of Lafeyette at third. Prep lost 2-0. Mike has also played at first, short, and catcher this season.

Prep's fine hitting catcher, Bill Spraul, who has handled most of the work behind the plate this year, hovers under a pop foul at the St. Michael's game. Terriers won 17-3.



Joe O'Brien out lunging for first in 7-2 win over Bushwick.

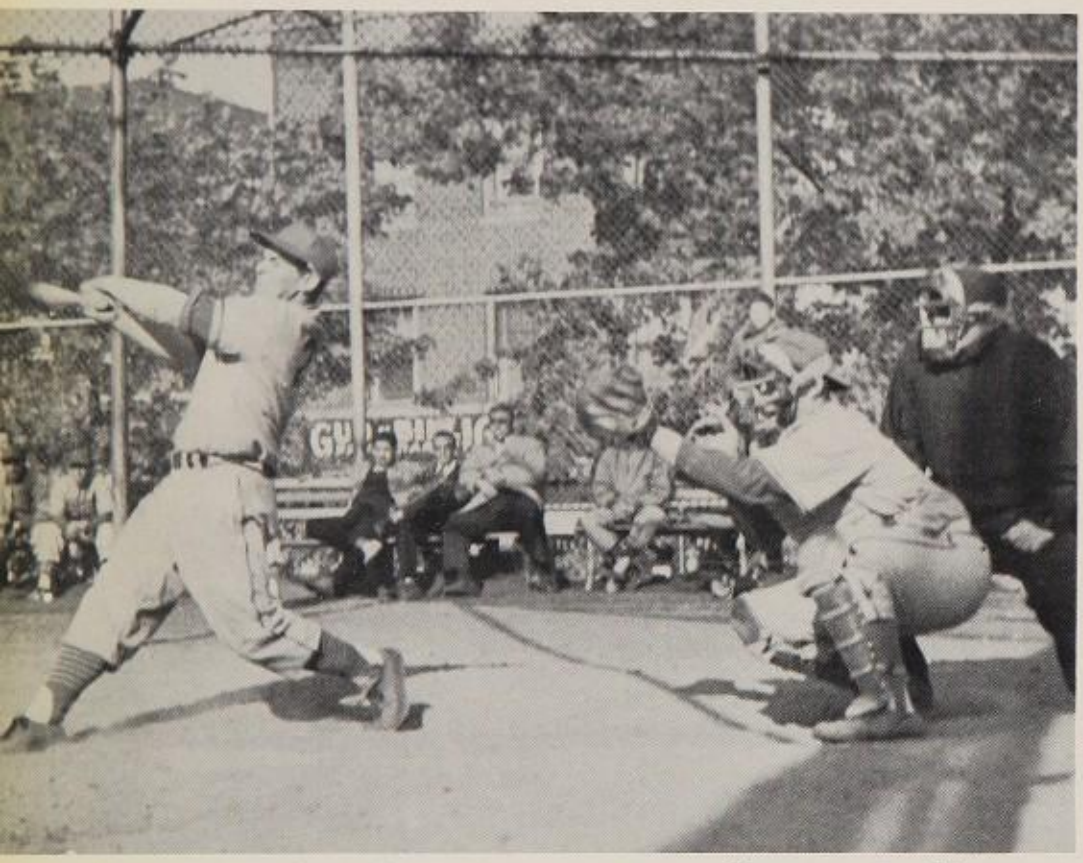
John Hickey skips safely back to first during Lafayette game.

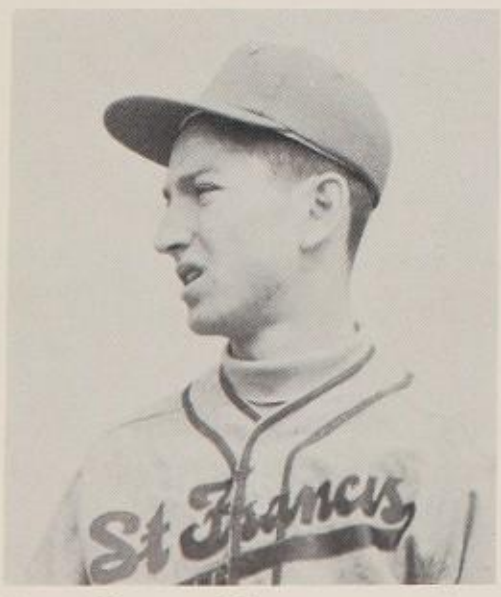
Awe-struck Cooney, Mulhern, Cefalu, and Esposito watch Joe Torre's drive for a home run crash against the upper facade of Brooklyn Prep.

Second baseman Pat Cannon lays down a sacrifice bunt in the victory over Bushwick played at Prep's new home field, Maurice Park.

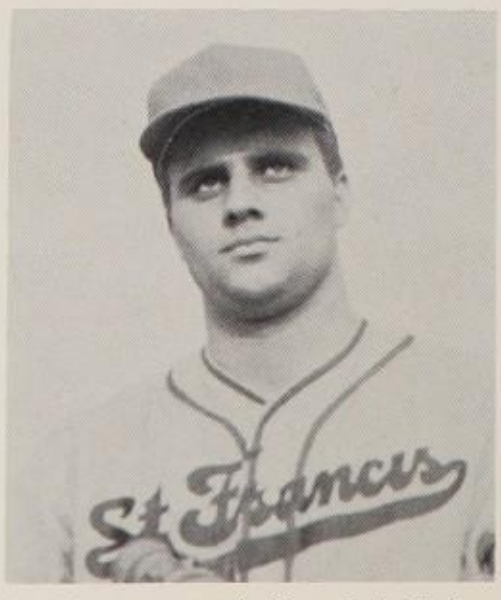


Dave Gatti singles with a vicious cut to start a rally against Brooklyn Prep. Terriers lost this game 8-5 on a last inning grand slam homer.

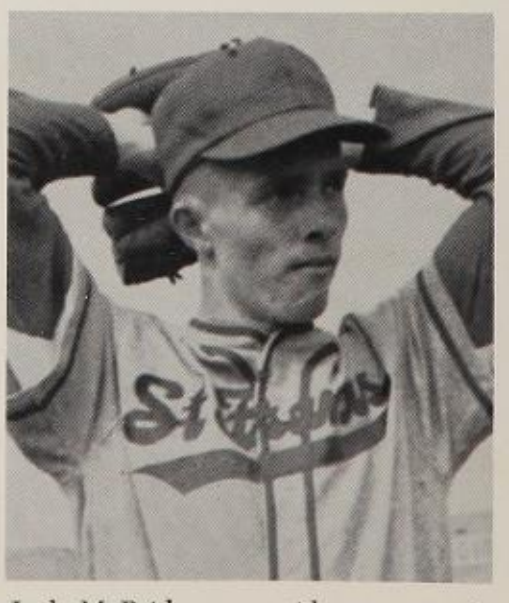
At third base, Jack Cahill slaps a late tag on a Bushwick player. This 7-2 win avenged Prep's previous defeat at the hands of the Tigers.



Don Alfieri — lefty mainstay. Don leads the team in strikeouts with an 11 per game average and an ERA of 1.



Joe Torre — speedballing Bob Turley of St. Francis. Besides aiding the moundsmen as in his 17-3 win over St. Michael's, Joe wields squad's most powerful bat.



Jack McBride — a midseason standout. At his last outing Jack twirled a two hitter against Trinity which was won by the Prep 8-0.

Moderator, Brother Cajetan and Coach, Brother Owen.

Jay Vee Enters Private School League

With no Jay Vee League organized in Brooklyn this year, Brothers Cajetan and Owen registered their squad with the Private High School League of New York. In two League games to date, the Terriers are undefeated having beaten Columbia Grammar 4-0, and Dwight 9-1. With the talents of pitcher Bob Krauss, outfielder Ken Wittreich, third baseman Matt Rozzi, and captain and second baseman Ray Nash leading the way, the team is strongly favored to take the 1957 championship.

Bill Hanley slams a triple against Dwight. Prep won game 9-1.

neighboring skyscrapers hold the destinies of...

the graduates

A glance out of any westward-facing window on the second or third floor of the Prep presents, first, a short expanse of tarred roofs, television aerials, and black factory stacks extending their stubby fingers skyward. Abruptly, these end with the narrow blue ribbon that is the East River. Then beyond these waters, and rising almost immediately from the farther bank, towers the outline of New York City.

To the Seniors presented on the following pages, this view carries a great significance. For here lies the hub of opportunity in industry, science, government, medicine, or whatever else each has cut out for himself. Inevitably, for most of us, this locale will soon provide our place in the world.

Now, the cycle of the undergraduate has run its course. Four years of study, worry, dances, rallies, and the eccentric times of seniorhood are gone. Gone also are those first unshaven years when such significant questions confronted us as, "Who's that Brother?" and when we pondered about such problems as, "I wonder where my lunch went?", or, "Where can I learn the Mambo?" And gone are the classmates, teammates and lockermates who will always be memories. As the finished products of Saint Francis Prep, we stand on the brink of adult life awaiting its tribulations as well as its glories.

Following from our progressive education enhanced with the gifts of faith and religion, our attitude in this moment before our entry into the new world of the City is, justly, one of great confidence.

Four years ago we first began to dream of this night and now, deliberately traveling these scant hundred feet to the foot of the sanctuary in step to the ponderous strains of the Graduation March, we realize for the first time that the seemingly momentous event which such a short time ago was considered as the Mecca of our high school lives is slowly fading in the lights and faces and music which encompass us. But memories remain long enough to allow the senior mind to wander again and snatch hazy glimpses of the scenes which rush by in the twinkling of an eye.

Discarded books, flunked exams, football rallies, jug sessions, parties, boatrides, dances, the Prom, the Retreat, and all the other incidents of the past year live again in the fleeting moments of our first steps.

Unbelievable was our six month transformation into biased, venom spitting, connoisseurs of world affairs who could argue a detail on the drop of a hat (or an Ike pin) and forget the issue at hand so quickly. I don't think we'll ever forget those forty-five minute sessions of political brainwashing as our quick-witted History Prof with the rapidly thinning shock of glowing hair preached the gospel of American Utopia from 1933-1945.

"Shhh! Here comes Benny . . ." A few seconds later your door opens and Brother Benignus' bespectacled visage peers ominously into your room. "Are you asleep?" . . . "Yes, Brother" . . . "Good" . . . Slam! And so it went during Retreat days. These were filled with prayer, conferences, meditation, and Brother B's constant admonition: "You must keep the silence!"—as we paraded through the tree studded grounds reciting Hail Marys loud enough to be heard back at the Prep. But they were wonderful days and whether we spent them praying for help in the exams, straightening out our spiritual lives, or just deciding whether to take Helen or Joan to the Prom, we're glad we went.

For a few seconds we relive the heroic (if soporific) saga of English Lit with that mild-mannered, brief case toting, conservatively dressed, closely sheared gentelman who possessed the uncanny ability of employing all twenty-six letters of the alphabet in three consecutive words. "Glopping up" one's exam paper was the sin of sins. And reading a two hundred line poem in seventy-five seconds, or failing to finish a probing grammar exam, which would have given the most stalwart defender of the King's English momentary fits, became common occurrences. Thus we sat in stony faced awe in the presence of Univac's source of vocabulary.

Then there was the Ward-Kelty-Kirby battle for the golden record of attendance . . . perpetually "off the sphere" Joe McCarthy . . . Pop O'Reilly's requests for family benefits . . . Frank Maxon's personification of a pre-Giflette Blade advertisement . . . our near victim of the Fordham Baldies, Pete Gibbons . . . the pleas for justice by an inspired Jim McGowan rebelling against a certain political autocracy-pleas that heroically towered above the desperate charge of "out of order" . . . the "Where's your horse" gibes directed against Boots Morley. Thus do the memories of those final days rise and fall upon the imagination like some prized but never to be recovered possession.

Strange are the sentimental thoughts that crowd your mind on an occasion like this. Now, as we pass through the open gates of the altar of the One we have been taught to love and adore, the emotions felt might be summed up in this adaptation of a houseblessing:

God bless the corners of this school and be the lintel blest;
And bless the rooms and bless the halls and bless each daily test;
And bless each door that opens wide to Prepsters as to kin;
And bless each window pane that lets the sunshine in;
And bless each roofbeam overhead and every study hall;
The peace of Francis, and of God, the peace of love on all.

Four years have been crossed off the calendar of our lives. With them we recall many thoughts of our school, our teachers, our friends, and the events of the days that paralleled our high school career . . .

The Age of Chlorophyl accompanied our entrance to St. Francis Prep in 1953. The entire nation was caught in the clutches of this phenomenon, and "nature's green wonder" appeared in many of our daily commodities. We used it to brush our teeth in the morning and to make our breath "kissing sweet" at night.

Our Sophomore year saw coonskin caps become accepted apparel and Davy Crokett became a household word. His daring exploits were familiar to all, and the Prep halls echoed with a popular tune about "the king of the wild frontier." Dior's flat look became stylish and we saw the fair sex take on a new appearance. However these influences too gradually subsided and with the advent of our Junior year new heroes came into being.

The inimitable Elvis Presley appeared on the scene and brought with him the onslaught of "Rock and Roll." A new sound was introduced into music, and for better or for worse it was synonomous with our generation. This year also saw the arrival of Bermuda shorts as many oddly shaped gams paraded up and down the avenue. Lucky bucks were also in vogue and everyone went wild checking the serial numbers on their dollar bills.

Then, before we knew it, we were Seniors, a little frightened and a little proud. The Ivy League influence was born and even our clothes took on a trim look with three button jackets and a belt on the back of the pants. We were busy figuring out the Little Foolers while Wyatt Earp impressed us with his courage and Charlie Van Doren of quiz fame awed us with his mental gymnastics.

Remember in first term when a certain Latin teacher imitated something Humpty Dumpty had pulled many years ago? It seems this particular instructor (Brother Michael by name) was verbally chastizing a group of students who had flunked an exam ("gross disobedience!"). Suddenly with a loud rumbling noise the arm of the chair on which he was sitting gave way and he fell to the floor with legs stretched skyward. With a thud and a groan the lecture was cut short and the good Brother limped from the tragic scene as Napolean must have slipped away at Waterloo.

But unlike his legendary predecessor, Brother was put together again and we encountered him once more in our Junior and Senior English classes.

A sore spot in the minds of many of us was that time in 605 when we met the strong (but wet) arm of justice. One snowy morning in late February a white crust blanketed the window ledges in Room 26. We stared at the tempting crystals for two periods—then our emotions took hold and a wildcat seige occurred. Sleepy Hollow revolted and bombarded all corners of the room with dripping pellets. Unfortunately someone opened the door and a snowball promptly whizzed out into the hall. Seconds later a member of the faculty, long known for his staunch advocation of all things good, stormed into the class and a wild scream sent the snow warriors scurrying back to their seats.

"Who was the idiot who threw that." Now with the previous confusion (that is, before the interloper's appearance on the scene) it was quite difficult for us to tell who the culprit actually was. He repeated his query, and in spite of the snow, silence reigned. Then our stern apprehender, his hair afire, raced to the blackboard and scribbled the following assignment:

1. Write the Constitution of the United States.
2. Write 2,000 words on "The Stupidity of Throwing Snowballs in Catholic School."
3. Write 1,700 words on "Stupidity" (it seems he thought we were experts on the word).

Pheonix City promptly voiced its protests while Sleepy Hollow yawned and returned to its slumber so rudely interrupted. Our tormenter then walked out of the room mumbling threats of expulsion as we bemoaned our fate.

Also in eighth term, Class 803 had Mr. Payne in the physics lab. One day, he thought that gas was streaming out of an outlet and, when Mr. Ellinghaus used a match to check the situation, our history teacher promptly panicked. It was the first time that we had ever seen a Democrat turn red in so short a time.

Our last term also saw the San Fran room switched from cell 27 to the old faculty dining room. The staff shared its new home with the Seraph and the Music Department (that's right—the Music Department!), and every day after dismissal the gentle patter of a typewriter could be heard piercing the din of the Glee Club's melodius chant.

The football games on Sunday were great! The victory parties afterward at Gatti's were terrific! School on Monday was torture! Thank God we had Brother Theodore first period because after some stern words ("you're going to ruin yourselves . . . the human body can only take so much . . . get some sleep . . . remember, moderation!") he'd usually prove sympathetic to our cause.

We'll never forget our introduction to 'smilin' Brother Theodore in first term. "Now listen KIDDIES, I'm almost sure you'll be found wanting if the whole class doesn't attend the big meet this weekend." Well we bought tickets, went to the meet, and found something called school spirit. During our four years at St. Francis we are proud to say that from the cinder track to the basketball court, the Prep could rightfully chant, "We're number one."

January 4th was the day of the long awaited Senior Prom. Several weeks before, Mr. and Mrs. Malfetano had come to school to measure our class for tuxedos. We went over to the gymnasium and were instructed to remove the clothing that would hinder the necessary measuring. Several minutes later Cornelius O'Carrol was standing next to a blushing Mrs. Malfetano in his B.V.D.'s quietly asking for a jacket and tie.

Finally the big day arrived. We picked up our dates at about 8 o'clock and began what seemed a dream of dancing and entertainment.

In too short a time we started the trip home and with the breaking dawn most of us possessed 25¢, a girl, and a tuxedo. A look into a tired Senior's window that night, would have revealed him struggling with his suspenders, trying to get the knots out of his shoes and thinking of a time that he'd never forget.

Another of the highlights of Senior year was our retreat at the Passionist monastery in Jamaica. After a day of prayer and meditation we retired to our rooms, and the lights went out at 10:30; then the fun began. Midnight raids occurred throughout the Retreat House but the vigilance of Brothers Noel and Benignus apprehended many wrong doers. They were naturally reminded not to misbehave again ("in a friendly way of course") and sent back to their rooms.

Poor John Jaegar, six feet five inches tall, spent two nights on the floor. At first he tried sleeping in bed but after catching his foot in the spring bars thought better of it. With his blanket and pillow he retired to the floor, and the next morning awoke with a neat bed and a sore back.

One of the Passionist fathers, giving a sermon on the sacrament of Penance, was trying to convey the thought that it was no disgrace to have to confess your sins, "Why even the Jesuits go to confession once a week," he stated. Well, that reassured us!

Our class had the distinction of being the first one in the new St. Francis to take chemistry. On the day of the historic first experiment an incident occurred that made us wonder how the remainder of the term would progress. Mr. Wood was organizing the preparation of oxygen, and in the course of the experiment he applied heat to a test tube of chemicals. Instead of affecting the contents, the tube itself began to melt until it drooped into a grotesque glob. The teacher was embarrased, we were amused, and the experiment was ruined.

The acceleration program that went into effect in January 1957 didn't affect us directly but we definitely felt its presence. All the holidays "above and beyond" were eliminated, which meant that we actually had five day weeks. The periods were made ten minutes longer and we lost our study periods somewhere in the shuffle.

However, the new program did have one advantage; we were able to hit more classes per period when selling tickets for something. We perpetually sold tickets, that is if it wasn't during a period that we had something important to do—like work on the cafeteria squad or layouts for the San Fran.

By the way, we'd like to know what prompted the political revolt in eighth term. A definite destruction of the old order was noticeable as an entirely new Student Council was elected. In 805 a "depose Cottone" campaign was successful, and in 803 George De George got the ax. Obviously discontent among the masses.

Our eighth term teachers certainly made some lasting impressions. Remember Brother Benignus exhorting us to "get on the beam" and Mr. Payne trying to influence our politics. Well he did do a good job. To quote one graduate, "I've learned a valuable lesson in history this term. When I'm twenty one, I'm voting Republican!" We certainly broadened our minds in Mr. Morrissey's "Philosophy I" class–(he also spoke French on the side). Brother Michael made some definite impressions on us too, as we struggled to interpret Shakespeare and the other literary greats.

In four years, our class has gone from breaking records in almost every major sport to exploding bombs in the biology lab and winning academic honors in national and city-wide competitions.

As Freshmen we entered the Prep irresponsible youths, and today we are leaving as young men seriously contemplating the future. To the school and faculty that wrought this change we owe a debt of gratitude that cannot be expressed in these insignificant lines.

We see how the past years have altered our lives and we realize the years to come will alter them further still. The direction the future will take is unknown to us now although we have discovered where interests and abilities lie through our education at the Prep. In years hence we will look back on our high school graduation and recall Frost's meaningful lines:

Two paths diverged in a wood, and I—
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.

It doesn't seem possible that the last thousand days have seen us evolve from the fuzzy cheeked freshmen of 1954 to the collegians, the servicemen, and the stock clerks of 1957. Entering St. Francis in the February term, we thought the big distinction of our class would be that the scheduled 1958 graduation would coincide with the close of the Prep's first hundred years of existence. At the end of our sixth term, however, we were quite unexpectedly informed that our group would complete the final year's work in six months. Rumors began to circulate that Brothers Timothy and Alphonsus were playing a huge checker game with the classes.

Freshman year was the age of the double Latin period per diem, of the mysterious amoeba, the wonders of Treasure Island, and mixture problems. Some of us got a whirlwind introduction to the ascetic pleasures of group singing as Brother Benignus, seeking talent for his popular glee club, recruited no less than thirty-eight "volunteers". Only Bob Furey, insisting he had to play roller hockey, escaped. (By the time he reads this, our renowned Hickey Memorial Essay winner will have gone back to the bone crushing sport on wheels). Others were made familiar with the thrill of wheezing around McCarran Park accompanied by the crack of Mr. McHugh's bull whip. Then also, most of us first experienced the wild excitement of Friday night bus rides into the sticks, when S. F. P. met Chaminade on the basketball court.

The athletic greats, the rookie Einsteins, and the comedians now began to assume the positions they would hold till senior year, and perhaps throughout life.

In second term we were caught off guard trying to learn "Latin Made Easy" with Mr. Donovan, and we'll never forget Brother Edward's ranting, "God knows I've tried!"

As Sophomores in February '55, we had added a new language and a new science to our intellectual diet, and we were being taught true Republicanism by Brother Theodore. No one will ever forget Mr. E. Reilly's reign of terror (by the way – what did happen to his roll book?); nor being introduced to Dickens and Shakespeare by the cynical Mr. Farrington and the ambitious Mr. Cowden.

In the fourth term we spent our time singing French Christmas Carols and making clocks, and before long we came to the realization that half of our school career was over.

In our Junior year Mr. Ellinghaus stunned the class by saying, "Bettigole, you're an eight ball!" After listening to the eminent Mathematics Department Chairman expound on the psychology of teaching, we decided that he was definitely not a believer in Progressive Education (what IS a gazinta?). Also in this year we recall Fred Hanser's attempts to invent a thermometer by which we could determine Brother Michael's boiling point. However the experiment proved unnecessary as Bob Conway found an easier method when book reports were due.

Frank Kehoe showed his mastery of the French language in our third year with his "Continental Diction". Everyone listened in amazement as Frank put his theory of English pronounciation of French into practice—everyone that is, with the exception of Frere Linus, who propounded an entirely different treatment of the language. For his efforts, Mr. Kehoe was affectionately titled "Francoise" by his classmates.

Looking back one also recalls the famous Reilly-Heenan debate: "To Jug or not to Jug"; and the club that was formed with a failure in Health and Safety being a prime requisite for membership. It was moderated by Brother Cabrini and we are sure that all nine members will distinguish themselves in later life in the field of human anatomy.

In the sixth term John Gallagher's suspicions that Fred Hanser was the mad bomber were proven untrue as the real culprit was apprehended. Incidentally, what did happen to John Finn's history exemption? Remember the time we were all suffering from battle fatigue? All you had to do was touch an eraser and everyone would make a mad rush for the door. Or the time we were told to bring in twenty-five cents as a contribution to a worthy cause—or else. The next day we all went down to the cafeteria and got as many pennies as possible. When Brother called for the money we gladly obliged, and the coins made a pile about a foot deep on his desk. To our amazement, he never said a word about the episode . . . until the end of the period when, in a calm voice, he informed us that we were to roll them after dismissal.

Remember the time in 6-0 when we tried to sabotage the cafeteria by starting a rally in it. We began screaming and marching around gathering recruits as we went. All of a sudden we ran into the beaming face of Brother Mario, menacingly standing by the exit with a pile of jug slips in his hand. That sure broke up fast!

Our class certainly had its share of athletic heroes. In our midst were such standout performers as Tony Armstead, who was the first Junior lineman in the history of the school to make every all-city team, John Finn of track renown, and Mike Murphy, the smiling Irishman, who played both football and basketball. In addition, there wasn't a better marble player than Dick Kuscsik.

There is nothing left of our three and one half year stay at St. Francis but clouded memories of happy days. We have taken with us not only a diploma in academic subjects, but also valuable training in working together and in leadership. From our years at the Prep, in being exposed to the spirit of Franciscanism, which we hope always to represent, we have obtained a realization of the necessity of brotherhood. To the Brothers and to the lay faculty at St. Francis we are indebted for molding our lives with careful guidance and thorough preparation.

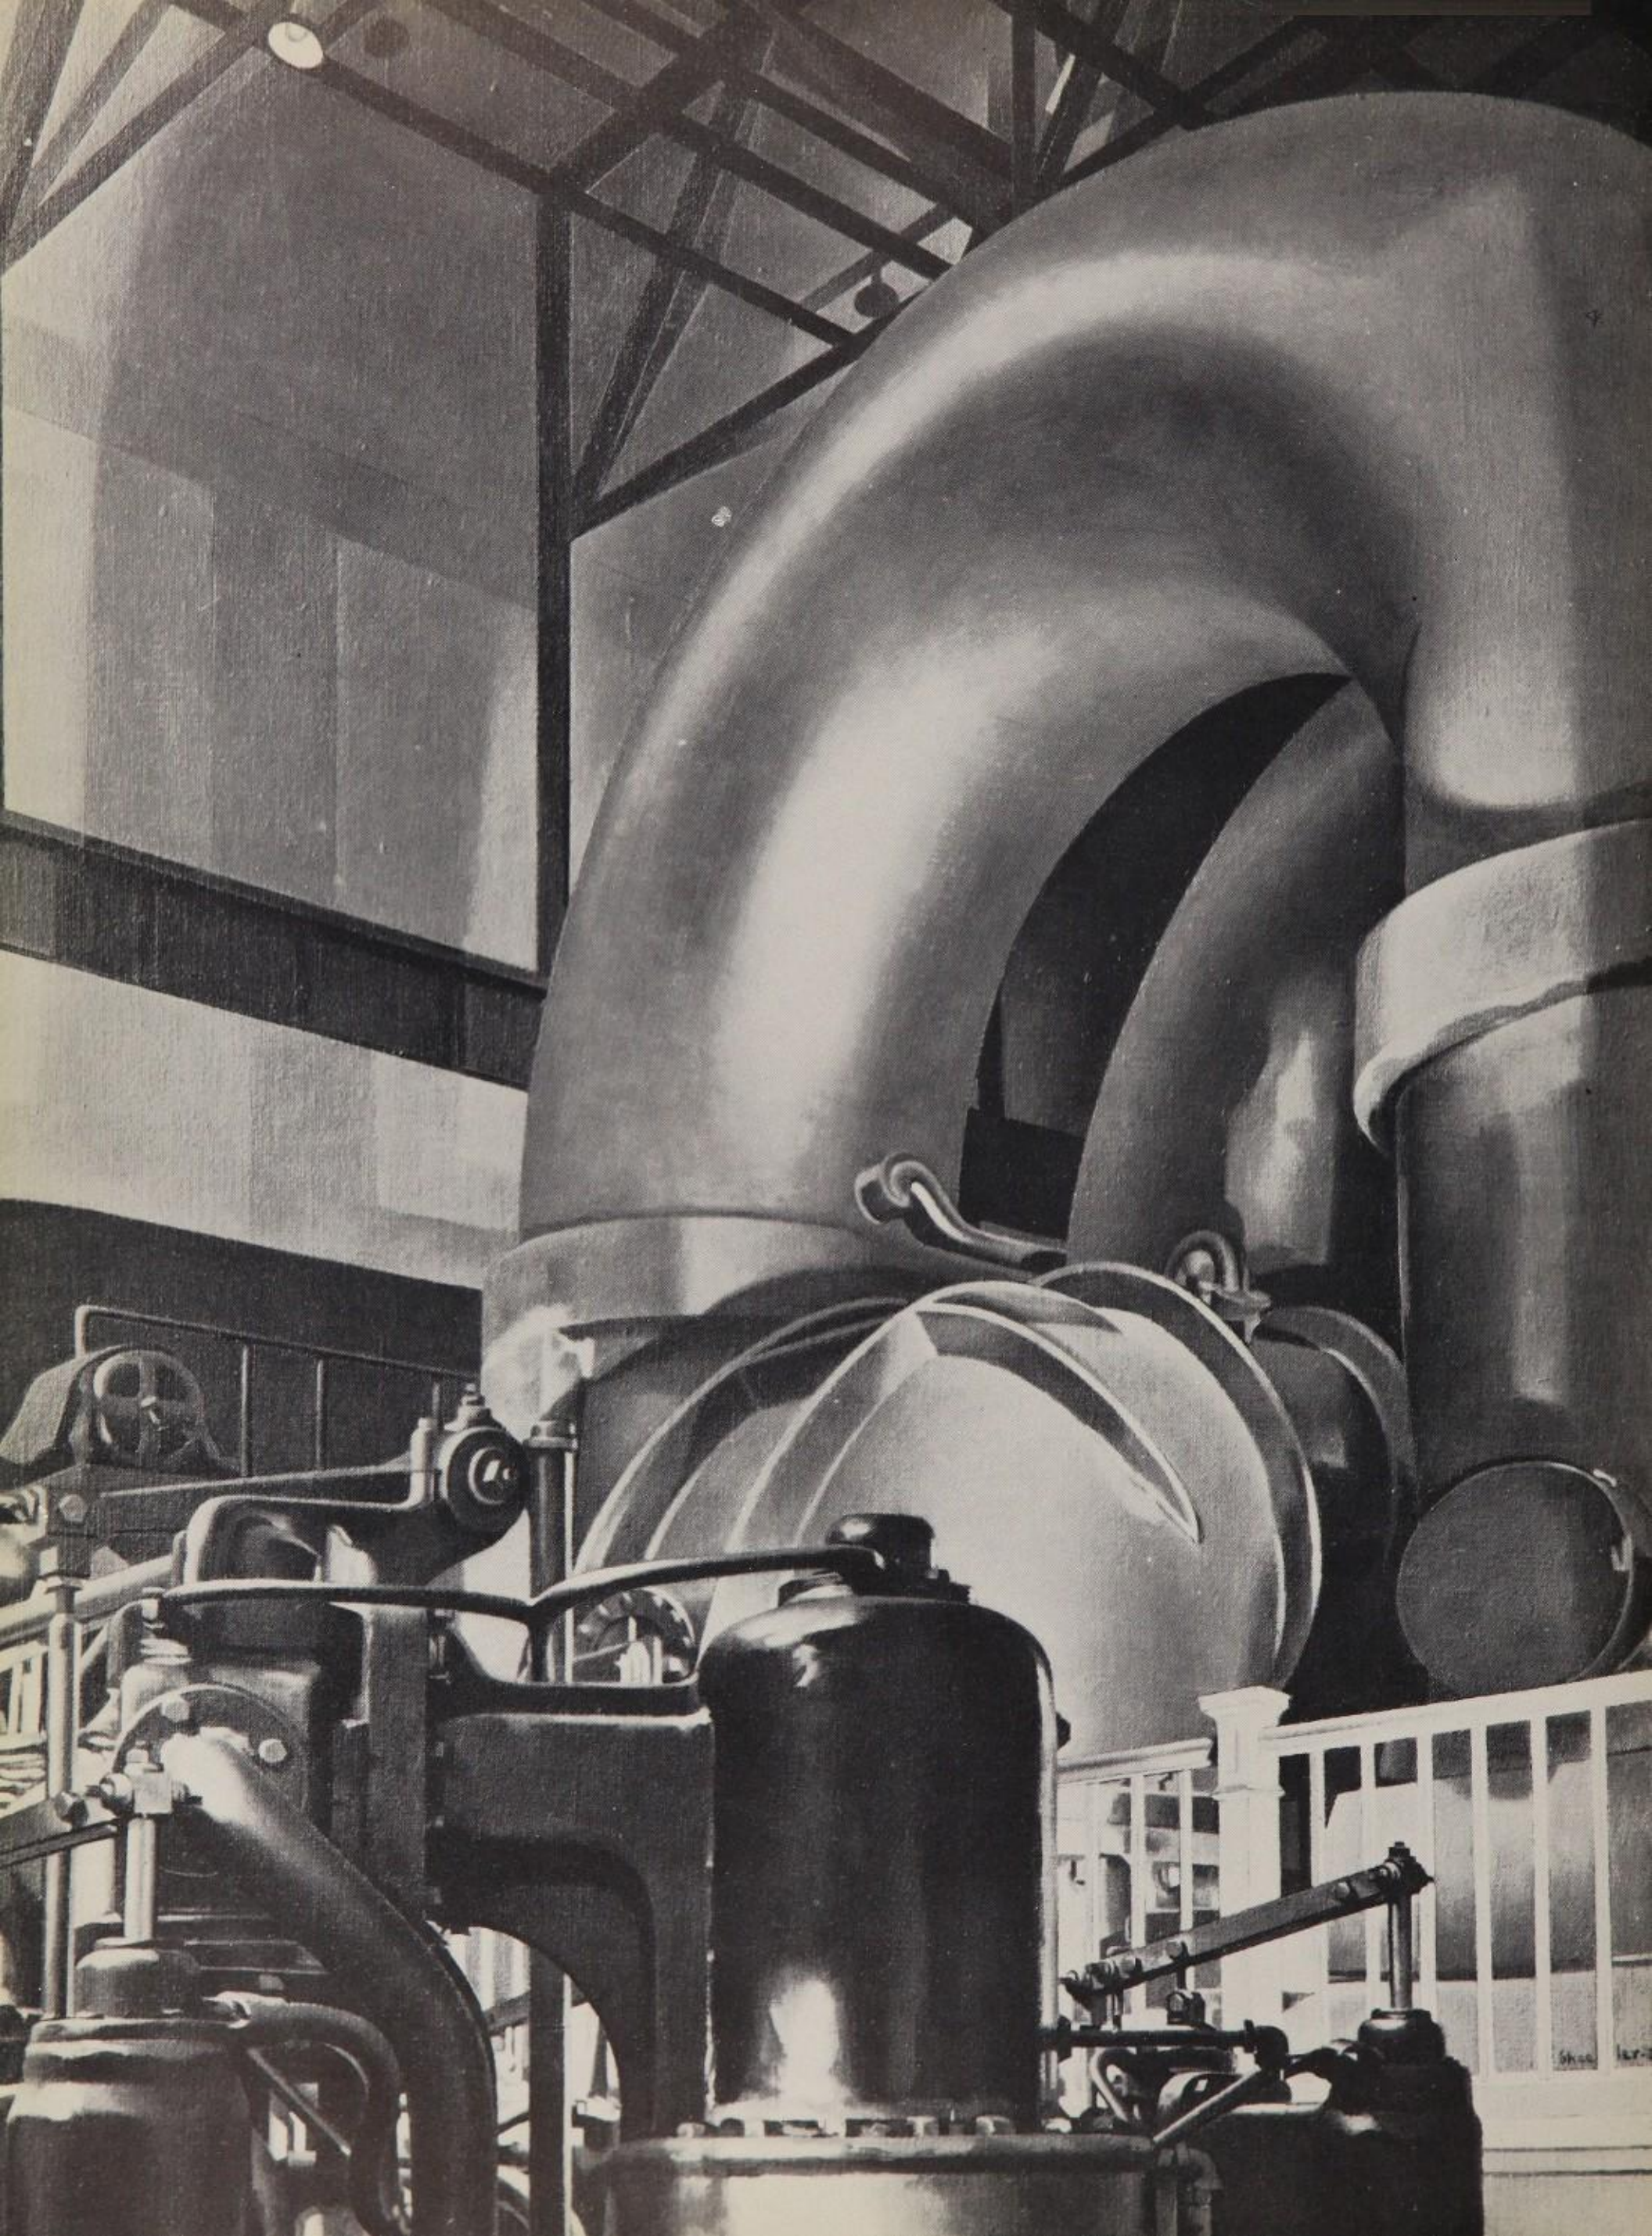
Lou Fratangelo receives the French Medal.



like hidden turbines injecting strength through power plants, prep life is sustained by the departments of...

the school

The submerged, whirling turbine acting as the backbone of any workshop is an essential factor of production. Similarly, the school departments, in their unheralded functions, form a nucleus about which Prep life revolves. Because of their directive influences, all the diverse operations of St. Francis, from the emblem on the trackman's breast to the "Little Terrier" inscribed on the hull of the Power Boat, must look to them for the successful achievement of their ends.

These departments then, explain much that concerns our progress. The Library, for example, with its recent additions of hundreds of volumes stands now as a more substantial intellectual core of the curriculum. The Administration Department with its battery of calculators and printers performs the gargantuan task of assimilating the reams of clerical work that keep the school running efficiently. On a perhaps lower yet necessary plain, the Prep's new Cafeteria is probably appreciated adequately by only those veteran faculty members who tell us of the trials of Butler Street. Here we include the Student Council which, in addition to rounding out students through training in leadership, Democracy, and loyalty, also affords an opportunity for close cooperation between the faculty and the student body. Lastly there is the Guidance Department in its supervision of scholarship, its forums, its interviews, its career panels, its testing, and its coordination of faculty-parent-student relationships.

Certainly, all these, in their often unobserved employments carry forward the progressive life of the school.

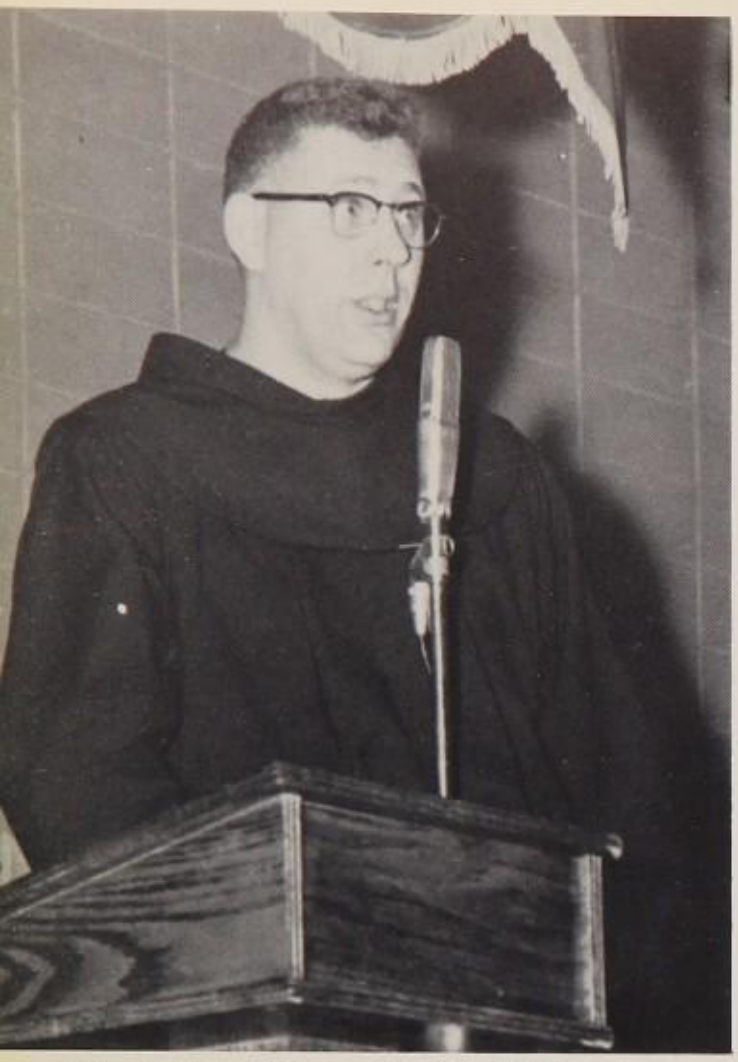
Guidance Department



The Guidance Director, Brother Felician, in his familiar role of forum chairman.

Fathers and mothers attend to Brother Vincent's admonitions on student problems in Latin at the February Parent Forum.

Educational, vocational, personal, and social questions or problems of Prepsters find their solutions through the Guidance Department. The Director of Guidance is Brother Felician. An addition to the Department in 1957 was the capable Brother Blaise who serves as Assistant Director.

The Department sponsors many programs to assist students throughout the year. In addition to the two Directors, Brothers Regis, Robert, and Fabian assist in educational and vocational planning. Talks on school procedures orient incoming freshmen. Periodic group guidance classes are given to the entire student body. And, an extensive testing program, which is conducted annually, makes clear mental ability and vocational preference. A Career Day is held every two years for the upperclassmen, and an Educational Forum is conducted each year. Parent Forums are held at least once a semester. A Guidance Bulletin Board is maintained in the cafeteria and the Career File in the Library offers literature on every type of occupation.

A reading improvement program is also carried on by the Department. The specially trained, Brother Fabian, directs the program using the most modern of reading equipment and techniques.

Junior testing time finds Joe Volpicello, Jerry Nichols, Jerry Keegan, and Frank Munari, working their way through aptitude tests conducted by the Guidance Department.

Brother Felician points out the advantages of St. Francis College to underclassman Bill Blenk who ponders about his future.

Walter Morley's rating on the thorny College Board Exam is evaluated by the Guidance Director.

A panel comprised of parents, Mr. Palumbo and Mrs. Amery, and Brother Regis discussed the social difficulties of adolescents at the December Forum.

Brother Blaise, the Assistant Guidance Director, coaches Jim Sammon in cataloging procedures for the Guidance Club. To provide Prepsters with practical reference material concerning secular and religious vocations, this Club maintains the Career File located in the Library.

Dr. Daniel Sullivan of St. John's University, guest speaker of the first Parent Forum, speaks of the high school student's social adjustments.

Mr. Theodore Ellinghaus, head of the St. Francis Mathematics Department, analyzed student problems with mathematics at the February Forum.

Student Council

Student Council President, Michael Esposito, addresses the student body at the campaign assembly.

Vice President of the Student Council, Jim Brucia, quotes from the Crown to make his point at the last rally before the Council elections.

A student bank to promote saving among Prepsters, afternoon dances in the cafeteria to encourage social development, and the inauguration of a girl cheerleading squad which sparked Terrier spirit during the football season, were the outstanding new programs established by the 1957 Council. These and the regular duties of the group were carried out under President-elect Mike Esposito, his officers chosen from within the Council, and the assembly consisting of the Presidents of each class. With solid support from the Administration, the Student Council in its fourth year of existence at the new St. Francis has given the student body the opportunity to participate in the direction of Prep activities.

Co-moderators of the Council, Brother Alphonsus and Mr. Reilly, supervise a meeting.

Defeated presidential candidate, Phil Cottone, consults with Don Kauke, his campaign manager.

The Council stands by as Secretary Bart Hargadon reads the minutes.

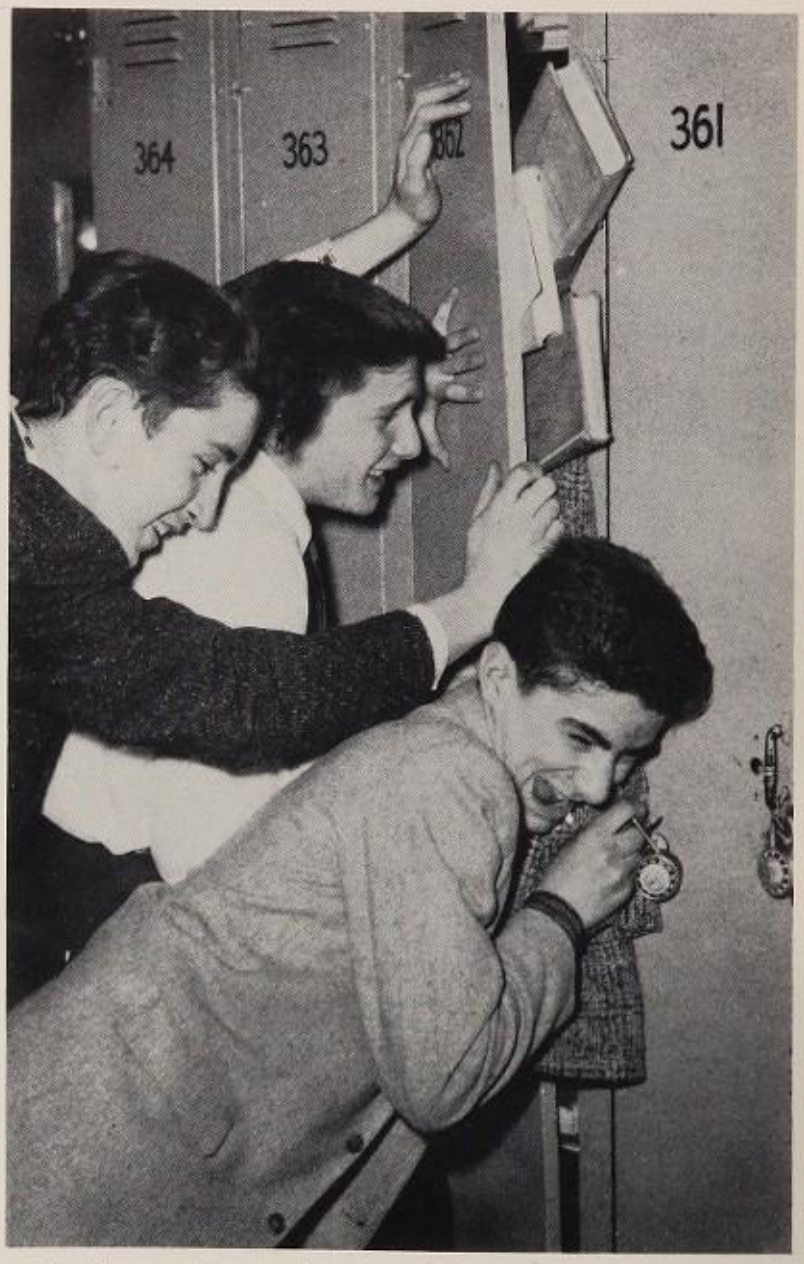
YEAR IN REVIEW

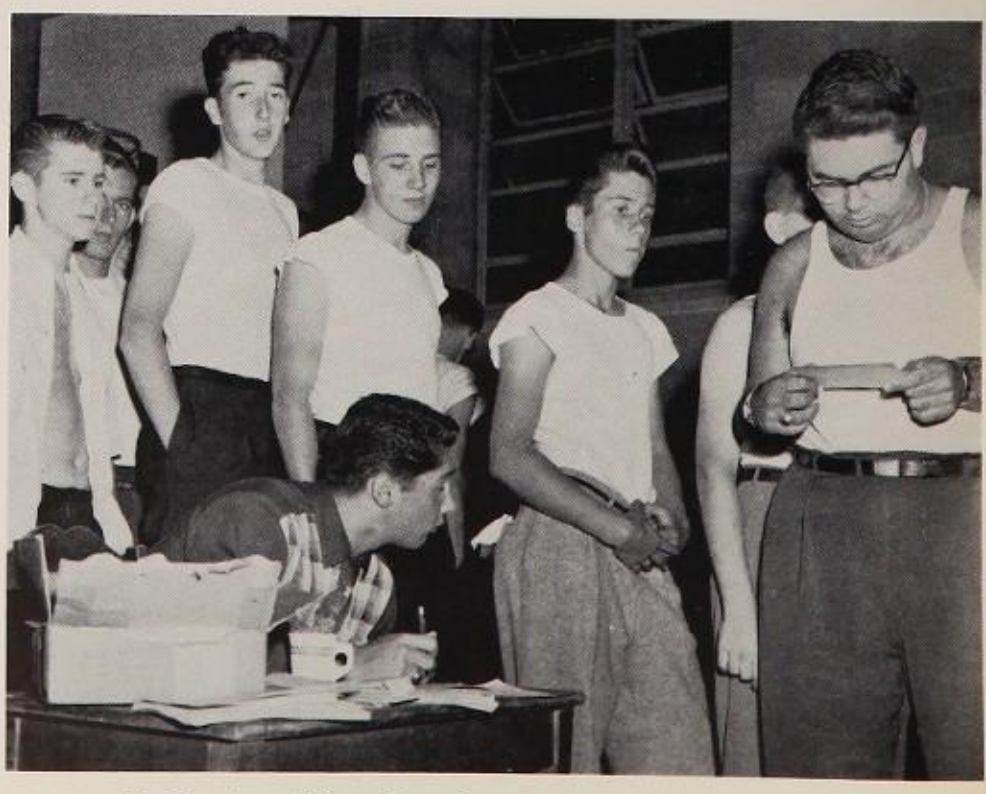
Coupled with the routine of passing terms, each year has a character that is all its own . . .

Brothers Fabian and Vincent usher incoming freshmen out of the gym beginning the school year.



Freshmen discover the inevitable problem of each new term—Andy Grieco, Al Attianese, and John Carlo struggle with lockers.

George Kaiser and John Gannon dream to the music of the Prep Band at the Halloween Dance.



Realization of last Prep days comes to seniors as they give their names to Mike Esposito, San Fran Editor, before graduation pictures are taken.

September
October

The football season introduced girl cheerleaders to St. Francis. Sally Dioguardi, Carol Quaid, Barbara Staudenmaier, Pat Strozak, Marian Murphy, hailing from St. Brendan's were coached by Mrs. Vincent O'Connor.

The booming voice of Mr. Palumbo lent moral support to St. Francis throughout the football season.

During a rally before the St. John's game, Mr. O'Connor, head football coach, addresses the student body as Jim Brucia, rally chairman, calls for more volume from the schoolyard's loudspeaker hookup.

Ray Ratkowski, star St. Francis halfback, brought national acclaim to the Prep by his outstanding gridiron performances.

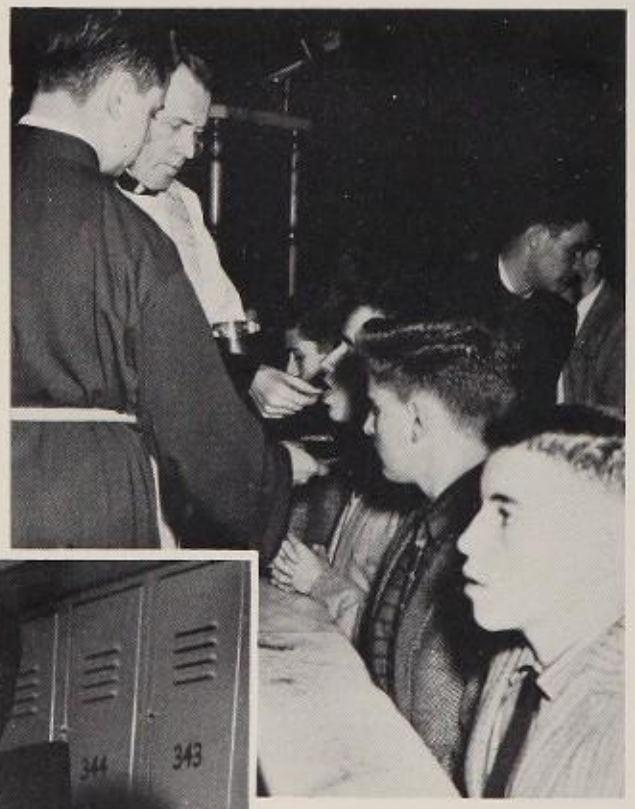
November

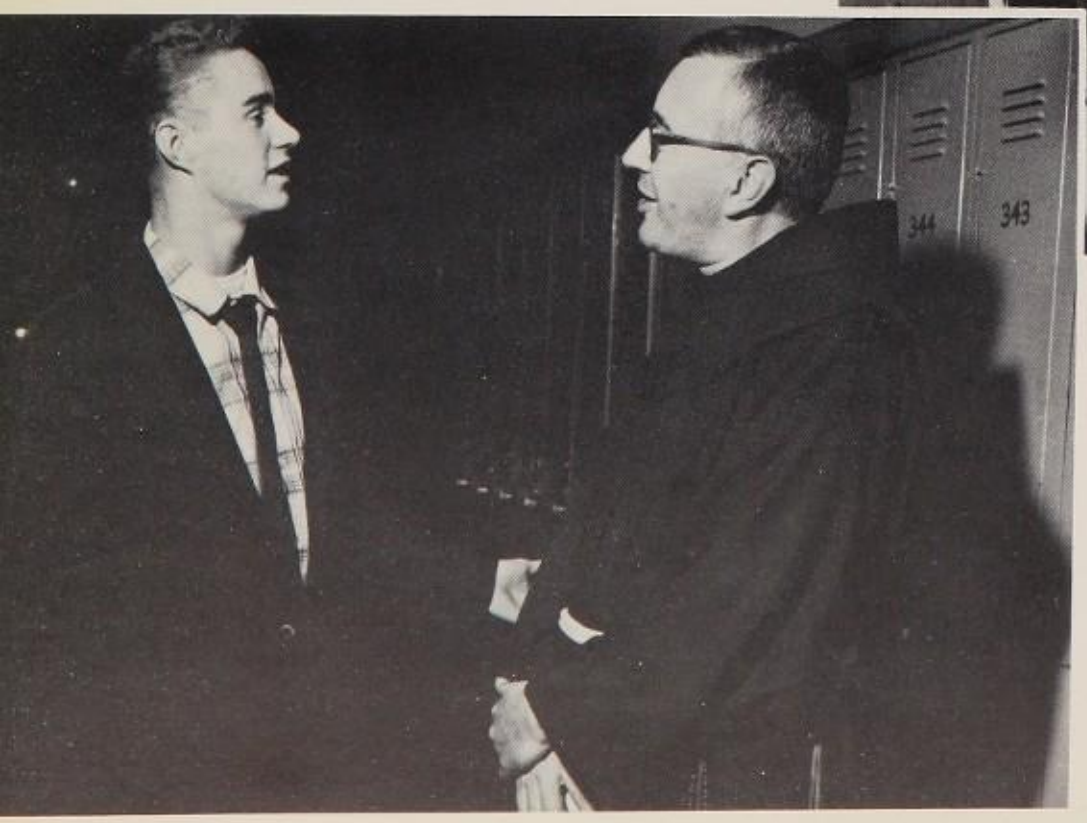
December

November monthly marks are out. A parent, Mr. Connolly, confers with Brother Noel about his son's report at the regularly scheduled Fathers' Guild meeting. Also in this month, the Guild held their annual Smoker in the gym.

A la Swan Lake, Brother Cosmas shows his agility at the December roller skating party.

Two chaplains see to the spiritual welfare of students. On the First Friday of November, Father Redmond (Right) distributes Communion. Father's other duties include daily Confession in the Friary, and publication of the monthly religious bulletin. Father Fink, (Below) Prep Religious Director, chatting with Walter Molen, makes periodic visits to the school.

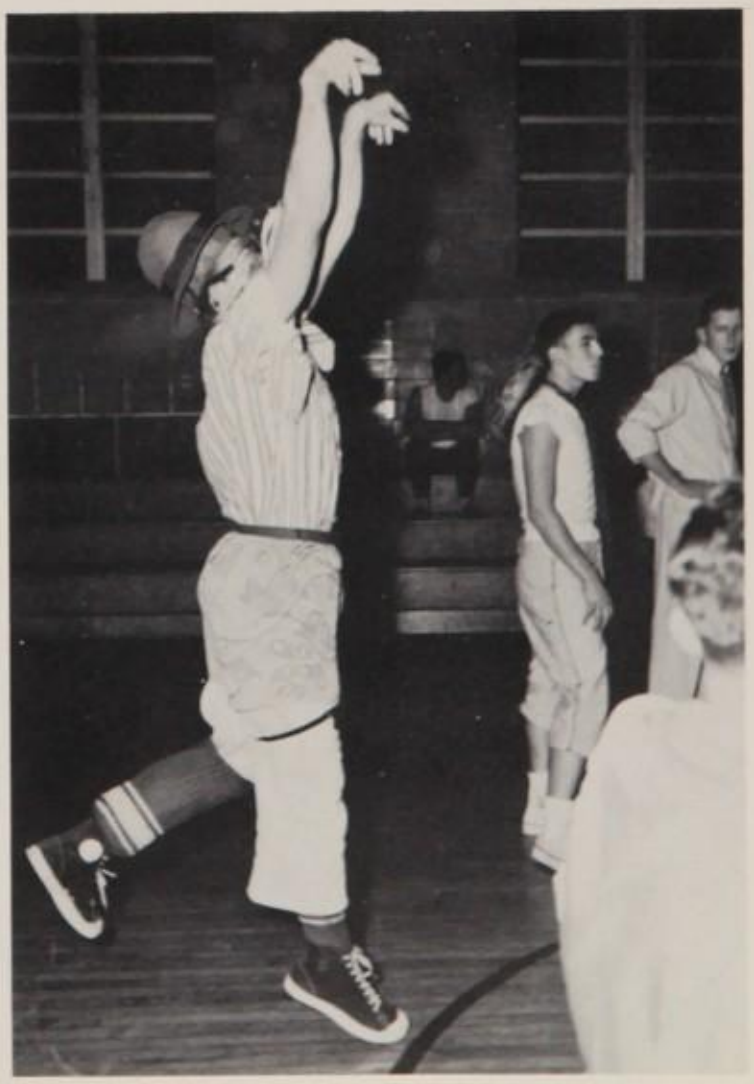




The Winter Carnival in December. Mr. Payne, dance committee moderator, jokes with Roland Damiano, dance chairman, and his guest.

Certain activities, of course, endure throughout the year. Morning jug session in December presents the shadowy figure of Brother Sebastian looming in the doorway.

Teenage Rebel? At the Christmas Assembly, the RKO Greenpoint Theater bulges with Prepsters.



Bob Cousy—beware! At the faculty-senior game, debonair Pete Gibbons lets loose with a set shot. A social followed in the cafeteria.

"Gulp!" Joe Skerrett stares at a prehistoric monster during a field trip to the Museum of Natural History sponsored by the Galvani Society, and directed by Mr. Paul Marone of the Museum staff.

January
February

Two annual Retreats were held in February. The first, for underclassmen, was directed in St. Vincent's Church by Father Kerr, O.F.M. (Above); the second, for seniors, at the Passionist Monastery in Jamaica supervised by Brothers Benignus (right) and Noel.

The Senior Prom highlighted the January calendar. After meeting Brother Timothy, Jim Crosby introduces his date to Mr. and Mrs. Payne.

An era closes. The last January graduating class files into St. Vincent's.

Cherry Blossom Hop. John Gramas cavorts with his date.

Acceleration underway. Al Poltie is overwhelmed by the added burdens of the new program.

Expanding the curriculum with chemistry. Tony Gabriel experiments with a sugar and acid mixture.

The most successful season in track history saw the inauguration of the First Annual St. Francis Games. Mr. Hegarty, father of the deceased Frank (705), presents a Memorial Trophy to Snider High School.

Tom Stith, elected to the Catholic All-Star Team, receives a watch from Brother George, President of the CHSAA. Tom's record breaking performances sparked a team that won the City Championship, and placed second in the National Invitation Tournament.

March to June

In the final months of the school year, even more firsts appeared. (Top) Students made over 1500 purchases at the Book Fair sponsored by the Bantam Company. (Middle) The Little Portion's staff issued its first Spring issue. (Bottom) Weekly afternoon dances in the cafeteria were initiated by the Student Council.

"Previews of Progress" presented by the General Motors Corporation at the Prep in March. Among other demonstrations, a representative showed the flexibility of synthetic materials.

Brother Alphonsus, moderator of the Junior Prom, presents Phil Cottone, Prom Chairman, and Maureen Cuite, with a stuffed Terrier, a souvenir of the occasion.

The booming voice of Brother Benignus calling off the June Graduates signaled the end of Prep days for the Class of 1957.

Events ushering the year to a close. (Top) The Publication's Luncheon held after yearbook distribution saw Brother Timothy (in addition to humorous asides) congratulate Brother Michael and the San Fran staff on winning three national awards. (Middle) Warm weather brought the newly formed Skin Diving Club out of hibernation. (Bottom) On May 23rd, the entire school set sail for the annual Boat Ride.

St. Francis Preparatory School recognizes scholastic achievement in two societies. The first called the Optimates honors those attaining an over-all semester average of above 85%. For 1957, 304 students were so designated and, consequently, were awarded the Optimate Pin. But even above this meritorious ranking there exists the Principal's List. Enrollment here requires an average of over 95%. The San Fran closes with a dedication to those fourteen Prepsters who rose to this remarkable intellectual standard.
